All Members of "Irish Parliament" and Many Volunteers Are Reported Going.

UNIFORMS UNDER MUFTI

HOLD INQUEST WEDNESDAY

Government Is Then Expected to Surrender the Body to Relatives —Few Irish Disorders.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Inquiries which have been made on behalf of the Government from members of the family regarding the arrangements for the funeral of Lord Mayor MacSwiney have been interpreted by Father Dominic, the late Lord Mayor's private chaplain, as an indication that there will be no interference with the family's plans and that the body will be turned over to them immediately after the inquest. This, the Home Office states, will be held on Wednesday morning.

The body is still in the Brixton Prison mortuary, clothed in a coarse brown Franciscan habit, and the members of the family were continuing their vigil over it today.

The family of Lord Mayor MacSwiney has virtually completed arrangements for the funeral of the Lord Mayor. After lying in state in St. George's Cathedral, Southwark, from Wednesday evening until Thursday morning, requiem mass will be sung in the Cathedral at 11 o'clock, and at 2 o'clock in the afternoon the funeral procession will start to the Euston Station.

The cortège will include an advance guard and a pipers' band. Then will follow the clergy and the hearse, which will be surrounded by a bodyguard and followed by the chief mourners, representatives of the "Irish Republican Parliament," Deputy Lord Mayor O'Callaghan and the members of the Cork Corporation and representatives of other Irish civic bodies and kindred organizations.

Wear Sinn Fein Colors.

It is reported from Dublin that all the members of the Dail Eireann, or "Irish Republican Parliament," intend to come to London for the obsequies here. It is also stated that a bodyguard of fifty Irish Volunteers will attend the funeral party throughout the journey.

A deputation of twenty-one members of the Corporation of Cork, headed by Deputy Mayor O'Callaghan, arrived this morning to attend the London services and accompany the funeral party to Cork. Ten members of the Cork Harbor Board also are here, together with many persons prominent in the civic and commercial life of Cork and other Irish cities.

The police guard at Brixton Prison was increased again today. The total number of the guard there is unknown, as most of the troops are kept under cover, but there is a considerable garrison inside the gates.

Sinn Feiners who arrived from Cork and other parts of Ireland today for the obsequies went to Brixton Prison in little parties throughout the day to see where the Lord Mayor had died. They were all wearing Sinn Fein colors draped with mourning. Enterprising street venders were also selling Sinn Fein rosettes bordered with mourning, close to the prison entrance, while the police looked on without comment.

Deputy Lord Mayor O'Callaghan and other members of the Cork Corporation visited the prison this afternoon and were granted permission to view MacSwiney's body.

Newspapers Divided on Effect.

Articles on the death of MacSwiney occupied much space in this morning's newspapers, regardless of their political views. Some of the journals refrained from commenting editorially on the situation which has arisen, while others have written in accordance with their customary attitudes on the Irish question.

The Times, which is hostile to the Government's Irish policy and the Irish bill prepared by the Cabinet, severely attacks the Government, especially in the matter of reprisals. Referring specifically to MacSwiney, the newspaper expresses the fear that the effect of his death will not be confined to the British Isles, but it recalls that it has always maintained that the Irish question was essentially British.

While asserting that the Lord Mayor was a "misguided, but sincere, patriot dying for his convictions," the Morning Post says: "We cannot perceive what relation can exist between suicide and martyrdom, we cannot forget the many loyal servants of their country who have been shot down in the mere performance of their duty in Ireland, and for whose memory there is no meritorious appeal nor fallacious sentimentality."

The Daily News says that the Government imprisoned MacSwiney as a criminal and converted him into a martyr, and must bear responsibility for his death.

"Every day," the newspaper declares, "Ireland is being welded more surely and more irresistibly by the Premier and his armies into a nation that will not be conquered. Irish nationalism will be given a stimulus almost incal-

Convict Silent Ten Years, To be Released Today

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—Patrick J. Hanley, known in the State Prison as "Corky the Silent," who was committed in October, 1895, as an habitual criminal and has refused to utter a word for the last ten years, will be released tomorrow, his sentence, which was prolonged by attempts to escape and a counterfeiting scheme, having expired.

Hanley took a vow of silence after a fellow prisoner revealed to the Warden a secret plan with which Hanley had intrusted him. Since then he has communicated only by signs and in writing.

Miners' Leaders and Government Start Formal Parley, but Adjourn Abruptly.

OFFER MINERS RISE ASKED

But Cost of Coal to the Public Is to Depend on Amount of Production.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—By 7 o'clock this evening progress toward a settlement of the miners' strike was apparent. Informal conversations which have been going on since Sunday morning were transformed into formal negotiations between the miners' executive and the Government at 11:30 this morning, following a two hours' meeting of the miners' executive at their headquarters.

Representatives of the coal owners also attended the conference at Downing Street, which, beginning at 11:30, lasted until 2:20 and resumed again at 4 o'clock this afternoon. A belief that something like finality is being reached in the negotiations is based on, first, the presence of the coal owners' representatives at Downing Street, and second, the fact that the Prime Minister recently said he would be loath to call a conference together until a basis had been reached which looked like leading to complete agreement.

At a late hour tonight there was some appearance of a hitch having occurred. At 6 o'clock there had been a meeting of the Cabinet, and at 7:30 the conference between the miners' executive and the Government was resumed. When it ended it was announced that a final decision had not been reached, because the Government had come to the conclusion that further conference with the mine owners' representatives was necessary. This meeting will take place tomorrow morning.

It is learned from responsible sources that the latest scheme being considered by the Government and miners' executive is as follows: The miners to receive a two shillings increase and possibly other increases provisionally from Oct. 1, the provisional period to last until a national wages board has agreed upon a scheme. These increases, made provisionally, to be based on the gross turnover of coal; the National Wages Board to be set up at once to determine what amounts of coal revenue to be allotted to wages, and what profits should be taken out of industry, this to vary according to the fluctuations of revenue during three months.

Immediate increases of two shillings during the provisional period are not to entail any increase in the price of coal nor is the coal strike to entail any such increase.

The Wages Board is expected to put forward its recommendations toward the end of December, and at the close of the year the increase would therefore be reviewed in the light of this report and in accordance with the fluctuations of revenue.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—(Associated Press)—The House of Commons tonight was occupied in passing the Emergency bill through all its stages after the second reading. This bill provides for all contingencies arising in the United Kingdom should the miners' strike involve the railway and transport workers.

In the House last night a motion for the rejection of the bill offered by William C. Adamson, Labor leader, was defeated by a vote of 357 to 55, and the measure was passed to second reading. Liberal and Labor leaders, including H. H. Asquith, former Premier; J. H. Thomas, Mr. Adamson and John Robert Clynes, former Food Controller,

MINEOLA, L. I., Oct. 26.—The Nassau County Grand Jury, which has been hearing evidence in a John Doe inquiry as to gambling in Nassau County, returned indictments against five politically prominent citizens of the county at 5 o'clock this evening. The men indicted were:

Former State Senator Thomas H. O'Keefe, a Democratic leader in Oyster Bay Township for some years, now Postmaster of Oyster Bay.

J. Wilbur Doughty, Supervisor of Hempstead, L. I.

Joseph P. ("Curly Joe") Cassidy, former Borough President of Queens and ex-political "boss" of that borough, and a central figure in the judiciary scandal in Kings and Queens Counties in 1911. Cassidy was convicted of trafficking in a judiciary nomination, and, with William Willett, Jr., served a term in the Great Meadow Prison, Comstock, N. Y.

The indictments were turned in to Supreme Court Justice Townsend Scudder, who has had active charge of the investigation, assisted by District Attorney Charles R. Weeks.

Allegations Not Disclosed.

Justice Scudder left the courtroom before the nature of the indictments could be learned from him, and District Attorney Weeks declined to disclose the allegations. At Justice Scudder's home, 112 Willow Street, Brooklyn, nothing could be learned last night. His telephone had been temporarily disconnected. District Attorney Weeks had not returned to his home up to a late hour.

In the absence of any official statement on the nature of the crime charged, persons familiar with the John Doe inquiry were inclined to believe that the men were indicted because of alleged connection with the Nassau County gambling "ring" which the investigation has revealed. The last phase of the John Doe inquiry was to determine whether any officials of the county in any way had conspired to protect the gamblers.

But the inquiry also brought out considerable testimony which is reported to have connected officials with an organized traffic in stolen automobiles, and it was pointed out that the indictments may have resulted from this angle of the inquiry. This, however, was but a secondary conjecture last night.

District Attorney Weeks and his assistants have been unusually anxious, it is known, to obtain information about an alleged intermediary—the man who is alleged to have passed protection money from the gamblers to officials.

Whether the Grand Jury obtained direct information as to the intermediary is not known. At all events, after John Shaughnessy, who was indicted recently with Colonel "Lou" Betts as a common gambler, had testified, Justice Scudder announced that Shaughnessy had rendered valuable assistance to the people of Nassau County. Shaughnessy, it was said, had supplied the necessary link in an important chain of testimony. Shaughnessy received a suspended sentence from Justice Scudder. "Lou" Betts disappeared and later turned up in Virginia, where he succeeded in defeating extradition. William H. Busteed and David Gideon, convicted gamblers, also testified last week. None of

Wilson Cannot Make Speeches on the League; Says to Do So 'Is Not Wise or Possible' Now

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—President Wilson today wrote a letter that puts an end to efforts to have him make a campaign speech, or a series of speeches, in behalf of the Democratic national ticket. In declining an invitation to address a Democratic rally tonight at Masonic Temple in Washington, the President said: "It is not wise or possible for me to do so at present."

The letter was addressed to John F. Costello, Democratic National Committeeman from the District of Columbia, who is on close terms with the White House. The letter follows:

My Dear Mr. Costello:—

I need not tell you that if I were able to do so it would be a pleasure for me to be present and make an address at the meeting to be held in the interest of the League of Nations at new Masonic Temple tonight; but I am sorry to say that it is not wise or possible for me to do so at present.

I hope that the meeting will have the most complete success and a very widespread interest.

Sincerely yours,
WOODROW WILSON.

More than a month ago, when it was understood that President Wilson was improving in health, the desire was expressed by men prominent in the Democratic campaign that he undertake to make some speeches in behalf of Governor Cox's candidacy. One suggestion was that the President make a series of eight speeches in as many large cities.

About that time it became known that the President had had a slight setback in his progress toward restoration of health. It was said then that this setback was not of a serious character, but it was sufficient to forbid the President's taking any chances through participation in the excitement of the campaign. He now appears able to do a considerable amount of work, holds Cabinet meetings weekly and takes a drive daily.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—A curious story is told of an experience of the United States torpedo boat destroyer Broom at Kiel. The vessel received a wireless message instructing her to proceed to the Baltic in order to render assistance to the United States battleship Pittsburgh, which was ashore. When the Broom reached the end of the Kiel Canal another wireless was received stating that the Pittsburgh was afloat again, and instructing the Broom to remain at Kiel.

The officer commanding the torpedo boat destroyer applied to the German naval authority at Kiel for berthing accommodation in the harbor. The German Admiral in command refused to grant this, pointing out that the United States was still at war with Germany.

The American officer replied that he had orders to stay in Kiel.

"If you do I shall open fire," was the German Admiral's response.

"Open fire if you like," the American retorted, "but here I stay until I am blown out of the water."

The Broom stayed, and has not been blown out of the water yet.

WRECKER GIVES TESTIMONY

Union Chief Says His Men Were Forced to Give $10 a Week to Brindell Organization.

An Extraordinary Term of the Supreme Court will be convened immediately to take up evidence of the scandal in the building trades presented to the Lockwood Joint Legislative Committee on Housing. Attorney General Charles D. Newton will handle the case before the investigating body. This was announced last night by Governor Alfred E. Smith.

The action of the Governor eliminated District Attorney Edward Swann from the case as well as the present Extraordinary Grand Jury of which Raymond F. Almirall is foreman. As it will take about a month to convene the new Extraordinary Grand Jury, the regular additional Grand Jury that is to be sworn in on Monday will take up any special matters that may be found necessary.

The Governor's statement was given out by Joseph Proskauer, his campaign manager, at the Biltmore. It was said to have the approval of Samuel Untermyer, who is conducting the investigation into the building materials "trust." Alfred J. Talley, Assistant District Attorney, and Attorney General Newton. It follows:

"I have conferred with the Attorney General, Mr. Untermyer, and Mr. Talley, representing Judge Swann, and we are all in thorough agreement that the housing inquiry is of sufficient importance to require the submission of its findings which indicate crime to an extraordinary term of the Supreme Court.

Would Impanel New Jury.

"I am of the opinion that an extraordinary grand jury should be impaneled which will be able to give all of its time to this work. The present extraordinary Grand Jury has been in session over a year and it is not in the public interest to continue it for the great additional time which this inquiry will take.

"In accordance with Mr. Untermyer's request, I shall also designate the Attorney General to conduct the inquiry assuming that he will confer authority on Mr. Untermyer and his associates to appear before the Grand Jury. The extraordinary term will be convened immediately. In the meantime, in order to expedite any special matters that may arise during the brief interval which must elapse while the new Grand Jury is being called, the District Attorney has consented to confer authority on Mr. Untermyer and his associates to appear at once before the regular additional Grand Jury that will convene on Monday, so that where necessary, immediate action may be taken. This Grand Jury and all its proceedings and matters brought before it in connection with the subject will be under the exclusive control of the Attorney General and those whom he may deputize for the purpose. This arrangement meets with the full approval of all concerned."

$10 a Week Dues Demanded.

On the heels of the announcement new and startling allegations were made in the building trades scandal. William Zaranko, Secretary of House Wreckers' Union 14949 told of a proposal made to him by a number of Robert P. Brindell's Building Trades Council to the effect that if he turned over the $7,000 in the treasury of his union he would be employed by the Brindell organization as a walking delegate for three years at $75 a week.

Each of the 1,800 men in the union, said Zaranko, would be expected, according to the alleged proposal, to join a union affiliated with the council as individual members, paying an initiation fee of $50, or $90,000 for all the men, and $10 a week to the council as long as they worked at the trade of house wrecking.

When the offer was refused, employers in the house-wrecking business dismissed Zaranko's men and, to support their families, the men had to take out working cards in Brindell's organization at $5 a week, Zaranko said. He estimated that of the 1,800 men in his union, from 700 to 800 were now holding cards of both organizations and paying the council from $7,000 to $8,000 weekly.

Zaranko's differences with the Building Trades Council date back about six months, when there was talk of his organization joining forces with the council. When it appeared that Zaranko's men would not join Brindell's organization on the terms advanced by the latter, an organization in the council was given jurisdiction over the house wreckers, it was said.

Rank Job to Be Organized.

"The Brindell people tried to disorganize my union in every way they could," said Zaranko. "They said they would not give us a local union at all and that if we came into the council we would have to come as individuals. They wanted $50 a head from our 1,800

TRAVIS INVESTED $156,630 IN WALL ST.

END INVESTIGATION TODAY

Wendell, Republican Candidate, Will Be Asked About His Financial Affairs.

State Controller Eugene M. Travis's personal investments since 1916 through six brokerage firms, of which sales records have been obtained by the District Attorney, totalled $156,630, according to evidence read yesterday into the record of the John Doe inquiry into the purchase of bonds for the State sinking fund. The evidence relating to Mr. Travis's personal financial transactions was introduced at the suggestion of Chief Justice Frederic Kernochan of Special Sessions following the Controller's refusal to answer questions relating to his affairs, for which he was declared in contempt of court on Monday.

Following the introduction of the records of Mr. Travis's stock deals, Assistant District Attorney Pecora, who is conducting the investigation, announced that he would complete the inquiry tomorrow with the examination of James A. Wendell, Deputy Controller and Republican candidate for Controller. Mr. Wendell will also be questioned about his personal finances, Mr. Pecora said.

Mr. Travis will have an opportunity to appear tomorrow to add anything he wishes to add to his testimony, Justice Kernochan announced. If he decides to answer the questions at which he balked on Monday in an attempt to mitigate his adjudged contempt he may do so, or he may make any statement to clear up the record with regard to the State's purchases of bonds which, the inquiry has shown, have resulted in profits of nearly $1,000,000, chiefly to Albert L. Judson and George B. Gibbons & Co.

Record of Travis's Investments.

Lafayette B. Gleason, counsel for the Transfer Tax Bureau, figured in one of the Controller's purchases of bonds, according to the records. A representative of Ladd & Wood of 7 Wall Street produced that firm's transcript of dealings with the Controller, showing that in April, 1918, Mr. Gleason's checks had paid for part of a purchase of 100 shares of Brooklyn Edison.

Besides the bond dealers, the only other witness was William Boardman, Deputy State Controller in charge of the New York office. Mr. Boardman, who signed a waiver of immunity before he testified, was questioned regarding the "moral obligation bond purchase," in which the Controller sacrificed $120,000 of State funds to save William S. Fanshawe, a broker, from bearing the entire loss on a deal in which the bonds depreciated before they were formally ordered by the State.

COX OPENS DRIVE FOR VOTE OF OHIO; ASKS SENATE HELP

PLEADS 'DON'T TIE MY HANDS'

CALLS MACSWINEY MARTYR

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 26.—Returning to Ohio to fight Senator Harding for the twenty-four votes of their home State, Governor James M. Cox continued today to address throngs which by their size and enthusiasm were accepted by his supporters as testimony to the quickened impulse of the Democratic Presidential candidate's campaign.

The Governor declared tonight that it was no longer a question of counting his crowds by the thousands, but of measuring them by the acre.

Favorable reports met the Governor as he crossed the Ohio River on a ferry boat which he helped to guide to the shore. A crowd of his old political friends greeted him as he once more set foot on the soil of the Buckeye State and assured him that "the swing" was on in Ohio to an even greater extent, they believed, than could be true in other parts of the country. The change was so great, the Governor was told, that it would sweep him to victory next Tuesday. He took up the tidings and conveyed them to his audiences.

"It has been a long, hard fight," he said, "but victory is ours. Some time ago we drove the enemy out of the first and second line trenches. Now he has been driven from his last defences and is on the run."

Big Meeting in Cincinnati.

The end of another remarkable day of campaigning came in this city tonight with a meeting in Music Hall, where thousands, unable to gain admittance, stood outside to cheer the candidate as he made his way through them. Governor Cox has long been popular in Cincinnati, which is a Republican stronghold. He began his career here as a reporter on The Cincinnati Enquirer, and he had upset political tradition by capturing Hamilton County in one of his fights for the Governorship.

There has been grave doubt as to his ability to make much headway here this year on account of the big German vote. The Republicans are claiming this vote as solid. In size and enthusiasm, however, the meeting tonight took rank among the very best of the Cox demonstrations throughout the country.

With the exception of a visit to Indianapolis on Thursday evening and to Chicago on Saturday night, Governor Cox will devote the rest of his campaign to Ohio. This is accepted as the great battleground of the nation, and there appears to be agreement among many political observers that as Ohio goes so will go the country.

The Republicans have been centring their fight here for some time. More Republican money has been spent in this State, it is said, than in any other. The organization has been perfected down to minute details. By means of the thorough work of the party organization it is believed that virtually every Republican voter in the State has been registered. Particular attention has been paid to the negro women voters, for it is realized that they represent an absolutely solid Republican block.

The Democrats were slower in getting under way in the State, but they are working with wonderful spirit now. Senator Harding's continued presence in Marion has helped inspire the Republican workers. Governor Cox had to make a great tour of the country to get his campaign under headway and necessarily had to leave Ohio largely to his friends, but they have proved intensely loyal.

Gives Soldiers' Plea for League.

One of the most striking incidents of the campaign marked the Music Hall meeting tonight. In the midst of a fervent plea for the League of Nations, Governor Cox took from his pocket the last copy of "The Stars and Stripes," published in France by American soldiers. With the horrors of the war still fresh upon them, the editors of this paper made a stirring appeal for a League of Nations. They declared that it was only the men who had suffered in actual contact with the war at the front who could say what the heritage of the conflict should be.

Governor Cox said he knew that the men of the American expeditionary forces were for the League of Nations. He had talked with thousands of them, especially the wounded and disabled in hospitals. Other thousands had marched in the parades which had marked his campaign. At Phoenix, Ariz., a disabled soldier had said to him:

"Governor, no man who had to wear a gas mask for twelve hours will vote against you or the League of Nations in this campaign."

As has been the case with most of his meetings of late, the gathering in Music Hall took on marked fervor. Governor Cox brought tears to the eyes of some of his hearers when he read a letter from a Gold Star mother in New Jersey, who had sent four of her sons to the war and had lost two of them in France.

"Never Heard of Vanderlip," Says Harding, in Denial

MARION, Ohio, Oct. 26.—Direct denial was made by Senator Harding today of reports reaching the State Department that Washington D. Vanderlip was acting as his agent in Russia.

"I have never heard of Mr. Vanderlip," said the Senator. "He is not my agent, and I have no agent. I know absolutely nothing about any such matter as is discussed in these dispatches, and have no interest in it whatever."

The Republican nominee declined to comment specifically on the reported negotiations relating to possible American recognition of the Soviet Government of Russia. He said he considered his denial broad enough to make his position entirely clear and to serve notice to everyone concerned that he was not a party to any of Vanderlip's reported activities.

W. D. VANDERLIP'S DEAL WITH LENIN

Soviet Head Says He Posed as Agent of Harding and Talked of "Recognition."

HARDING DOESN'T KNOW HIM

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Secretary of State Colby announced last this afternoon that the State Department had received from Evan E. Young, the American Commissioner for the Baltic Provinces at Riga, an official report which stated that Lenin, head of the Russian Bolshevist Government, had informed H. G. Wells, the British novelist, that Washington D. Vanderlip of California, an American who was recently in Russia to obtain concessions, had said he represented Senator Warren G. Harding, the Republican candidate for President, and had made certain proposals regarding the recognition of the Soviet Government.

Secretary Colby was careful to add that the State Department possessed no other information regarding the alleged activities of Vanderlip and that the State Department was in possession of no information showing that Vanderlip had any authority whatever to speak for Senator Harding in anything that he may have said to Lenin. Wells has since returned from Moscow to England and Vanderlip is believed to have arrived at Copenhagen.

Secretary Colby explained that he was making the facts in the possession of the State Department public because he considered it a serious thing if the policy of the Government was being negatived or qualified by any American claiming to represent the United States Government or the Government that would be constituted as a result of the election of either Cox or Harding.

[Senator Harding, on hearing at Marion last night of Secretary Colby's statement, immediately stated that he had never even heard of W. D. Vanderlip and had no "representative" in Soviet Russia.]

Text of Secretary's Statement.

Department of State, Oct. 26, 1920.

Regarding the published report this morning from London that Washington D. Vanderlip of California had concluded an arrangement with the Russian Soviet Government for a large concession in Northeastern Siberia, the only dispatch bearing directly on the subject received by the State Department was one received Oct. 20 from the Commissioner for the Baltic Provinces at Riga. It states that Lenin has informed H. G. Wells that Vanderlip, the American then at Moscow, claimed to represent Senator Harding, and had made certain proposals regarding the recognition of the Bolsheviki Government. The dispatch further states that Vanderlip is apparently endeavoring to obtain coal concessions in Kamchatka.

Mr. Colby said:

"The Wells referred to in the dispatch is undoubtedly Mr. H. G. Wells, the British writer, who has lately returned to England from Russia, which I understand he visited for the purpose of obtaining first-hand impressions of conditions in Russia. The Vanderlip referred to in the dispatch is presumably Washington D. Vanderlip, to whom reference is made in the press dispatches of today from London and Los Angeles. These press reports lend confirmation to the object of Mr. Vanderlip's activities as revealed in the department's official dispatch and speak at length of important and extensive concessions which he claims to have received from the Soviet Government.

"The department has no information beyond that contained in the dispatch. I might say, however, that it comes without qualifying terms from an official of the department in whom we place much dependence. He is Evan E. Young, our Commissioner at Riga, and is charged with the duty of reporting to the department significant facts that come to his knowledge. The report that Mr. Vanderlip has made proposals looking to the recognition of the Soviet Government and is apparently bargaining thereon for valuable concessions makes it proper for me to state, by way of warning, that as the Government of the United States has never recognized the Bolshevist regime, American business men and investors should bear in mind that any concessions from the Bolshevist authorities have no certainty of recognition by future Russian Governments.

"It furthermore would be most regrettable if any confusion should arise in the minds of the Soviet authorities as to the attitude of this

FINDS CLASH WITH WILSON

Says It Means We Should Stay Out Until Association Clear to All Can Be Framed.

TAKEN TO UPHOLD BORAH

Irreconcilable Senator Had Urged in Senate That Article X. Was Not the "Worst."

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Oct. 26.—After reading the statement of Léon Bourgeois, President of the Council of the League of Nations, Senator Harding declared today that it demonstrated the impossibility of agreement upon the meaning of the covenant and its obligations.

M. Bourgeois was quoted as saying that "Article X. could be eliminated without in any way modifying the effectiveness of the League of Nations," that it was not considered so important by Europeans as by Americans and that "all that is efficacious in the covenant is set forth in other articles indicating penalties and sanctions."

"This is most illuminating," said Senator Harding. "We are told by the great American authority on the covenant, President Wilson, that Article X. is its heart. Now comes M. Bourgeois, President of the League Council, and says it is not important. He informs us that all that is efficacious in the covenant is set forth in other articles. This can only mean that, even if Article X. is eliminated, its effect would still be preserved in other articles. Doubtless he means the same effect. That was repeatedly charged during the Senate discussion and never convincingly denied.

"It all illustrates the utter impossibility of getting agreement as to what the covenant means, what it would obligate the United States to do. It is the complete demonstration that the only safety for the United States is to remain outside until we may unite upon a plan for an association of nations that shall mean the same thing to everybody and under which we shall know beyond uncertainty or equivocation our precise obligations. A free American can give that service to the world."

M. Bourgeois's statement is regarded here as one of the most important utterances by European statesmen regarding the League of Nations that has been made during the Presidential campaign in this country. For this reason, it is believed, Senator Harding counseled with his advisers before a statement was decided upon.

While M. Bourgeois's statement is interpreted as clashing with President Wilson's contention that Article X. is the heart of the covenant, it is regarded here as giving support to Senator Borah's contention that other articles of the covenant contain more serious obligations than Article X.

Senator Harding having declared more than once that his Des Moines address has been misinterpreted, today's statement is taken here to indicate that when the Senator was speaking in Iowa about "rejection" it was not the League itself he turned his back upon but certain obligations contained in the covenant.

He has interpreted Lloyd George and Viscount Grey and "unofficial French spokesmen" as expecting America to lead the way and that she can come into the League almost on her own terms. M. Bourgeois's statement, it is held here, intimates that the League can still be an effective instrument without some of the provisions which its adherents in this country insist must be preserved.

BELIEVES BOURGEOIS SPOKE UNOFFICIALLY

Washington Doubts He Expresses French View and Government Won't Take Cognizance of It.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Everything learned here today indicated that the Government would not take any official cognizance of the statement made to American newspaper men at Brussels by Leon Bourgeois, President of the Council of the League of Nations, that Article X. of the League covenant was not considered by European statesmen as a vital and essential element of the covenant. The disposition of the Government is to regard M. Bourgeois as having spoken merely in an unofficial capacity.

No Republican Senators are in Washington today and expressions of opinion as to the significance of M. Bourgeois's statement were not obtainable from any competent Republican source. It is expected, however, that the Republican campaign management, and probably Senator Harding, will seize upon the expressions of M. Bourgeois as showing that European statesmen were willing to modify the covenant to suit the views of the United States and would not object to having Article X. robbed of any binding obligation on League members.

assertions of M. Bourgeois. Secretary Colby had some comment to make when he was questioned by newspaper men, but he stated that what he had to say was said in his personal capacity and not as Secretary of State. He viewed Article X., he said, as giving vitality to the League covenant. Mr. Colby said also that the efforts of The Hague conference to provide some method for preserving peace had been vain and illusory because there was no underlying sanction that could be invoked. It did not necessarily follow from M. Bourgeois's remarks, he added, that France desired to eliminate Article X. from the covenant or to scrap the League.

A State Department official said M. Bourgeois "was not in a position to absolve the signatories from their own responsibilities."

The French Government, from all accounts, has not at any time made known to this Government views that coincided with those of M. Bourgeois at Brussels or with the statements of French opinion that Senator Harding claimed had been communicated to him by," spokesmen " of France.

JOHNSON SAYS HARDING IS AGAINST ANY LEAGUE

DETROIT, Oct. 26.—Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California, Michigan's preferential primary choice for the Republican presidential nomination, spoke in opposition to the League of Nations before two large audiences here tonight. The Senator received ovations lasting several minutes at both meetings.

Declaring that certain friends of Senator Harding had circulated reports that the Republican nominee was in favor of a League "that would not endanger American sovereignty," Senator Johnson said:

"Senator Harding never would consent to this country's entrance into any League of Nations. He never can give his consent to such a step."

COX HITS RACE INCITERS.

ATLANTA, Oct. 26.—Denunciation of certain politicians for efforts to pit class against class and race against race in the present national election is included in a letter received Tuesday by Frank L. Stanton, Jr., son of the Georgia poet and humorist, from Governor Cox.

"We are making this campaign," said Governor Cox's letter, "for peace and progress and for prosperity. An attempt has been made by our opponents to distract from the issue by setting up racial groups each with a selfish purpose. To each of these groups something has been promised. Nor has there been any consideration about the conflict in promises that have been made.

"None of those who have been against America in the last four years is going to vote for me. To my mind the most serious of all things presented is the attempt to arouse racial hatred.

"Promises have been made to the Afro-American Party which I do not believe the promisers have any intention of carrying out. There are some classes of social quality which cannot be, to quote the words of the immortal Lincoln, 'We do not want the negroes to be slaves, but that does not mean that we want negro women for our wives.' I know no better way to express the wiles in the attempt to carry class against class in America."

QUERY HOOVER ON LEAGUE.

Former Harvard Supporters Ask How He Can Back Harding.

A letter to Herbert Hoover, asking how he can reconcile his pro-League of Nations principles with support of Senator Harding, from the officers of the Hoover League of Harvard, all of whom are supporting Governor Cox on the League issue, was made public here yesterday. The letter, which is signed by Archibald MacLeish, President, and L. E. Garrison, R. L. Allen, C. W. Eliot, 2d, W. G. Rice, Jr., and J. U. Nef, asked Mr. Hoover how he could believe the election of Senator Harding would lead to the more rapid entrance of the United States into the League. The letter said:

"In 1860, if you had believed in the restriction of slavery, would you have supported Bell or Lincoln? Today if you believe in the League, will you support the part anti-League Republican Party and its vague nominee rather than Cox? Is it you or the irreconcilables that Harding is double-crossing?"

HARDING WINS POLL ABROAD

Copyright, 1920, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—If every American citizen in Europe could register his or her vote by mail, in the same way as the President and Mrs. Wilson send theirs to New Jersey, Senator Harding would be assured of a strong majority from this side of the ocean.

The European edition of The Chicago Tribune has conducted a straw vote among Americans in Europe for the last twelve days, publishing a front page ballot daily. Reduced to figures the results of the Tribune's vote are expressable as follows:

Of every 1,000 American citizens in Europe, 550 vote for Harding, 400 vote for Cox, and fifty vote for Debs. Thus Harding polled a substantial plurality over the other candidates and a majority of all the votes cast.

The results of the women's vote showed that 58 per cent. of them cast their ballots for Harding. The Senator polled 56 per cent. of the men's votes.

HARDING ADVISES STUDY.

Asks Princeton Republican Club to Consider Party's Program.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 26.—A letter from Senator Harding, commending him for his efforts in furthering the Republican cause at Princeton University, was received today by Charles Denby, class of 1922, President of the Princeton University Republican Club. Following is the letter in part:

"Issues of this campaign are vital and are not to be solved by academic theory, but must be solved in the light of patriotic service and serious study of the history of all lands and the millennium. I ask you and members of your club to study the constructive program of the Republican Party as enunciated at Chicago, that you may do so with the assurances of absolute sincerity of the candidates of that party, in believing that these declarations are for the best interest of all the people of this and other lands, and in their will and purpose make that program effective."

WOMEN TO PRESENT VIEWS.

Will Speak for Three Parties in Washington Irving School Tonight.

Women speakers representing each of the political parties will take part in a non-political symposium at the Washington Irving High School this evening in a discussion of "What Shall the American Woman Do With Her Vote?" Miss Elizabeth Marbury will speak from the Democratic point of view, Mrs. Evelyn Aldrich from the Republican and Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch from the Socialist.

Mrs. Raymond Brown will speak on "Women's Best Contribution to the Political Life of the Nation." Miss Alice Jones on "The Teacher in Politics," and Mrs. Mary M. Lilly, former member of the Assembly, on "Why Women Should Stand for Political Office."

WHITE SAYS HARDING CAN'T HOLD FORCES

LEAGUE FIGHT CLARIFIED

Asserts Harding's Task Was to "Fool the People," but "Big Break" Has Come.

By WILLIAM H. CRAWFORD.

George White, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, although hard pressed by the exigencies of the last week of the campaign, found time to talk to me when I called on him.

"I observe," he said, "that Will H. Hays dictates to two stenographers at the same time, with a battery of them in reserve, has a dictaphone on each side of him and a special Commissioner at hand to buy new shoes for the messenger boys, who are constantly wearing out their own in his service. I wish I could seem as busy as that. It is a great art.

"It happens that I am busier than I have ever been in my life before or hope to be again in connection with the details of this campaign, but I couldn't dictate to four stenographers at one time. I hope that you will not feel that this disqualifies me as national chairman or presages defeat for the Democrats," he added.

"How did you come to serve as national chairman?" I asked Mr. White.

"It was Governor Cox's idea," he replied. "I have been long and intimately associated with him in politics and friendship, and I believe in him utterly. Also, I am devoted to the cause which he represents, and it was no great task to persuade me to consecrate such efforts as may within me lie to this cause.

"You see, I believe that there was nothing in the Covenant of the League of Nations or the Treaty of Peace which the Republicans honestly found fault with until they came to the signature of Woodrow Wilson. That was the whole crime. From the day of the round robin onward the Republicans have devoted themselves to destroying the League and the world's hope of peace simply as a political proposition. Having devoted their National Committee machinery for two years to the sole task of poisoning the country against the Democratic Administration, they threw the League into politics for the same purpose—to try to win the election this year.

Believes People Now Aroused.

"I am confident that the public is now aroused to the facts of the case, and this well-laid plan, carried on with heavy toll and at the expense of millions, is going to be smashed into bits on Election Day.

"Believing in Cox, believing in the justice of the cause, believing in the existence of the conspiracy I have just described, I am very glad to have been able to serve as National Chairman in such a campaign. Even if we were to be defeated, it would be the most honorable defeat in the history of politics. But we are not going to be defeated. The impossible combination of pro-leaguers and anti-leaguers and of all the disloyal and discontented elements in the country will not be able to hold together as a solid voting unit.

"One of the chief reasons for this is that for the first time in American history the women of the country are to vote, and fortunately they are to vote in an election where the great issue is the welfare of the world. They will not permit politics to stand in the way of that peace. They are for the League of Nations.

"And, more than that, the political leaders in the Republican Party who have abandoned the League in order to play politics will not be able to swing with them the great conscientious groups of pro-League Republicans and Independents. I know this by mail and telegraph and personal observation. The Treasurer of the committee, Mr. Marsh, knows this by the dimes and dollar contributions that flood his daily mail. Our speakers know this by the response in audiences disposed to be unfriendly when they have listened to the recital of the deceitful Republican strategy being employed this year.

"I have observed that in addition to deceit, lavish use of money and the marshaling of the enemies of our country, the Republicans have added sacrileges to their campaign methods against us this year. This will be remembered by all religious people, whatever their faith; for respect for the other fellow's religious belief is pretty well grounded in decent American citizens.

Says Harding's Task Is Deception.

"The Republican candidate was ill-chosen by the conspirators. They had set for him a task requiring the brains of a Mirabeau, the diplomacy of a Talleyrand and the morals of a Machiavelli. I will not point out in just which qualities Mr. Harding fails, but you must decide that for yourself.

"His task was not only to fool the people of the United States as to his position on the League of Nations, but to give satisfactory assurances to both Hiram Johnson and William H. Taft and keep them both in line. It was not so hard to do this with Mr. Taft, because his excessively good nature and party loyalty impelled him to go along, whatever sacrifice of principle and conviction might be involved; but Hiram Johnson and Borah are of another stripe. And, then, Mr. Harding, after trying to weave a tortuous course between the two, finally had to show himself at Des Moines as an irreconcilable on the league, a position which he reassumed in his statement this morning.

"Of course, from time to time he has tried to cloak his irreconcilability with talk about a new association of nations he intends to form. I imagine he is going to form it in the stellar spaces, because the nations of the world, thank you, are pretty well wrapped up in their own association, which is called the League of Nations."

"I asked your antagonist, Mr. Hays," I suggested, "what he thought had been the keynote of his work as Chairman. He answered, 'Organization.' What do you think it yours?"

"Seeing," Mr. White replied, "that the truth about the League of Nations becomes known to the country. Nothing in history—and I include the assaults on the Christian religion in the capitals of the pagans—has been subjected to so many lies and so much malicious misrepresentation.

Saw Big Break After Iowa Speech.

"We have neither the methods nor the resources in raising money that the Republican National Committee has, and so to spread the truth about the League was a most difficult task. Money came in very slowly and in small quantities at first, and as things stand we will not have spent really one-tenth of the amount of money expended by the Republicans. But as the truth about the Republican conspiracy became known and the conscience of the public became aroused, small sums were available to begin the great task.

"Then, when at Des Moines Senator Harding broke away from his board of strategy and in desperation and fear uttered those irreconcilable and irretrievable words, the big break came. I do not want any clarifying reservations. I want to turn my back on them. I stand to reject.' Straddle as he did before, or dodge and trim as he did afterward, the country has accepted, as Senator Johnson has accepted, those words as Mr. Harding's real position on the League.

"This is the fight of an anti-Leaguer against a pro-Leaguer. Cox is for going in. The only time Harding has said where he is going was when he said he was for staying out. He has never indorsed the League with reservations in this campaign. Therefore, under no circumstances can he be considered as in any way favorable to the League idea."

When this stage of the interview was reached, Mr. White's office was full of important-looking people with important matters for his decision, his telephone had rung many times and a pile of letters and telegrams on his desk had reached the height of about a foot and a half. I made up my mind that even though he does not use four stenographers at one time, he has enough work for them to attend to, at any rate.

CARTOON CAUSES PROTEST BY CLERGY

BLAMES HARDING'S FRIEND

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 26.—Information made public here by the Democratic State Central Committee of Connecticut that the cartoon of Raphael's Immaculate Conception, published in Harvey's Weekly, was first sent out by the Republican National Committee, has resulted in denunciation of the Republican action from Roman Catholics in many parts of the State.

In a statement characterizing the cartoon as "blasphemous," the Rev. Andrew J. Plunkett of Shelton, Conn., declared that it was a sacrilege compared to which the "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion" remark in the Blaine 1884 campaign was a "small slander." Father Plunkett asserted that in the publication of the cartoon Senator Warren G. Harding, Republican nominee for President, "had a Burchard incident on his hands, furnished by his intimate friend and campaign assistant, George Harvey."

Definite information was obtained that the cartoon, which was printed last Tuesday in The Providence Tribune, the evening edition of The Providence Journal, was obtained from the Republican National Committee. It was learned that the cartoon was sent out originally by the Publicity Department of the Republican National Committee and published in small Republican papers throughout the country last week.

Publication of the cartoon in The Providence Tribune attracted little notice, except locally, until it was made a prominent feature of the current issue of Harvey's Weekly. Although it is the same cartoon which was sent out by the Republican National Committee and drawn by the same cartoonist, the line "Copyrighted by the North American Review Corporation, 9 East 37th Street, New York City," appears underneath the cartoon as printed in Harvey's Weekly.

Clergyman's Denunciation.

Father Plunkett, who denounced the publication of the cartoon, has recently spoken against the League of Nations. He said:

"I want to protest as a Christian and an American against the shameful outrage perpetrated on every Christian man and woman by Harvey's Weekly in the blasphemous cartoon called 'Having difficulty in hanging the masterpiece.' It outrages not only our religious sense, but our American citizenship without respect to church affiliation.

"The cartoon is a composite of the Sacred Heart of Jesus and of the Immaculate Conception of the Virgin Mary, so horrible as to make and cause men of any faith or no faith sick at heart. The sacred person of Jesus Christ and his mother Mary are twisted into the caricature of Uncle Sam, who substitutes flying dollars for the stars of heaven, flapping coat tails for the robes in which the sacred person was clad and a sinister sneer in place of the rapt gaze of divine vision.

"When politicians or editors are permitted to stoop so low in their efforts to elect a candidate for office, it is high time that decent men of all faiths and parties should be united and smite them and what they represent so that never again they may dare to use their pens, pencils or tongues to lampoon and insult what men call holy.

"The 'Rum, Romanism and Rebellion' of Burchard of the Blaine campaign, was a small slander compared with this blasphemy and the Republican Party or no other party can hope to be placed in power by so wanton an outrage by one of its accredited leaders."

"And while I am not in the habit of interfering with political campaigns, as a Christian and an American I want to lodge this protest—and it is the protest of hundreds of citizens of this State against the sacrilege—because the issue has now ceased to be a mere political one and has become a terribly moral one."

MORE ATTACKS ON CARTOON.

Roosevelt Sees Significance in Harvey's Connection with It.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for Vice President, made this comment last night upon the Harvey's Weekly cartoon:

"The campaign of win-at-any-cost conducted by Republican managers is well borne out by the disgusting episode of the cartoon published in the current issue of Harvey's Weekly. The public of the United States understands the sacrilegious character of this disgusting picture. It is an insult to the whole Christian world.

"This cartoon would not become a factor in this election were it merely the work of an individual who happened to edit an individually conducted paper. Its whole significance lies in the fact that it was published by George Harvey. This gentleman's connection with Senator Harding ought to be known to all. His partisan bitterness has been shown for months. In June, 1920, he was one of the select few who directed the nomination of Senator Harding of Ohio at the midnight conference in Chicago during the Republican National Convention. Since that time he has been more active than any other individual in the conduct of Senator Harding's campaign. I wish to call attention to the fact that Mr. Harvey, for a long period of time this Autumn, not only lived in Marion, Ohio, but in the intimacy of Senator Harding's own home.

"That the connection between Senator Harding, George Harvey and the Republican campaign managers may be made still more definite, it is right to call attention to the fact that the cartoon in the current issue of Harvey's Weekly was drawn by a man named Reid, a person who has been employed by the Republican National Committee to draw cartoons for it.

"You have only to look at the shocking and blasphemous cartoon in 'the campaign number' of Harvey's Weekly to see to what length they are going to prevent the tide from setting in for Governor Cox and the league. It must have, as Mr. Allan Ryan has so well said, shocked profoundly the sentiment of every Christian man and woman.

TRIED TO KILL CARTOON.

Republican Publicity Director Says He Recognized Its Impropriety.

Scott C. Bone, Director of Publicity of the Republican National Committee, admitted last night that the cartoon had been sent out by a cartoon syndicate connected with his department, but asserted that its impropriety was so manifest that he ordered it killed by telegraph immediately after matrices of the cartoon had been mailed to a number of Republican newspapers. The cartoon was sent out and canceled early in October, Mr. Bone said, several weeks before its publication in Harvey's Weekly and The National Republican. Mr. Ryan called attention to it in a letter to George White, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee. Mr. Bone said:

"This cartoon was sent to a number of Republican newspapers by the Albert T. Reid Cartoon Syndicate, which is connected with the Publicity Department of the Republican National Committee. When my attention was called to the cartoon immediately after it had been mailed, its manifest impropriety caused me to telegraph at once to all the papers that had received it, giving imperative instructions to kill the cartoon and in no circumstances to use it.

"This was early in October, about the fifth or sixth. I may add that the artist acquiesced in the cancellation of the cartoon."

HARDING PLEDGES PROTECTIVE TARIFF

Declares It Is Necessary to Meet the Danger of Widespread Idleness.

REPLIES TO ZINC PRODUCER

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Oct. 26.—The Republican Party will restore the protective tariff as soon as it comes into power, Senator Harding today assured Paul Ewert, Chairman of the Zinc Ore Tariff Commission of the Joplin, Mo., Chamber of Commerce, who wrote the Senator on the zinc mining situation in the Joplin district. Senator Harding telegraphed to Mr. Ewert as follows:

"Replying to your communication received today concerning conditions in the Joplin mining district, I may say I am more or less familiar with them and find your statement properly suggestive of what is now going on in many other parts of the country. You inform me that up to 1916 Southwestern Missouri was the largest zinc mining district in the world; that the demands of the European war made the district temporarily very prosperous, but that the Democrats had removed the tariff on zinc ore, of which great quantities were imported in 1916 and 1917; that during the last session of Congress efforts were made to have a really protective duty on zinc ore restored, but that it failed and you add:

'Zinc ore in 1916 and 1917 was imported from 196 different countries. It was sent directly to our smelters and delivered for half of what it cost us to produce it. Our mines began to close down in 1917 and last week every mining district closed, throwing out of employment 15,000 men. Of course, the demand for zinc ore is low now, but the cause of this was the immense importation of zinc ore which was made into spelter and which produced such a tremendous surplus that our own ores remained unsold in the bin.'

"The case of Joplin district zinc is a typical one. The Democrats removed the protection from zinc, that procedure being one of the fundamentals of their political creed. Zinc was merely one of a great number of our American products that suffered precisely the same fate when the Democratic tariff policy was applied.

"Under the Democratic tariff law of 1913, the country was already approaching industrial disaster when the World War began. What happened in the case of zinc also happened to many other industries. The foreign demand was so great and prices were so unimportant that everything we could produce was promptly taken by the warring nations. So the disaster was postponed. But with the end of the war the foreign demand, not only for zinc, but for a great number of other products whose protection had been removed, immediately fell off.

"The story of zinc since that time is simply an epitome of the story of American industries generally. With demand reduced and with foreign competition desperately seeking our American markets, we have suddenly found ourselves at the beginning of an era in which, unless the American policy of protection is resumed, we are bound to become more and more the dumping ground for the products of all the world. Produced by cheaper labor, they must inevitably drive our own products out of our own markets, compel the suspension of production at home and bring idleness and suffering, not merely to the thousands of workers in a particular industry, but to the millions of workers in hundreds of industries.

"Along with this disaster to the mining and industrial interests has come a similar disaster to American agriculture. The recent slump in the prices of agricultural products has brought a great hardship to American agriculture. Vast crops were raised under conditions which made them extremely costly, and now that the farmers have them in hand they find that prices have fallen so suddenly and rapidly that enormous losses must be sustained.

"To all who are bringing this story of continuing losses and impending disaster the Republican Party makes the same reply. It is our reply to the producers of zinc and of wool, and of every other article that depends upon the insurance that at least the American market shall be secured to American industry. We reply that when the Republican Party is restored to control of the Government after March 4 next there will be a prompt return to the American system of protection for American industry. That policy has been to equalize the cost of production at home and abroad.

"As to zinc, it is my recollection that the Republican members of the Senate Sub-committee on Finance, Senators Watson and Curtis, voted and reported favorably the tariff bill desired by the American zinc producers providing for a tariff of 2 cents per pound on the metallic contents of imported zinc ores, but the Democratic members voted against it. When I am President, if such a measure is again urged and if it is found to comply with the Republican formula of imposing sufficient tariff to measure the difference between cost of production at home and abroad, I shall certainly give my support to it.

"Broadly speaking, this is the Republican tariff policy as it has been in the past, and when the Republican Party returns to power it will be reinstated as early as possible."

"WARREN G. HARDING."

7 MORE OUT FOR HARDING.

Add Their Names to Recently Issued Root-Wickersham Statement.

The names of additional supporters of the statement put out recently by Elihu Root, Jacob Gould Schurman, Herbert Hoover, Oscar S. Straus, George W. Wickersham and other Republican advocates of international co-operation in support of Senator Warren G. Harding, Republican nominee for President, were made public yesterday by the Republican National Committee. The names follow:

Dr. Appleton Morgan, President, New York Shakespeare Society; Waldo H. Dunn, Professor of the English Language and Literature, College of Wooster, Ohio; William H. Wood, Professor of Biblical Literature, Dartmouth College, Hanover, N. H.; Dr. John Gordon, former President Howard University, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Robert Stuart MacArthur, President, Baptist World Alliance, New York City; C. O. Gunther, Professor Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, and R. Fulton Cutting, New York City.

RETORTS TO LENROOT.

La Follette Suggests Rival Is Unfitted for Joint Debate.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 26.—Senator Robert M. La Follette, in a formal statement issued today in reply to the challenge by Senator Lenroot for a joint debate on the issues of the campaign, said that "certain intemperate language" used by Senator Lenroot showed that Mr. Lenroot was "not capable of making a speech before an independent audience at present." Senator Lenroot in his challenge accused La Follette of making false statements.

Senator La Follette reviewed his assertions that Senator Lenroot twice voted for the League of Nations "... the hardest treaty of modern times," and for the Esch-Cummins Railroad bill "which increases the cost of living of every family of the State $1 per day."

Gov. Edwards to Safeguard Voters.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 26.—Governor Edwards has sent a letter to the Prosecutor of each county relative to the enforcement of the election laws, and suggesting that they give every aid to the district election boards. This increases in registration through the extension of suffrage to women, in some districts nearly 100 per cent., makes necessary unusual precautions to safeguard the privilege of voters, the Governor declared.

while a third is still "unfit" as the result of passing through a gas attack. This Gold Star mother sent a "widow's mite" to help along the Governor's campaign.

Open to Reservations "With Honor."

Governor Cox reiterated in all of his speeches today his willingness to accept from the Senate any reservations which would make possible America's entry into the League of Nations with honor.

"I have found," he said, "that America is not so much concerned in the words we use in keeping our pledge as it is that the meaning be clear and that the only possible step now available be taken to keep wars from being in the future."

The Governor declared that a year ago Ex-President Taft predicted that the League of Nations would make its greatest appeal to Church people, to the workingman, because it would bring blessings and benefits to workers all over the world, and to the women because of the great sacrifices they are called upon to take in war, sacrifices often greater than those of the battlefield itself.

"Mr. Taft, in this respect at least, has proven himself a wonderful prophet," said Governor Cox. "All that he said has come true, and the elements to whom he said the Covenant would appeal, are the very elements that are going to vote this year to make America's entrance into the League certain. The churches are almost 100 per cent. for the League; labor is all but unanimous, while of the newly enfranchised women I confidently believe that the ratio, despite family political ties, will be at least two and one-half to one in favor of the League."

Spoke in Rain at Kenova.

Governor Cox campaigned through the first rainstorm he has encountered since he left Portland, Ore., six weeks ago. His first speech of the day was at Kenova, W. Va., and it began to rain while he was facing an immense crowd in the ball park. Some one offered to hold an umbrella over him, but he waved aside the profered shelter.

"I'm weatherproof," he laughed. "Don't mind me. Our great fight is upon, and during the fighting we have had some of the most wonderful weather that could be imagined. Now we are having the benediction of Heaven's grace and approval."

From Kenova, Governor Cox crossed into Kentucky and spoke at Catlettsburg and Ashland, where Senator Harding made speeches some weeks ago on his first trip away from Marion. At both places enormous crowds turned out to hear the Democratic candidate despite the intermittent squalls of rain. At Ashland Mrs. Robert Dickens, who introduced Governor Cox, compared him to Washington, Lincoln and other great characters in history who have arisen in crises.

Governor Cox proceeded from Ashland by automobile to Fullerton, where an Ohio River ferry was boarded for the trip to Portsmouth. It was there that he helped pilot the boat across, the regular pilot directing the course while the Governor turned the big wheel.

Portsmouth is a Republican City, but Governor Cox has carried it in all his fights and his popularity in the community was evidenced by the two meetings he addressed, one being outdoors in the rain, and the other in the high school. At the latter place the Governor had an "honor guard" of gold star mothers and Civil War veterans on the stage.

During the day the Governor probably addressed more than 10,000 workers in overalls and he made a special appeal to them. He remarked that the Republican candidate was asking for a return to "normalcy" and asked:

"Do you know what that means?"

"No," shouted some of his hearers.

"Well," he went on, "a return to normalcy means a return to the good old times of the long day and the short pay envelope. You don't want a return to that, do you? Of course not. There is not a man within the sound of my voice but has more money in his pocket or in the bank than he did eight years ago and there are more home owners in the United States today than at any time under Republican rule.

"We hear much talk of the people wanting a change. It is fostered only by the professional politicians who are out and want a change so they can get back into office."

Nominee's Speech in Cincinnati.

Governor Cox's Cincinnati speech was chiefly devoted to the League. He said in part:

"Every imperialist in Europe is opposed to the League. It is a striking coincidence that the only thing approaching imperialism in America, the Senatorial oligarchy, is the outstanding force in opposition to it in America.

"The hope of the world is in the revived spirit of an awakened democracy in all nations. An evidence of this is the insistence upon the part of the people in Germany that the country become a member of the League of Nations. Application has already been made. The German people realize that there can be no recovery from the disasters of war unless the burden of armaments is removed and a guarantee against war is established.

"I am convinced that the people of Mexico, impelled by the impulse for good that seems to have possessed that country, will insist upon membership in the League also, because they realize that among other interests opposing the covenant in America are the speculators who want to invade that country with the army of the United States in order to remove the hazard which enabled them to purchase large holdings at low cost.

"Wherever I have been, and our pilgrimage has covered thirty-six States, the farmers recognize not only that the Federal Reserve and farm loan banking system must be preserved against the big interests that now surround the Senatorial candidate for the Presidency, but that continued prosperity in America is contingent upon our becoming a member of the League. The difference between depression and prosperity in America is the demand for our surplus products. Without the European market, American energies, agricultural and industrial, must subside at least 21 per cent.

"The spiritual consideration is, of course, more controlling. America always wants to do the proper thing, and it is perfectly apparent that the issue is well defined as to whether there will be a nation of honor or a nation of repudiators. We gave a very definite pledge when we went into the war, and it must be determined now whether the promises given to our soldiers and their mothers are to be redeemed.

"I have found that America is not so much concerned in the words we use in keeping our pledge as it is that the meaning be clear and that the only possible step now available be taken to keep wars from being in the future."

Letter from a War Mother.

"I want to read to you now a copy of a letter which has come to me which expresses, beyond what words of mine might do, that which is in the heart of the mothers of America:

Please accept the enclosed small contribution to the fund for dissemination of the truth about the League of Nations. It is literally a "widow's mite," but it comes from a mother who sent four greatly needed sons to the World War. Two of these sons were killed, a third was held in the hospitals in France for five months due to gassing in action, and is still classified as "unfit," and a fourth risked his precious young life in the air.

When an honest and concerted effort is being made by the nations of the earth to save, if possible, the mothers of sons from these sacrifices, it is hard to realize there are those who oppose such an effort. I feel sure that among those who paid for the war there can be but one opinion, and that is to try the League of Nations. Even if it is not perfect it is the best that has been proposed and, all objections being weighed, is manifestly the most feasible. Please God it will not fail.

Very truly yours,

MRS. EDWARD CRAWFORD DAVIDSON, Elizabethtown, N. J.

"I have been deeply impressed by the determination to keep the pledge which fills the very souls of the boys who were in the trenches overseas and who know what the hell of modern warfare is. They do not indulge in idle phrase, but use the words which mean determination for the cause. I have visited the hospitals for disabled soldiers wherever I have gone, and have talked to men who are maimed and men whose lungs are all but gone from having breathed the poisonous gases in the trenches. At Phoenix, Ariz., one said to me 'Governor, no man who wore the gas mask for twelve hours will vote against you or the League of Nations in this campaign.'

"He knows what the torture of war is, nor does he want those who come in after generations to have to go through what he knows and what he has seen. These men and their mothers are going to have something to say about it and in terms that cannot be misunderstood.

View from Soldiers' Paper.

"I hold in my hand and read to you from the last issue of the Stars and Stripes, gotten out by the 'doughboys' in the very sight of the trenches in which their comrades died and where they could see the graves of the $1,000 brave American lads who laid down their lives for the cause of world democracy and world peace:

We have finished, and we have the satisfaction of knowing that we did a good job. We are glad to quit, but can we carry the message home? Print can't do it, photographs can't do it, the horror has been hallowed, the misery has become picturesque, the murder turned to romance.

Nobody under God's great tranquil skies can tell of the rottenness of war but the men who suffered through it. Upon them rests a solemn duty, they must go home and check the coward lingo who masks himself behind his false and blatant patriotism, and the merchant politician, not content with stuffing his own coffers until they burst, but anxious to barter his country's manhood for new places in the sun.

The Prussian Guardsman died hard fighting for such a place. The men in khaki came here to make the Lews never had to stand up against him. They never took a machine-gun nest or saw a barrage wall roll down, stop, and then uncurtain into a wall of shrieking steel. We know, but we cannot give that knowledge to others, but upon it we can act.

We can help build a League of Nations with such sinews of war and such conscience for peace that no one will dare oppose it. If we don't help, the blood will be on our own foolish heads, which by the grace of God, chance or some Prussian Guardsman's alm are still upon our foolish shoulders.

Each one of $1,000 men who died is a sacred reason why America dare not now falter. As he died, his eyes resting on the Stars and Stripes for the last time, he read there the pledge, which had been given to him and which had been given to the country, that he was making his contribution to future generations in order that war might be no more for all time. In his ears rang the music of America's answer to "Flander's Fields," in the words of our own poet, Lillard, the words that were sung as assurances to those who died that they had not died in vain

Rest ye in peace, ye Flanders dead.
The fight that ye so bravely led
We have taken up, and we will keep
True faith with you who lie asleep.
And poppies blowing overhead
Where once his own life blood ran red.
So let your rest be sweet and deep
In Flanders fields.

Fear not that ye have died for naught.
The torch ye threw to us we caught.
Ten million hands will hold it high,
And Freedom's light shall never die.
We have learned the lesson that ye taught
In Flanders fields.

Says MacSwiney Died a Martyr.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 26 (Associated Press).—Governor Cox, in his speech here tonight, received long applause when he gave his views on the starvation of Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork.

"How about MacSwiney?" a man shouted from a box.

"In my opinion," the Governor replied, "MacSwiney died as a martyr. Martyrs grow almost always, from centuries of injustice and oppression. I believe the martrydom of MacSwiney will arouse the English people as they were enraged against the injustice King George visited upon the American colonies.

"Some say that the Irish question is a religious question. Of the last ten or twelve leaders of the Irish cause, most of them have been Protestants. Therefore it can't be regarded as a religious question."

The crowd approved vigorously the Governor's statement that the League of Nations had the universal indorsement of religious denominations. Prolonged applause greeted the names of Pope Benedict and Cardinal Gibbons, who are prominent sponsors, the speaker said.

Governor Cox reiterated his charge that Senator Harding was trying to win the Presidency "under false pretenses," because, the speaker said, he had "wiggled and wabbled" upon the League issue. The Governor called attention to speeches yesterday by former President Taft and Senator Johnson of California, respectively, at Ogden, Utah, and Canton, Ohio. In his speech Mr. Taft was quoted as saying that Senator Harding's election would insure American participation in the League. Senator Johnson, the Governor said, contended that Harding would "scrap" the hall hissed the Senator's name and Californian warned against any other "indefinite" plan.

Hisses for Round Robin Senators.

The audience cheered the Governor when he denounced Senator Lodge. Some persons on the stage and also in the hall hissed the Senator's name and those of others who signed the "round robin."

Predicting a "landslide for the cause of peace" in the election, Governor Cox reiterated his opinion that Senators Brandegee of Connecticut, Smoot of Utah, Moses of New Hampshire, Watson of Indiana and other Republican Senatorial candidates who signed the "round robin" would be defeated. He urged support of W. A. Julian, the Democratic Senatorial candidate in Ohio.

Senator Harding, Governor Cox predicted, would "spend the next four years at Marion, Ohio," and referring to Senator Moses the Governor repeated that he was "one Moses who might well have been left in the bullrushes."

"Whenever my opponent is given a vacation from the front porch," the Governor said, "he has been making speeches for me, too."

Governor Cox defended vigorously the mingling of the League covenant with the Treaty of Versailles.

"Our boys fought for it," he said. "We had prayed for it. We had promised it to our soldiers and to their mothers and unless it had been placed in the Treaty of Peace we would have lost, in all probability the outstanding compensation of that great war.

Tomorrow will be spent by the Governor on home soil. He will speak in the morning at Middletown, his birthplace, and tomorrow night at Dayton, his home.

REPUBLICANS NOT SO SURE OF SENATE

16 SEATS FOR DEMOCRATS

34 SEATS TO BE FILLED

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—With control of the United States Senate in the balance there is reason to believe that the Republican leaders engaged in taking their final inventory of party strength and prospects at the polls next Tuesday are far from encouraged by the reports they are receiving with regard to the senatorial contests in a number of States. When the tide was setting strongly toward the Republican candidates a month ago a gain of ten and even twelve seats was predicted. No such claims are seriously made now.

To make the next United States Senate "safely Republican" substantial gains would be essential. The present Republican majority is two votes. This, however, is hardly more than nominal. For, to offset it, Senator La Follette, although listed as a Republican, is more of an insurgent and free lance, and just now is fighting the Republican candidates in his home State. One Republican Senator Truman H. Newberry of Michigan, has not exercised his right to vote since his conviction of winning his seat by fraud, now being appealed.

In planning to make party control sure, aside from these two, Republican leaders will be compelled to reckon with such aggressive and potential insurgents as Senators Johnson of California, Borah of Idaho; France of Maryland, and, in the event of their election, Dr. N. E. Ladd of North Dakota, a Non-Partisan Leaguer who defeated Senator Gronna in the Republican primaries and now is running with Republican indorsement, and James Thompson, Senator La Follette's man in Wisconsin, who is looked on as having an even chance of being elected.

Senator Johnson has confided to his friends that he entered the campaign with mental reservations and with the sole purpose of promoting the "scrapping of the League of Nations." He has no love for those of his party in the Senate who, as members of the "Senate Oligarchy" he holds responsible for the nomination of Senator Harding and his own defeat in the Chicago convention.

Thirty-four seats in the Senate are to be filled in the election next week, of which nineteen are now held by Democrats and fifteen by Republicans. Nine Senators whose terms expire represent States in the "solid South," where the Republican candidates scarcely hope to win. Three Senators whose terms come to an end represent States which are regarded almost as safely Republican as the States south of the Mason and Dixon line are regarded safely Democratic. Thus there remain twenty-two States which may be regarded as affording a battleground for both parties.

The unquestionably Democratic States where Senate elections are held this year are Alabama, (3); Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia. The three States regarded as so safely Republican that they may be eliminated are Kansas, Pennsylvania and Vermont.

The Democratic leaders here, however, do not concede the re-election of Senator Charles Curtis in Kansas, but insist their most recent reports indicate the State will be so close that the final result will not be known until the last ballot has been counted. "Safely Republican" Kansas sprung a surprise on the country four years ago by giving its electoral vote to President Wilson.

Of the contests that remain after this process of elimination, ten are for seats held by Democrats at present, while twelve are for seats held by Republicans. The Democratic whose terms expire represent Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Kentucky, Maryland, Nevada, Oklahoma, Oregon and South Dakota.

Republicans whose terms expire represent Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, New Hampshire, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Utah, Washington and Wisconsin.

While claims are made by the Republicans of the certainty of victory in a number of Democratic States which afford a battleground for both parties, and a landslide for the national ticket, of which there appears to be less prospect now than there was some weeks ago, might enable them to make good their prediction, it appears reasonably certain that Arizona, Idaho, Kentucky, Maryland, Nevada, Oklahoma and Oregon will record victories for the Democratic candidates.

While Democratic leaders here are not willing to concede it, the prospects are for Republican victories in Illinois, New Hampshire, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota and Utah.

This would give the Democrats sixteen seats and the Republicans ten, and would mark a net gain for the Republicans of one seat now occupied by a Democrat—Senator Edwin S. Johnson of South Dakota. It would leave two States where Democratic seats become vacant, California and Colorado, and six States where contests are in progress over seats occupied by Republicans—Connecticut, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, Washington and Wisconsin—in doubt. In all of these States aggressive fights are being waged by both parties.

The contest which at present appears to be giving the most concern to Republican leaders here is that involving the re-election or defeat of United States Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin, this partly because his defeat would rob the party of his services in the Senate at a time when they will be badly needed and partly because it would mean a victory for Senator La Follette, and possibly the entry into the Senate as junior from Wisconsin of James Thompson, who, the leaders believe, would be merely a rubber stamp for Senator La Follette, who put him in the race. As such he would swell the group of potential trouble makers within the Republican group.

The latest reports from Wisconsin indicate that with La Follette seeking Senator Lenroot's scalp, the latter is decidedly in danger of defeat. Republican leaders here admit that the prob abilities are against his election and that the fight is now between Thompson and Dr. Paul S. Reinsch, the Democratic candidate.

On the other hand, Thompson, who is running as a "bitter ender" on the League issue, is bound to attract almost undivided the large German vote in Wisconsin. In the primaries he won with Socialist support and he may get a good many Socialist votes in the election next week. Besides, he has the indorsement of the Non-Partisan League which organization named him as a candidate before he entered the Republican primaries. The belief here is that if Lenroot is defeated Thompson will win.

In Indiana, which remained in the Republican column four years ago, Senator James E. Watson is a candidate for re-election against Thomas Taggart, veteran Democratic leader in the State. While the Republicans believe that Senator Watson will "pull through," his prospects will depend largely on what sort of a plurality the Hoosier State gives Harding and Coolidge. Before the women voted Senator Watson was generally reckoned from 15,000 to 20,000 votes weaker than the candidates of his party polling an average party plurality. With the vote almost doubled, the same percentage of defection from Senator Watson would mean that he would run from 30,000 to 40,000 behind his ticket this year, and this, unless the Republican plurality for the national ticket in Indiana is larger than conservative Republicans believe it will be, might jeopardize his chances of success. Taggart is popular and will get thousands of Republican votes, according to all reports in the closing days of the fight.

In Iowa, a safely Republican State which will give a substantial majority to the national ticket, Senator Albert B. Cummins is meeting with bitter opposition this year from elements among the voters which have loyally supported him heretofore. His fight for the act bearing his name, under which the railroads were transferred from Government to private ownership, has aroused opposition not only among railroad men, who object to the anti-strike clause it contains, but among farmers throughout the State, who are suffering from higher freight rates since the law went into effect and also object, as adding to their tax burdens, to the provision under which the Government undertakes to guarantee the earnings of the railroads.

An Iowa Republican expressed the belief that Senator Cummins, who has been ill and unable to make a campaign, would run 50,000 votes behind the national ticket, but this would not be enough to defeat him.

The Democratic campaign managers here are not without hope of a victory in Connecticut for Representative Augustine Lonergan, their candidate for Senator against Frank B. Brandegee, "bitter-ender" on the League issue and grouped with the reactionary element of his party.

In Washington State, where Senator Wesley M. Jones is a candidate for re-election, the Democrats have nominated George F. Cotterill, ex-Mayor of Seattle. Mr. Cotterill was formerly a Socialist, and was elected Mayor as such. He has the support of the Seattle Trades Council, of a radical farmers' organization and of the railroad brotherhoods. The Democrats believe they have a fighting chance.

In Colorado, another doubtful State, Non-Partisan League influences have complicated the situation, as has also the independent candidacy of Senator Charles Thomas, who, though a Democrat, is running on a platform opposed to the League of Nations and the Wilson Administration generally.

The Republican candidate is Samuel D. Nicholson, a wealthy mining man, who defeated in the primaries Karl P. Schuyler, an oil man, also of wealth. The Democratic candidate is Judge Tully Scott of the Supreme Court. Judge Scott is running on a pro-League platform. He has the unsought indorsement of the Non-Partisan League. The Democratic candidate for Governor, James Collins, originally a Georgia Democrat, who has made a fortune in Colorado as a cattle breeder, is also running with Non-Partisan League indorsement.

The Republican nominee in California, where Senator James D. Phelan is a candidate for re-election, is Samuel M. Shortridge, formerly a San Francisco publisher and an anti-Johnson Republican. Senator Johnson, however, has indorsed the candidacy of Mr. Shortridge because the latter has taken the same stand on the League of Nations as the Senator. The Republicans depend on a large majority for the national ticket to sweep all their candidates to victory, but the Democrats are hopeful that Senator Phelan will get a second term on account of his popularity, which in San Francisco transcends party lines.

In Missouri, Kentucky and Maryland, the three border States, where the Republicans have made a fight and believe they have a chance, the Democrats claim to have made considerable headway during the last few weeks. In all these States, the negro equality issue is being advanced by the Democrats with considerable advantage.

In Maryland, where Senator John Walter Smith is making a vigorous campaign for re-election against Orvington E. Weller, a former Republican Attorney General of the State, this issue has been vitalized in the candidacy of W. A. Hawkins, a negro, running for the United States Senate. It is estimated that Hawkins may get as many as 4,000 votes in Baltimore and possibly as many more in the State outside of that city.

The Democrats claim with apparent assurance that Breckenridge Long, former Assistant Secretary of State, running on a Pro-League platform, will defeat Selden F. Spencer, the present incumbent, who is a candidate for re-election in Missouri. In Kentucky, Richard Ernst, a lawyer of Covington, is the Republican candidate against J. C. W. Beckham, the present incumbent. The Republican base any hopes they may entertain for the success of Mr. Ernst on opposition to Senator Beckham among the German and Irish elements, owing to his votes in the United States Senate on measures affecting them, as well as on opposition among the "wets."

In Oregon, the probable re-election of Senator Chamberlain is conceded by the Republicans. In Oklahoma, which has been claimed by the Republicans, their candidate for Senator is Representative J. W. Harreld, one of the five members of the House to vote for the seating of Victor F. Berger after his conviction under the Espionage act. The Socialists, who cast about 50,000 votes, have a candidate of their own.

In Utah Senator Reed Smoot, the Republican candidate, and Representative M. H. Welling, whom the Democrats have nominated, are members of the Mormon Church. Mr. Welling showed sufficient strength to win in the election two years ago, when the drift was so markedly toward the Republican candidates for Congress. The Republicans, however, insist that Senator Smoot will be re-elected even though the electoral vote should go to the Democratic candidates.

MORE REPUBLICANS SEND CASH FOR COX

Contributions Received from Every State in Union and Possessions.

DAY'S RECEIPTS $35,000

Gold Watch Gift Will Be Auctioned at Madison Square Garden Meeting.

Additional contributions amounting to $35,000 were received yesterday by Wilbur W. Marsh, Treasurer of the Democratic National Committee. They were from men, women and children, and not only from every State in the Union, but from League of Nations supporters in Alaska, Porto Rico, Hawaii, Guam and the Philippines. Although Monday was the banner day for individual contributions, Mr. Marsh said that yesterday exceeded, in the number of letters accompanying checks and postal money orders, any previous day in the last two weeks.

The bulk of the contributions, Mr. Marsh said, were from former Republicans and Progressives, several of whom declared they could not stand for the "wiggling and wabbling policy of the front porch candidate." Five hundred dollar "Match-the-President" contributions came from Sylvan Dalsimer of Philadelphia and Mrs. J. W. Mott of Atlantic City, while $2,000 came from Mrs. E. W. Cole of Nashville, Tenn., which represented a contribution for each of her two grandsons killed in the war. She sent this telegram:

"I am sending you through the Tennessee Women's Democratic Headquarters $2,000 to match the President for each of my grandsons, Whiteford Russell Cole, Jr., and Dempsey Weaver, Jr., and twice for myself. I send this in grateful memory of those who sleep in Flanders Field. It takes twenty years to bear and rear a man, but in twenty seconds thousands may be destroyed on the battlefield. In the name of the mothers I urge the League of Nations."

Thomas Smith of Exeter, N. H., sent to Mr. Marsh his check for $50. "I realize," he said, "that we are fighting the greatest campaign in the history of the country against a party with an enormous fund, which will not stop at anything to win and put our Government back into the hands of the interests again."

Five sisters, the Misses Blankenhorn, Dana, Race, Englewood, N. J., sent a check to the Democratic campaign fund for the purpose of disseminating educational propaganda with relation to the League of Nations.

Mrs. Sumner Gerard, 7 East Seventy-second Street, New York City, "matched" Mrs. Wilson's gift by sending her check for $100 to Treasurer Marsh.

A check for $10 came in from a woman who signed her name to Mrs. Ida Manley of Canton, Pa. She wrote: "I am only a little farm woman tucked away in the Pennsylvania hills. I was born a Republican and have always lived and worked in a Republican district, but I am amazed, indignant and ashamed of the Republicans' talk (not arguments) and their methods—not so much of the people as of their leaders."

The Woman's Bureau of the Democratic National Committee received contributions varying from $500, sent by George H. Davis of New York, to $1, sent anonymously by a soldier at Camp Dix. Other contributions included $200 from Mrs. Daniel O'Day and Mrs. Winifred W. Catling and Mrs. Ethel D. Ketcham, Bellport, L. I., $100 each.

Telegrams are being received by the Woman's Bureau from women prominent in federated clubs commending Mrs. Catt's statement on the League of Nations.

A unique contribution came from Edgar Carlton Stinger of Clear Lake, Minn., who sent his gold watch. It will be auctioned off to the highest bidder at a mass meeting Saturday night at Madison Square Garden, when Franklin D. Roosevelt and Governor Smith will be the principal speakers.

Claims Ohio for Republicans.

Ex-Gov. Frank B. Willis of Ohio, now candidate for United States Senator in that State, notified the Republican National Committee yesterday that Harding and Coolidge would carry Ohio by a large majority and urged that no effort be spared to make the victory for the Republican national ticket next Tuesday overwhelming. Mr. Willis said that Harry L. Davis, Republican candidate for Governor of Ohio, would be elected.

MORE BOLT TO COX.

Lawyer and Yale Professor Join List—Aronstam's Name Misspelled.

The list of Republicans who have bolted their party because of Senator Harding's stand on the League of Nations, and who will vote for Governor Cox, received several additional names yesterday, it was announced at the headquarters of the pro-League Independents, 17 East Forty-first Street. William L. Carns, a lawyer, of 128 Broadway, sent word to the organization that he had left the Republican Party and "that peerless type of determined timidity, Harding," and would vote for Cox and the League.

L. A. Weigle of Yale University wrote to Professor Irving Fisher, head of the Pro-League Independents, as follows:

"I have been a life-long Republican and I had intended until recently to vote for Mr. Harding, but it has become so clear that he either has no mind of his own or that his mind is one with that of the enemies of the League, that I cannot do otherwise than vote the Democratic ticket."

Mrs. George W. Bacon and Mrs. Abraham Flexner have added their names to the signers of the women's appeal for Governor Cox and the League, and have enrolled with the women's branch of the Pro-League Independents.

In an article in yesterday's issue of THE TIMES, announcing that Charles S. Aronstam, member of the King's County Republican Committee, had resigned because he could not support the National Republican ticket, Mr. Aronstam's name, through error, appeared as "Aronson."

GEN. N. A. MILES BOLTS COX.

He Compares Harding with Lincoln and Coolidge with John Hancock.

General Nelson A. Miles, former commanding General of the United States Army, yesterday announced his support of Harding and Coolidge. General Miles, who has been considered a Democrat, said the Republican nominees believed in the adjudication of international controversy by arbitration and were opposed to the surrender of our national character and sovereignty to a super-government.

"Senator Harding is a strong character and a profound statesman," he said, "in his experience, disposition and principle the same type as Abraham Lincoln.

"Governor Coolidge is a worthy successor of John Hancock and has demonstrated his reverence for and his ability to maintain a true and legal government of law and order."

MRS. VANDERBILT BOLTS COX

Resigns from Democratic Committee; Will Vote for Harding.

Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., has resigned from the Finance Committee of the Democratic National Committee and sent a donation yesterday to the Republican National Committee. It was said at Republican Headquarters that Mrs. Vanderbilt merely stated that she was unable to continue to support Governor Cox and had decided to vote for Senator Harding.

Mrs. Vanderbilt had heretofore been a Democrat. She had taken an active part in some of the city's charitable organizations, particularly as a member of the Executive Committee of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. During the war she was an active worker in the Women's Branch of the Liberty Loan organization.

CAMPAIGN OF DETRACTION

Blaming Administration for Confusion That Naturally Follows War, Says Ex-Ambassador.

Thomas Nelson Page, author and former Ambassador to Italy, in defining yesterday the attitude of the two major parties regarding the issues of the present campaign, declared that Senator Harding, if elected, would be ruled on the League of Nations by the "Senatorial junta," while Governor Cox "has stood forth like a leader, boldly proclaiming himself for the League of Nations, yet ready to accept any clarifying reservations."

"My conviction," said Mr. Page, "is that the whole result now hinges on getting before the minds of the people at large what Governor Cox stands for as against what Senator Harding stands for. And first, Governor Cox stands as the representative of the whole body of the convention which nominated him; whereas Senator Harding, after General Wood, with his force of character, had been used as a stalking horse, was selected over night in Colonel George Harvey's room 404 of the hotel, which was the headquarters of the Senatorial junta.

"If I understand Senator Harding, he says he will defer to the Senate—he means, of course, the Senatorial junta. Perhaps this is the reason that no Senator has ever been elected President—at least, so far as I recall, no one who had taken his seat in the upper branch has ever been elected. The people want an independent executive, not a puppet of the Senate, which, and not the President, as former Governor McCall of Massachusetts (himself a Republican) recently declared, is the real usurper of power.

"The Republican Senatorial leaders were early in the field, and organized long ago such a campaign of detraction against Mr. Wilson and his Administration that through continual reiteration they have made the more uninformed people believe that the present confused situation has been caused by them. Every thinking man and woman knows that confusion and dislocation necessarily follow such a revolution as the great war, but these Senatorial and ex-Senatorial foes of democracy have discarded the League, which is the only possible means of our getting to a peace basis, and charge that the Democratic Administration is responsible.

"The incredible campaign of misrepresentation carried on by the Republican leaders through the press controlled by them has undoubtedly misled many people, but they appear now to be awakening to the fact of having been deluded as the day approaches for the decision, whether we shall try the only means of peace and safety in sight or shall be dragged back into a case where we must face vast armaments and a second world war.

"If the people be but informed of the facts, the election of Governor Cox will be assured. Then they will have as President a man, clear and sound in his views, of whom the country will be proud. They will elect a man, not the mere echo of Senatorial dictation."

SPENT $13,017 FOR WATKINS.

Prohibition Party Gives Its Expenditures for Campaign Up to Oct. 18.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Reports of the National Committee of the Prohibition Party filed today with the clerk of the House of Representatives showed receipts of $13,244.49 in the party's national Presidential campaign and expenditures of $13,017.82 up to Oct. 18, for the election of Watkins as President.

The clerk also received reports from two State Superintendents of the Anti-Saloon League covering funds expended "to influence elections" during the present campaign. George W. Crabbe, State Superintendent of Maryland, reported $1,481.83 expended in that State, and said the same sum had been received for that purpose from the State Treasurer. O. M. Pullen, State Superintendent of West Virginia, reported expenditures of only $221 out of a total of $9,477.

Those reports are supplementary to that made by Wayne B. Wheeler, yesterday, as Treasurer of the campaign committee of the Anti-Saloon League, which showed expenditures of $2,500. Mr. Wheeler attached to his report a formal statement declaring that it was filed under protest, "as the activities of the league are educational, scientific and charitable rather than political."

ASK COX TO BACK LODGE.

Putnam, Crane and Willcox Urge Promise on Reservations.

A letter similar to that sent yesterday to Senator Harding by leading Republicans is being mailed to Governor Cox by George Haven Putnam, Frank Crane and William G. Willcox. It requests him if elected to support the Lodge reservations to the League of Nations in case of a deadlock in the Senate. The letter reads:

"An affirmative reply to our request could not rightly be viewed as at variance with the position of President Wilson. If a full and effective indorsement of the League should fail we would have the United States enter it upon such terms as may be obtained. The question we propose gives you the opportunity to annihilate with one stroke misrepresentation and gladden the hearts of your countrymen through the small word 'Yes.'"

Miss Gaffney to Hold League Rally.

Miss M. Cecilia Gaffney, President of the Daughters of Oneida, will hold a League of Nations meeting at her home, 411 West End Avenue, Friday evening, which will be followed by a Democratic street rally in front of her residence. The speakers will be George Gordon Battle, Miss Harriet May Mills, candidate for Secretary of State; Nathan Straus, Jr., candidate for State Senator; Miss Elisabeth Marbury, Congressman Herbert C. Pell and Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

WHEN a company about to issue stocks or bonds wants those securities in the most attractive and permanent form, it uses steel-engraving and all-rag paper. It would be almost as accurate to say CRANE'S Bond, for 99% of all steel-engraved securities are on CRANE'S Bond.

These steel-engraved securities are the stocks and bonds of railroads, public service corporations and industrials. Such securities are the life blood of the financial world. Their mission is too important, their work is too great, to trust them to anything but the most enduring and convincing paper obtainable.

Think of the inconsistency of a promise to pay $1,000 reproduced on a piece of cheap and flimsy paper! It suggests that the company issuing it hated to pay even a fraction of a cent for a better paper.

made strong appeals to the Government to withdraw the measure, which Mr. Adamson characterized as "panic legislation, which is always dangerous." Mr. Thomas based his appeal on the ground that emergency powers were needless, pointing out that, although 1,000,000 workers were directly affected by the coal strike, and that a million more were indirectly interested, there had been no disorders.

Premier Lloyd George replied to these criticisms and defended the bill, which he declared, was not intended as an attack on trade unions, but absolutely necessary to "face the threats of railway men and the Triple Alliance to cripple our national life almost without notice."

Further consideration of the bill was prevented during the night session, as T. P. O'Connor, leader of the Irish Nationalists, secured permission to begin the debate on events in Ireland. Mr. O'Connor discussed recent acts of reprisal in the island, but no new points were developed.

THOMAS DEFENDS LABOR IN GENERAL DEMANDS

Says They Understand World Conditions and Are Not Asking Too Much.

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—To J. H. Thomas, M. P., head of the Railwaymen's Union, is given a large share of the credit for preventing a sympathetic strike of the railwaymen and thus opening the way for negotiation in the miners' strike.

While extremists among the labor element disapprove of Thomas's position, the general public thinks his policy has been statesmanlike and in the end will make labor stronger.

Mr. Thomas gave me an interview at Unity House this morning. I found him very hopeful of a favorable outcome in the present crisis. He believed that on both sides there was a realisation of the grave possibilities involved, and there would be a spirit of accommodation that would prevent the threatened disaster.

"No man," he said, "who pretends to serve the best interests of the workers can ever disregard the general interests of the community. However powerful any particular section may be at a given moment; its interests must be held as secondary to those of the community as a whole.

"We have come out of the war with greater resolution to insist that brains are not the monopoly of any class. We ask to share with the employer in the development and improvement of industrial interests. We demand a higher standard of existence. Instead of being treated as a commodity, like soap or sugar, labor must be recognized as having human rights.

"But labor has no illusions about general conditions, and knows that the world is immeasurably poorer. The accumulated wealth of centuries has been poured out in destruction and waste. Millions of producers were for four years turned into consumers, and millions of others have been permanently withdrawn from production. That is the problem. We believe it can be solved by a new recognition of citizenship. What we do must be constructive and not destructive. We must get our results not by pulling down, but by building up. We don't want to increase the millionaire class on one side, or the pauper class on the other. There must not be destruction of ordered institutions by bloody revolution. It is ordered social change toward which the labor movement in this country is directing its efforts."

I asked Mr. Thomas how it was possible to go on increasing wages and maintaining the vicious circle of high prices, and at the same time permit Britain to resume her place in international trade. The miners are now demanding an increase, and when they get it it will be necessary to go down the line of labor unions, with the result that at the end the cost of living would be increased to such an extent that the purchasing power would be the same or less.

"This does not follow in the least," said Mr. Thomas, "and I don't believe it will happen. The miners believe, and events prove it, that when they get their two-shillings increase it will be possible to join with the owners in well-considered measures for increased production that will be worth ten times the increase in the miners' wages.

Turning to the larger aspect, the world can recover if the nations will stop all wars that are going on and immediately make peace. If we had had the active and powerful help of America, this might have been accomplished at once. Now two nations can do as much as America and ourselves. We ought to have peace with Germany and Russia. That peace hasn't come is due largely to the fact that all of us in Europe are suffering from shell shock. But we will pull through. Britain will pull through, because common sense is the common possession of the British people. For this reason the labor movement in this country is promising, and when the time comes the British public will not fear a labor Government.

"We are not cosmopolitan, as in your country. We are unified. We have got beyond the agitating stage, and have reached the statesmen stage. Responsibility has made labor more conservative, and problems as they arise will be treated with breadth and sobriety, and the interests of the country as a whole will be controlling."

Government upon the question of political recognition. This attitude has been stated in unmistakable terms.

"The receipt, however, of an official dispatch conveying the intelligence that proposals looking to recognition have been made, even if irresponsibly, makes it important that an opportunity should be afforded to the numerous body of men reported from Los Angeles to be associated with Mr. Vanderlip, but whose names are not published, to define their relation to him, if any exist."

Secretary Colby emphasized the point that the report had come to the department from an official in whom the department placed the most complete reliance, whose duty it was to make confidential reports on significant and important facts.

Evan Erastus Young who sent this report, has been stationed at Riga for some time as special diplomatic representative, charged with the duty of reporting all significant facts coming to his knowledge, and especially facts relative to conditions in Soviet Russia. At Riga he was in position to confer with Americans and citizens of other countries emerging from Russia after having gone there on various missions. Mr. Young is 42 years old, a citizen of Sioux Falls, S. D., and has been in the diplomatic and consular service since 1905, when he left the practice of law to become American Consul at Harput, Turkey. After serving at Saloniki he became chief of the Near Eastern Division of the State Department in 1909, was Minister to Ecuador from 1911 to 1912, later serving as Foreign Trade Adviser and Consul General at Halifax.

Mr. Colby said that the report by Mr. Young was so important that the department felt that it should be disclosed so as to give those mentioned in the report the opportunity to confirm or deny the statements made.

"Here is an official report," said Secretary Colby, "that states that H. G. Wells had stated that Lenin had informed him that Vanderlip, claiming to represent Senator Harding, had made certain proposals looking to the recognition of the Bolshevist Government and was active in obtaining concessions. The report indicates that Vanderlip was taken seriously by the Soviet Government.

"The policy of this Administration," the Secretary said, "has received the most careful, qualified and explicit definition with respect to Soviet Russia. The reason I make it public is because the report from Commissioner Young has this morning received a very significant confirmation in part in news dispatches from London saying that Vanderlip had succeeded in obtaining concessions from the Soviet authorities and because I think the statements made in the official report ought to be known, so that they may be either affirmed or repudiated. The State Department ought not to withhold a dispatch of so serious a character, and the information is being given out on motives wholly within the just and legitimate interest of the State Department."

Renewed Warning on Trade.

What is regarded as another important point made by Secretary Colby in his formal announcement regarding the Vanderlip case, is the reiteration of the warning previously given by the State Department to American citizens, that, as the American Government has never recognized the Bolshevist regime, American business men and investors should bear in mind that any concessions from the Soviet leaders would have no "certainty of recognition" by future Russian governments. Any such concessions, with respect to the matter of the legality and future international standing will be wholly at the risk of the persons obtaining them.

Publication of news reports from London and Los Angeles relative to the Vanderlip concessions this morning developed great interest in official and diplomatic circles in Washington. State Department officials, when asked about the report this morning, said they had received certain information, but at that time refrained from discussing the case. Late this afternoon, however, Secretary Colby made his official announcement based on Commissioner Young's dispatch. One of the news dispatches to which Mr. Colby alluded sent from London last night, stated that Vanderlip had sent a telegram from London saying he had concluded an extensive arrangement with the Russian Soviet authorities by which an organization of Western American financiers acquires a sixty-year lease of a vast tract in Northeastern Siberia, with exclusive rights to develop coal, oil and fisheries. This dispatch credited Vanderlip with the declaration that his associates were the heads of leading financial institutions west of the Rockies. The dispatch said the tract thus acquired included "all Northeastern Siberia east of the 100th meridian, including the peninsula of Kamchatka, an area of some 400,000 square miles."

Another news dispatch printed this morning, under a Los Angeles date line, credited Harry Chandler, publisher of The Los Angeles Times, with having said he was one of the persons associated with Washington D. Vanderlip in the exploration of Siberia. This dispatch credited Mr. Chandler with the statement that about twenty-five business men had become associated with Vanderlip, who had spent two years in Siberia.

DENIAL BY SYNDICATE.

No Politics in Their Venture, Says Chandler.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—It was stated here today by Harry Chandler, publisher of The Los Angeles Times, on behalf of the syndicate represented by Washington D. Vanderlip, now in Copenhagen, that Mr. Vanderlip represents purely personal business interests here and elsewhere in the West.

He said that Mr. Vanderlip and those he represents had no connection, either personally or political, with Senator Harding, and that their interest in the Siberian venture was a purely commercial enterprise without political significance. Mr. Chandler is one of the syndicate.

J. F. Sartorn, Los Angeles banker, said here tonight there was "nothing political" about the lease by a group of Pacific Coast capitalists of a large tract in Northeastern Siberia.

"I know very little about it," he stated. "I was asked if I would take an interest in the project, and I said I would. I have no details at all."

"There is absolutely no political significance to be attached to the matter," said S. E. Gibbon, attorney and railway man associated with Mr. Sartori and others in the Suberian project.

"My understanding is, Mr. Vanderlip, who is a mining engineer, went to see what concessions he could obtain in Siberia. It is very probable he had some conversation with the governing powers. It is very natural that he should. But he went as a private citizen. I cannot conceive that he should have made any such representations as are attributed to him. I cannot believe these representations have any basis in fact."

SEATTLE, Oct. 26.—Records of the Seattle Port Commission show no purchase of Seattle waterfront property by the Russian Government under the late Czar or any pending negotiations for acquiring of a lease on such property by an American syndicate headed by Washington D. Vanderlip, according to George F. Nicholson, Port Commissioner.

TAKEN FOR F. A. VANDERLIP.

Soviet Concession to Banker's Namesake Explained by Mr. Landfield.

Jerome Landfield, Vice President of the Russian-American Chamber of Commerce, who was an assistant in the Russian division of the State Department during the war, and is well known as an authority on Russia by reason of his long residence in and affiliations with that country, writes to THE TIMES:

"The dispatch from London which appeared in this morning's TIMES announcing that Mr. W. D. Vanderlip of California, who recently visited Russia, had sent a telegram from Copenhagen to the effect that he had obtained a concession from the Soviet Government for a vast tract in Northeastern Siberia, with exclusive rights to develop coal, oil and fisheries, presents several points of interest.

"First of all, it recalls the fact that a month ago a dispatch was received from London to the effect that Mr. Frank A. Vanderlip of New York was in Moscow negotiating with the Soviet Economic Council. This was quickly disproved, as Mr. Vanderlip was at that time in New York, but it turns out to have been based upon the statement by Litvinow, the Bolshevist representative, in his Norwegian organ, the Social Democraten of Christiania, which announced that negotiations with the United States were proceeding very satisfactorily, and as a proof gave out the information that a representative of several important syndicates, Mr. Vanderlip, was in Moscow. The explanation, of course, is that Mr. W. D. Vanderlip, a California prospector and journalist, was the man referred to.

"The second fact of interest is that the concession referred to is undoubtedly that which the old Russian Government in 1900 granted to a certain Vonlarlarsky, at a time when the discovery of gold at Nome gave hopes of an El Dorado on the opposite shores of Bering Sea. At that time an English syndicate was formed, with Mr. Vonlarlarsky's participation, and an exploring expedition was sent from San Francisco, which, after an examination of several months, returned to report that the region contained no valuable minerals and presented no commercial interest. Successively different parties undertook to exploit the concession, but without result. It would appear on the face of it that Mr. W. D. Vanderlip, staked in his adventure by some wealthy California acquaintances, had proceeded to Soviet Russia with the aim of resurrecting the old Vonlarlarsky project.

"If, as stated in the London dispatch, his concession includes Kamchatka, there might be some basis for anticipating the discovery of mineral wealth, but it would seem desirable to secure a more valid title than any that could be granted by the present Moscow authorities, whose influence in Northeastern Siberia is represented only by a few roving bands of brigands. Altogether, the story of this concession and Mr. Vanderlip's negotiations is an interesting example of Soviet operations. The project itself does not strike one as serious. But anything serves if it can be made use of for propaganda purposes to impress the public at large with the idea that the Soviet Government is ready to come to terms with foreign capitalists and do business on a large scale."

MARTENS CONFIRMS GRANT OF CONCESSION

Tchitcherin Says Negotiations Are on for the Syndicate to Finance Purchaser Here.

The Soviet Bureau here, in charge of Ludwig Martens, confirmed yesterday the grant of a concession in Siberia to a group of American capitalists, quoting a dispatch from Tchitcherin, the Soviet Foreign Minister. The dispatch adds that negotiations are going on for the syndicate to finance purchases for Russia here up to half a billion dollars. A statement of the Soviet Bureau says:

"Confirmation of the report that Washington D. Vanderlip of California, representing a syndicate of Pacific Coast capitalists, has concluded an extensive arrangement with the Russian Soviet Government for the development of nautral resources in Northeastern Siberia, was contained in a cable received today by the Soviet Government Bureau in New York from George Tchitcherin, Commissar for Foreign Affairs at Moscow. Mr. Tchitcherin's cable is directed to Mr. L. Martens, representative of the Soviet Government in America, and reads as follows:

"'On Oct. 22 there was announced the consummation of the deal proposed by the Vanderlip Syndicate, comprising Vanderlip, Barnt, Harry Chandler, Sartori, Le Phillips, Fishburn, Edward L. Doheny, Gibbon, Jayne, Whittier, Stewart and Braun, all Pacific Coast capitalists. The syndicate acquires a sixty-year lease of territory east of the one hundred and sixtieth meridian, including Kamchatka, an area of 400,000 square miles, with exclusive rights to exploit coal, oil and fisheries. Vast oil stratas and bituminous coal deposits have been discovered in this territory. The syndicate expects to take possession and commence operations in the Spring of 1921. The same syndicate is also acquiring a lease, with the right to purchase, of the Seattle waterfront property purchased by the Czar's government. Negotiations are proceeding successfully whereby this syndicate will become our fiscal agents in America, financing purchases up to $500,000,000; all purchases to be made through your office.

"'TCHITCHERIN.'

"Although the details of the Vanderlip concession have not reached us, it may be assumed that the contract provides full security and reasonable profits to the American operators, and at the same time, carefully safeguards in every respect the rights of the workers in the territories to be developed. Foreign capitalists taking up concessions in Soviet Russia will be required to respect the sovereignty of the Soviet Republic and to conform to the laws of the Soviet Government respecting the protection of labor and the democratic management of industry."

Rev. Lincoln H. Caswell, Pastor of the Crawford Memorial Church, White Plains Av. and 219th St., will deliver a lecture on D. W. Griffith's "Way Down East," next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. "Way Down East," now at the 44th St. Theatre, is the sensation of the age.—Advt.

COLBY IS CONFIDENT OF LEAGUE VICTORY

Sees Republicans Hopelessly Divided and at Sea on Harding's Position.

ASSAILS HIS LEADERSHIP

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Victory for the Democratic Party and the League of Nations next Tuesday was forecast in a speech which Secretary of State Colby made tonight under the auspices of the Democratic Central Committee of the District of Columbia. Secretary Colby declared unequivocally that the attitude of this country on the League of Nations had been definitely settled, and that the Republican position on the League was "grotesque." He asserted that it was now possible to predict "with a certain confidence" the outcome of the campaign.

The varying stands taken by various members of the Republican Party were ridiculed by the Secretary. He likened Senator Harding to a rudderless ship, and said that not even the Republican Party knew what the attitude of its candidate upon the League actually was.

"The campaign draws to its conclusion," said Secretary Colby. "But a few days remain for the discussion of its issues, so vital to the peace of mankind, so vital to the security and honor of America. It is now possible to take a backward glance at the course of the campaign, to appraise its results, and to forecast with a certain confidence its outcome.

"One result of the campaign stands out distinctly. Mr. Harding has been virtually pushed out of bounds on the great issue of the League of Nations; and what an extraordinary result it is! It is the foremost issue. It has been debated to the exclusion of every other issue. Countless Republicans have severed the party ties of a lifetime in order to bring America into alignment with the conscience and mind of the world on this great issue.

"It is clearly the issue upon which the election will turn; and yet the candidate for the Presidency of the Republican Party has not yet found words with which to define his attitude on this question. His own party is not only hopelessly divided on the question itself, but even more divided as to what the attitude of its candidate is. Powerful voices like those of Senators Johnson, Borah and Brandegee insist that Harding has definitely rejected the League of Nations and is opposed to any league. Voices which hitherto have been potent in Republican circles, such as Mr. Taft and Mr. Root, insist that Mr. Harding's genuine intentions are not to be inferred from what he says, and that, despite his apparent opposition to the League, is really he favors it.

"As for Mr. Harding himself, he swings and lurches like a ship which has dropped its anchor, lost its steerageway and fouled its rudder, proposing as an alternative to the League some conception which he can hardly pronounce and as to which he admits he has not a constructive idea. He must be conscious of the fact that there has been a great drift away from him on the part of Republican voters, and yet he seems to feel that this steady loss is preferable to the complete disruption of his party and of his prospects, which would result from any intelligible statement of his position.

"It can hardly be that the American people, which have always respected a man of outspoken convictions, who have always admired, although sometimes they have refused to follow, a man who is loyal to principle—it can hardly be, I say, that the American people are willing to follow a leadership that hides and blanches and crouches and equivocates, that resorts to masks and aliases and hopes to achieve the Presidency by duping his followers, his party and his country.

"I always felt during the weary months of the Senate argument on the ratification of the Versailles Treaty that when the issue reached the people they would make short work of the insincerities and attorney logic of the Senate debate, and I have been interested in perceiving from day to day how fully that expectation was to be realized.

"The Republican position on the League is grotesque. The position of the pro-League Republicans, like Taft, Wickersham, Root and others, is pathetic. This feature of the campaign is finished. The question of America's attitude on the League of Nations is settled. The discomfiture of the straddlers is painful to witness."

TAFT WON'T DEBATE LEAGUE

He Refuses Prof. Fisher's Invitation to Meet in Mormon Tabernacle.

Special to The New York Times.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 26.—Professor Irving Fisher, now touring the West in the interest of the League of Nations and the election of Governor Cox, called upon former President Taft at his hotel here yesterday and requested Mr. Taft to join in a joint debate on the League before an audience in the Mormon Tabernacle.

Mr. Taft declined Professor Fisher's suggestion with much heat. The former President afterward made his address in support of Harding before one audience, while Professor Fisher and Colonel Whittlesey of the "Lost Battalion" were asking for the election of Cox in another hall.

HARDING FAVORED AT 6-1.

Democrats, However, Accept Few Bets Except on Doubtful States.

Harding continues to rule a 6 to 1 favorite among Wall Street bettors on the Presidential election, the drive of the Democratic candidate not having had the effect of shortening the ratio. The odds, however, mean little since there is practically no betting. Republican money is in sight, but there is little disposition on the part of supporters of Governor Cox to risk a bet. No record could be found yesterday of any bets on the Presidential race other than some wagers on results in certain of the doubtful States. At the Elks Club, Harding was a 10-to-1 favorite. Two-to-one odds were offered that former Judge Miller would defeat Governor Smith. In both cases the bets were not taken.

RIVAL SPELLBINDERS CLASH AT THE CURB

Walker Boomers Win Verbal Battle with Wadsworth Orators in Times Square.

A clash between the forces of Lieutenant Governor Walker and James W. Wadsworth, Jr., candidates for United States Senator on the Democratic and Republican tickets, respectively, enlivened Times Square yesterday. The Walker forces had to set up a speaking stand on the north side of the Times building and supplied it with enough speakers to keep the oratory going all the afternoon.

When the meeting opened at noon a large crowd assembled. A few minutes later a rival truck drew up to the curb and Wadsworth adherents tried to take the crowd away from the Walker speakers. The clash lasted until the Walker orators stated they welcomed all the Wadsworth literature they could get, as it was good campaign material for their candidate. This caught the fancy of the audience and the Wadsworth forces were driven to cover.

The Times Square meeting lasted twelve hours, from noon until midnight. In the meantime forty automobiles filled with Walker spellbinders were dashing through every borough of the city. About 100 speakers extolled the merits of their candidate during the day.

Women speakers, many of whom are Republicans who are against the present Senator because of his woman suffrage and anti-labor record, proved to be the best orators. Among them were Alice Fisher, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, Mrs. F. H. Potter, Mrs. Henry Moskowitz, Mrs. Charles L. Tiffany, Miss Lucia Nois, Mrs. John Blair and Mrs. Marion Booth Kelley. The men speakers included Hugh Frayne, Dock Commissioner Murray Hulbert, Robert Adamson, former Fire Commissioner, and Peter J. Brady.

Ohio Republicans Bolt to Cox.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 26.—A bolt to Cox has been led in Northern Ohio by two prominent Republicans, Frank W. Wood and A. I. Root, who have deserted Harding on the League of Nations issue. Their course has created a stir in Medina County, where they have long been leaders.

·EXCLUSIVE, BUT NOT EXPENSIVE·

IN 1492

When Columbus discovered America, he found a land flowing with milk and honey; but one thing was lacking—sheep.

So he set about to remedy this little defect by bringing some with him on his very next voyage.

Which would seem to indicate that Columbus was quite as fond of a deliciously broiled lamb chop as the patrons of CHILDS are today.

NO PRIZE IN SIGHT FOR EAGER WRITERS

Hays Fails to Join in Naming Jury to Pass on League Essay Contest.

200 FACE DISAPPOINTMENT

Pro-League Independents Again Ask Republican Chairman to Act or Decline.

Two hundred aspiring essayists will lose a chance for the $25,000 prize offered by the Pro-League Independents for an essay which would prove that Article X. of the League of Nations covenant would abridge the sovereignty of the United States, unless Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, consents to join with George White, Democratic National Chairman, in naming a jury.

The original offer, made through Professor Irving Fisher, organizer of the league, provided that the $25,000 prize should be awarded by the unanimous vote of twelve persons who should be appointed by Mr. Hays and Mr. White. It was provided that in case of failure of a unanimous agreement of the jury the essayist whose reasoning proved convincing to a majority of the jury should receive half the amount of the prize.

According to those in charge of the contest at the Pro-League Independents' headquarters, 17 East Forty-first Street, Chairman White at once announced his willingness to join Chairman Hays in selecting the jury, but no reply has been received from the latter. The following second letter on the matter was sent to Mr. Hays last night:

Oct. 25, 1920.

Mr. Will S. Hays, Republican National Headquarters, New York City.

Dear Mr. Hays: On Oct. 16, the Pro-League Independents, by Professor Fisher, organizer, addressed and delivered to you in this city by messenger a letter of which a copy is attached, requesting that you co-operate with Chairman White of the Democratic National Committee in appointing a jury of twelve qualified citizens, all of whom might be Republicans if desired by you, to award a $25,000 prize offered by us on Oct. 15, according to conditions attached to that letter and handed to the press.

The prize was to be awarded to the person first proving to the satisfaction of the jury selected jointly by you and Mr. White that American soldiers could be ordered abroad by order of the League of Nations without the consent of our Congress and our representative on the Council of the League if the United States was a member. The contest was open from the 10th to the 22d of this month, inclusive.

A letter similar to the one addressed to you was handed to Chairman White; this was acknowledged on the 21st. He expressed his willingness to join you in appointing a jury according to the conditions of the contest. So far we have had no knowledgment from you.

In the meantime nearly 200 essays have been received from all parts of the United States in competition for the prize we offered.

In order that fair and full consideration may be given to the efforts of these contestants, who have for the most part acted in good faith, we respectfully request an instant reply by telephone, wire or letter from you accepting or declining our proposal, so that we may be enabled to take immediate action with regard to the manuscript received.

This letter is handed to the newspapers at the same time it is delivered to you in order to keep the entire history of this contest before the public.

Very truly yours,
PRO-LEAGUE INDPENDENTS.

In case of failure to receive any reply to the second letter to Mr. Hays it was said that each of the 200 contestants would be notified that it had been found impossible to fulfill the terms of the offer.

ROOSEVELT SWINGS THROUGH BROOKLYN

SAYS COX WILL BE ELECTED

Vice Presidential Candidate Speaks at Chamber of Commerce Dinner and Four Rallies.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for Vice President, made a swing through Brooklyn yesterday afternoon and last night, speaking at a dinner of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce and at four political rallies. The League of Nations was the subject of Mr. Roosevelt's speeches at all the meetings. At one meeting he declared that the United States, as a mere matter of self-preservation, should take part in the attempts being made to stabilize and improve the world of finance through the League.

Mr. Roosevelt said that reports he has received from all over the country during the last few days indicate beyond all doubt that Governor Cox will be elected. A vast number of voters, although normally Republican, he said, will vote the Democratic ticket this year.

"It does not mean that they will become Democrats," he added, "but it does mean they understand the importance of this election to the future of the United States."

"I have been tremendously impressed," he said further, "by the great swing of sentiment toward Governor Cox by men and women in New York who are interested in commercial transactions connected with foreign trade. All of the world realizes that the financial stability of the great majority of nations has been severely shaken and that it is even now in a dangerous condition.

"Of course, if a crash in foreign parts should occur the United States would be seriously affected. If for no other reason than a selfish one, the United States must immediately resume her place at the table with other nations in order that economic and financial difficulties resulting from the war may be straightened out and placed in a safe position. It is, of course, reasonable to add that if a collapse occurs because of the United States not taking part in world affairs, it is not merely Americans who are connected with foreign commerce who will sufffer. Every other American will feel the blow indirectly—even those who live in the middle of the country or on the farms."

At the Chamber of Commerce dinner, where he addressed a large audience, Mr. Roosevelt criticised those who have attacked the manner in which the Government handled large war contracts. He said they were the same persons who championed huge contracts at the time the country was getting ready for war. He said the Republicans were just as responsible as the Democrats for waste during the war, if there was any, and that the responsibility should be shared equally. He was loudly applauded when he said he wanted to see the United States have as great a navy as any other power.

The candidate also got laughter and applause when he dared any Republican in the room to say that he was proud of Senator Harding.

In another speech he referred to Theodore Roosevelt as follows:

"Tomorrow is Theodore Roosevelt's birthday. To me his memory will always stand for one characteristic more than any other—fair fighting. He hit hard, but he taught young America to hit above the belt.

"I wish he were alive today. He had definite convictions. He was not afraid to take a position and maintain it. He never wobbled."

Mr. Roosevelt left late last night for Maryland where he speaks today. On Thursday he will tour New Jersey and will return to New York on Friday. He will speak in Madison Square Garden with Governor Smith Saturday night.

LEAGUE REPUBLICANS CALL ON WILSON TODAY

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Headed by Hamilton Holt, editor of The Independent and Vice Chairman of the League to Enforce Peace, a group of pro-League Republicans will call upon President Wilson at 11 o'clock tomorrow. It is expected in Washington that President Wilson will take advantage of the opportunity to present to the world some expression in behalf of the League that will bear directly upon the campaign.

There is a possibility that members of the press will be allowed to be present during the interview, but this has by no means been definitely settled. It was intimated at the White House that this matter would not be decided until tomorrow morning, just before the conference. It is presumed that the mutual wishes of the President and the members of Mr. Holt's delegation will govern the decision whether to admit the Washington correspondents.

About two weeks ago 121 Republicans and former Progressives joined in a declaration that they would vote for Cox and Roosevelt because they were in favor of going into the League, while Senator Harding had declared himself against it. It was stated last Sunday by Mr. Holt that forty-nine other men and women had joined the 121, making 170 in all. According to Mr. Holt, of twenty Republican officers of the League to Enforce Peace who put themselves on record in answer to inquiries, fifteen were for Cox. Included were clergymen of all the principal denominations and the Presidents of Oberlin, Vassar, Smith, Bryn Mawr and Mount Holyoke Colleges.

Some of those on the list supplied by Mr. Holt were Roger W. Babson, Ray Stannard Baker, Professor John Bates Clark, J. D. Dort, Edwin F. Gay, Ellwood Hendrick, M. A. DeWolfe Howe, Herbert S. Houston, the Rev. Arthur S. Hoyt, Mrs. Thomas W. Lamont, Dr. H. N. McCracken, Theodore Marburg, Hugh Gordon Miller, Margaret Prescott Montague and Herbert Parsons.

HYLAN LAUDS SMITH AT BROOKLYN RALLY

Tells Audience They Will Never Have a Chance to Support a Better Man.

GOVERNOR GETS OVATION

Warmly Received in Tour of Richmond—Calls Miller an "I-Don't-Know" Candidate.

After making a whirlwind tour of Staten Island last night Governor Alfred E. Smith spoke at two crowded Brooklyn meetings. At one meeting he was joined on the platform by Mayor Hylan, who indorsed him for the first time during the present campaign. This meeting was held at Palm Garden, Wilson and Greene Avenues. Five thousand people were crowded into the hall and 2,000 more waited outside.

Mayor Hylan was introduced by William F. Delaney, Democratic leader of the Twentieth Assembly District, as "the best Mayor New York ever had." The cheering that followed lasted five minutes. The Mayor said:

"Governor Smith has complied with every request made by myself and by members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment in the interest of the effective legislation for the people of New York City. He has aided us in every possible way, and I want to tell you that other great men may come, but never will you have the opportunity to vote for a greater man for Governor of New York State than Alfred E. Smith."

The Governor's trip through Staten Island was a continuous ovation. At the first meeting in Downey's Hall, West Brighton, the Governor was cheered for five minutes by a crowd of 1,000 men and women that filled the hall. He spoke for fifteen minutes, accusing his opponent, ex-Judge Nathan L. Miller, of dodging the issues of the State campaign. The Governor was then whisked across the island to Stapleton, where in the largest hall on State Island he was cheered for fifteen minutes by a crowd of 5,000, all that could be jammed into the building. The Governor answered the attacks made by his opponent regarding the traction situation.

"Judge Miller, speaking in Brooklyn last evening, touched upon the transit situation," he said. "As in many other things he frankly admits that he does not know anything about it and that he will have to study it. I am prompted to repeat the question that I asked an up-State audience some weeks ago: Do they believe that they should elect a Governor who must study all these problems of government and wait until he has completed that study before action?

"Do they want an 'I-don't-know' Governor—one who must begin his education where I began mine fifteen years ago?

"In an evening paper he summed up several situations, included among them was the transit situation and when he spoke of paying the interest on subway bonds out of returns from the operations of the lines he undoubtedly hinted at an increased fare. If I understand the situation rightly, the people of this city don't want any meddling with their affairs from Albany. So far as the construction of subways is concerned, the Governor of the State has performed his full duty under the law when he names a competent Commissioner to supervise their construction.

"The actual work of construction is purely a local matter to be arranged between the operating companies and the representatives of the city in the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. Commissioner Delaney's letter published in the afternoon papers today is a complete answer to Judge Miller's charge that I failed to keep my promises to expedite subway construction. The new lines opened up and the new arteries of travel made possible to the people are the complete answer. Actual performance speaks louder than words.

"In fifteen months $75,000,000 worth of rapid transit lines have been put in operation, thirty-nine new rapid transit stations, twenty-one in Brooklyn, eleven in the Bronx. This means twenty-two miles of new construction completed.

"The Governor declared that the housing situation was one of the most important in the history of the city and yet Mr. Miller had refused to discuss it.

"Does he really mean to tell the people of this State that the question of proper housing facilities for our people is not an issue?" he asked. "He cannot mean that because he must know that the so-called Rent laws are only of a temporary character and were intended to tide the State over the crisis, this testimony has been revealed. Betts was last heard from at Lester Manor, Va., a suburb of Richmond. Governor Davis of that State refused to honor extradition papers.

INDICTS SHERIFF AND COUNTY LEADERS

It is understood that recent testimony dealt mainly with the report that professional gamblers had received protection from officials, and that there had been a conspiracy between gamblers and officials whereby the former were "tipped off" when raids were planned. Information obtained from any one of the many persons who pleaded guilty may have resulted in the indictments.

At the Mineola Court House it was said by officials that one of the indicted men was the alleged intermediary. How McWhinney, Smith, O'Keefe or Doughty were connected with the case no one seemed to know. McWhinney was campaigning for re-election in his district last night, and had not returned home at a late hour. The others could not be found.

Recently Carman Plant, who was County Detective in Nassau County for several years, and Thomas Barbuti, crime investigator, were dismissed by District Attorney Weeks following their testimony at the John Doe inquiry.

It was said that Matthew O'Neil, who was sentenced to serve seven and a half years in Sing Sing following conviction as an automobile thief, had in some way connected investigators with an organized traffic in stolen automobiles. Whether O'Neil or William ("Red") Hoffman his partner, who surrendered himself to the authorities, gave testimony involving others is not known.

Allan O. Meyer and Plant were witnesses before the Grand Jury last week. They were asked what they knew about a report that a certain official went into a drugstore and telephoned to a gambling house that a raid was about to be staged. Meyer is said to have given testimony connecting officials with the incident.

Justice Scudder, it was learned, was anxious that officials, if any were to be involved, should not be indicted until after election. He said that the indictments might be interpreted as a political move, as he is a candidate for re-election to the Supreme Court. This, it was pointed out, might explain his silence as to the nature of the allegations.

When Busted, Betts and others were indicted recently Justice Scudder commented at length, stating that the county would persevere in its onslaughts against vice in any form it might be revealed. The Grand Jury, it was learned, will continue its investigation.

The men indicted will be arraigned this morning before Justice Scudder. McWhinney has served several terms in the Assembly. He is about 30 years old and married. Doughty is 55 years old, and is in the oyster business at Inwood. He has long been a Republican leader in Hempstead and vicinity, and is said to be wealthy. Smith, who also lives in Inwood, was elected Sheriff last year.

Cassidy, the former Democratic boss of Queens, has had a picturesque political history. He was convicted of bartering for the nomination of William Willett, Jr., as Supreme Court Justice, served a term in prison and later was restored to citizenship by Governor Whitman. He was welcomed back to Long Island City at a public dinner in his honor, attended by the "old crowd" in Queens politics. Since then he has not been in the political limelight. He is reputed to be wealthy.

Our Best Friend Is the One who helps us to find out our real selves and who endeavors to show us how to make proper use of our abilities.

A school or college teacher who sees no other duty in her position than cramming heads with book knowledge alone is next door to a failure.

To help make the coming man somebody must study the headpiece and the heartpiece of every individual under his care and aid him to sift his book knowledge and apply to himself the part that will develop the plans of his life.

If he has no plans for his life, lose no time in helping him to find himself.

Let us be practical in keeping store and in everything else we have to do.

BELMAISON has imported some Curtains from Japan

Some new and charming curtain material has been found in Japan for BELMAISON to use in lovely rooms this winter. It is a wonderfully delicate looking silk fabric, fine-spun and patterned with shadowy designs charming in theme. There are great bunches of peonies, flights of butterflies, the feathery fronds of young bamboo, daisies and other lovely motifs. The material is of a lovely soft cream color, sturdy enough to be used for hangings and glass curtains for all its fragile charm. Used in the natural color it is very lovely, and it may be dyed to harmonize with any room.

BELMAISON will be glad to consult with you about the use of some of this exquisite material in your home.

JUDGE MILLER SAYS SMITH BETRAYS COX

PICKS FLAWS IN RECORD

Says Governor Played Politics on Housing and Traction Questions —Tours Westchester County.

In speeches here and in Westchester County Nathan L. Miller, Republican candidate for Governor, charged Governor Alfred E. Smith yesterday with "throwing overboard" the Democratic national ticket in an effort to save himself. Judge Miller declared that a candidate who would desert his national candidates would do other things, and charged the Governor with conducting a campaign of false promises.

"He is going up and down the State," Judge Miller said at meetings at the Casino Theatre and the Hotel Knickerbocker here, "asserting that he is entitled to credit for everything that a Republican Legislature has done. Then he is offering a Republican Legislature as an excuse for every promise he has not kept."

Judge Miller declared that Governor Smith was claiming credit for the increase in the pay of school teachers when it was a Republican Legislature which passed the bill. He asserted that the Governor was telling members of the American Legion that he was the cause of bringing the bonus proposition before the voters, when it was placed on the ballot by resolution of the Legislature without the Governor having anything to do with it.

Judge Miller also accused Governor Smith with "playing politics" with the housing situation and the traction situation and repeated his charge that Governor Smith had failed to keep his promise to better transit conditions in New York City made in his campaign two years ago.

He also attacked Governor Smith with an attempt to deceive the voters by proposing to retain on the statute books of the State the 2.75 beer act, which the United States Supreme Court has held to be invalid. "That law can not give you beer or wine," Judge Miller said, "Under the present situation in this city, you do have the chance to buy illegally poor whisky at an exorbitant price, and that is all the law will ever give you.

"I am not going to promise to give you beer or wine, because I know such a promise would contemplate a violation of my oath of office. I shall take an oath to support the Constitution of the United States and I propose to respect that oath. The Governor's proposition is nothing more nor less than an invitation to law breaking."

Judge Miller said he believed the maintenance of law to be the most important question of the State campaign. "The Governor has said that I am wet in wet territory and dry in dry territory," he said. "It is no longer a question of wet or dry. It is a question of preserving our institutions. It is a question, so far as I am concerned, of whether I am willing to hold out the hope that I will disregard my oath of office. I will say to you frankly that I will not do it."

In his tour of Westchester County in the afternoon and evening, Judge Miller repeated his charges that Governor Smith was insincere in many things he is advocating and that he was playing politics. He made speeches at Bronxdale, White Plains, New Rochelle, Mount Vernon and Yonkers. He was accompanied by Lieut. Col. Roosevelt and Henry R. Barrett, Secretary of the Westchester County Republican Committee.

"The Republican Legislature passed welfare bills long before Governor Smith was in office," Judge Miller said at White Plains. "The Republicans have introduced all the welfare bills. I cannot find the record of a single bill for social welfare that Governor Smith introduced when he was in the Assembly."

BRINGS $10,000,000 IN GOLD.

The Saxonia Arrives With Consignment for Reserve Bank.

The Cunarder Saxonia arrived yesterday from London with $10,000,000 in gold consigned to the Federal Reserve Bank, and a large number of passengers. During her three months' lieup on the other side the Saxonia was entirely refitted.

Among the passengers arriving from Trieste on the Cunarder Pannonia was Mme. Nina Korshetz, a Russian operatic soprano, who was at the Imperial Opera House in Petrograd when the city was captured by the Bolsheviki. They gave her the choice either to sing at public concerts or be shot. She escaped to Kiev in July disguised as a Red Cross nurse.

Dr. William Forgo of Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., who returned on the Italian liner Pesaro from Switzerland, said that former King Constantine of Greece expects to recover his throne. "In a talk I had with him in Lucerne," Dr. Forgo continued, "the King told me he had never abdicated and had only left the country." He said he was confident the people wanted him back, and that Premier Venizelos, the strongest republican in Greece, had utterly failed to change the form of government.

Dr. Forgo added that the former King and Queen of Greece were living simply at the Hotel Nationale in Lucerne and came down to the table d'hote luncheons and dinners with the other guests.

The Pesaro stopped at Algiers for coal and four French stowaways got on board disguised as Arab boys selling sherbet to the thirsty steerage passengers. They were not discovered until the ship passed the Azores.

SHIP CAPTAIN EXONERATED.

License Restored to W. H. Chambliss, Who Commanded the Lake Elkwood.

Captain William H. Chambliss, formerly of the Shipping Board steamship Lake Elkwood, who left his vessel in Rio Janeiro and came to Washington, where he charged Arminus Titus Haeberle, Acting United States Consul at Rio Janeiro, with havink practically seized his ship to have excessive repairs made, has been exonerated of charges of misconduct and negligence by the local Steamboat Inspection Service. The findings, the skipper announced yesterday, have been approved by the Supervising Inspector and the Captain's license has been restored to him.

In October a year ago Captain Chambliss put into Rio Janeiro with a broken propeller. He said the Consul undertook to have the repairs made, that his vessel was "pulled to pieces" and his cargo and supplies removed and sold. He refused to O K the bill and this, he said, led to his troubles.

The Coward Shoe

"Made in America"

THE truly national character of the Coward Shoe is emphasized by the present pressure of foreign-made goods upon the American market. For more than half a century two thirds of the Coward Shoes have been made in our own factory, from choice American leathers and materials, by loyal union workers.

The money that is spent for Coward Shoes stays in America to help maintain our national institutions. It supports American families in a happy home life; it educates American children as few others are educated; it provides recreation such as only Americans enjoy.

Accepted by competent authorities as being far superior to foreign-made shoes, Coward Shoes are being worn by an ever-increasing patronage, as much because they are a distinctly American product as for the intrinsic value found in their honesty of materials, of workmanship, of intention.

The lines of today's clinging gowns— in knit underwear

When skirts began to be so very brief, and bodices so snug and smooth, we wondered if we'd ever be able to wear anything underneath them without ruining their slender lines. Only a very special kind of underwear could be soft and snug and smooth enough to satisfy the new frocks.

THERE is a very special kind of underwear made just to wear with the new close-fitting gowns. Carter's Knit Underwear reflects every style in outer clothes. It is so finely woven, so elastic, so soft and firm that it follows the lines of the figure without ever binding or pulling. Its seams, though strongly reinforced, lie flat and smooth.

There is a Carter style for every type of gown. The high necked, long sleeved, ankle length suit for stormy weather street clothes. The low or Dutch necked suit for slim afternoon gowns. And the sheer bodice-top suit that you can wear with your prettiest dance frock.

These are a few of the many styles that make women order Carter's for themselves and their families year after year.

members, or $50,000 in all, for the initiation fees.

"Then the man who made the proposition said that we would have to pay $10 every week to the council. Our men work forty-four hours and get $1 an hour. They thought $34 a week was enough for our men. That meant another $18,000 a week.

"This is the way it was to be arranged. Each job was to be organized. The wreckers at work would have a chairman on the job whose business it would be to collect the $10 every week from each man. Then a certain man, the chief collector, who had two men assisting him, would take the money to the Building Trades Council.

"The man who made the proposition asked me to turn over my books and the $7,000 in our treasury to the Building Trades Council. I was told that I would get $75 a week and a three-year job as delegate.

"When we refused to join the council our bosses were told not to permit our men to work unless they had a card from Brindell's organization. That is what happened. Our men were fired and if they wanted work they had to get a card from the council. Today from 700 to 800 of our members have cards from both organizations. They pay $10 a week to Brindell's council so that they can work.

Protested to Gompers.

"We protested to Samuel Gompers but nothing has come of it.

"I told this story to Mr. Wallstein yesterday and today and I hope the Lockwood Committee will do something for us. I have already been warned that I would be killed. I am afraid of going on a job where our men are working. You know that it is easy for a stone to fall down accidentally and hit a man on the head, especially when a house is being wrecked.

"Men followed me to Mr. Wallstein. I am being watched all the time. They do not want to have me say what I know. Only an hour or two after I saw Mr. Wallstein the first time some of my men were fired off certain jobs.

"Only recently two members of our union were hurt on jobs. One man was hit over the head with a stone at the job on the corner of Wall and Broad Streets. He was laid up three weeks. The other fellow's nose was nearly broken. This was on a job on Fifty-eighth Street. They took the man that struck him to court and he was fined $10."

Asked last night whether Zaranko had told his story to him Mr. Wallstein said:

"It is true that I have seen Zaranko, but I have nothing to say about the matter," he replied.

As a result of Zaranko's story it appeared that the investigators would begin search for the mysterious collector and for other persons named by him. It is believed that Zaranko made additional revelations to Wallstein, but the lawyer, who is associated with Samuel Untermyer and Deputy Attorney General Samuel D. Berger in the investigation, declined to make any further statement.

Three-Cornered Fight Revealed.

One of the things that may be brought to light following Zaranko's declarations is the situation in the Building Trades Council which brought about that organization's effort to coerce the housewreckers to join the council as individuals.

The housewreckers found themselves sought after in a three-cornered fight, which involved two of Brindell's organizations, the Dock Workers and the Independent Building Laborers' Union, and a third organization unaffiliated with the council—the International Hod Carriers' Union. The latter organization is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Both of Brindell's organizations were competing for the jurisdiction of the housewreckers. Brindell's union of laborers has 11,000 members and is not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Samuel Gompers and the A. F. of L. gave the International Hod Carriers Union, of which Antonio D'Allessandro is President, jurisdiction over the House Wreckers because the hod carriers claimed jurisdiction over all workers in the building trades.

The wreckers subsequently joined D'Allessandro's organization, hoping to get the protection of the larger organization and the A. F. of L. in its fight against Brindell's Council. After remaining in the hod carriers' organization for some time the wreckers withdrew and became affiliated with the A. F. of L. as a "Federal" union, that is, it got its charter directly from the federation and not from a large international union affiliated with the federation.

Brindell Clashes With Gompers.

Brindell came face to face with Samuel Gompers on the question of the jurisdiction over the House Wreckers Union at the first meeting of the newly organized central body to take the place of the Central Federated Union. Mr. Gompers made an interpretation of a rule that displeased Brindell, who felt that it would bar his 11,000 laborers from affiliation with the new body. Mr. Gompers stuck to his point and Brindell withdrew angrily and has not been seen since then at any of the meetings of the new organization.

The row over the house wreckers caused a host of strikes on jobs and threw thousands of men out of work when they had no grievances of their own and were merely being used as pawns by certain leaders, it was said.

The situation in the house wrecking industry was so extraordinary that one of the fundamental tenets of A. F. of L. trades unionism was repeatedly violated when men of one union were sent to work on jobs vacated by men of another union. In this instance, it was declared, harbor workers who were on strike, were sent to work as house wreckers, while the house wreckers themselves were not permitted to work because of the squabble with the Building Trades Council in which they figured.

Before long the inquiry is expected to reveal a condition in the building industry tending to show that all branches of it were practically at the mercy of a group of individuals who levied tribute in order to permit men to carry on a legitimate business.

EXPLAINS ARMY BILL.

Col. Gulick Says Reorganization Measure Covers Wide Scope.

Colonel W. Gulick of the War Plans Division, the General Staff, was the principal speaker at the first business meeting of the New York Post, Society of American Military Engineers, at the Engineering Societies' Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street, last evening. Colonel Gulick explained the new army reorganization bill and said its provisions were more far reaching, particularly in times of emergency, than even its sponsors realized.

Others who spoke were the post's President, Colonel F. A. Molitor, Major D. H. Connoly, who explained briefly plans of the technical branches of the service and Colonel William Barclay Parsons.

WINNING THE ARGUMENT.

Professor RALPH B. PERRY of the philosophical faculty of Harvard writes to The Evening Post to affirm his conviction that "whoever wins the "election, Governor Cox and his supporters are clearly winning the "argument." This has been more and more conceded by impartial men in these closing days of the campaign. The Democratic candidate has been gathering strength and aggressiveness as he went on. His driving home of the one great issue—so manifestly divisive of his opponents—has been done with a vigor and confidence that at once have impressed the country and worried the Republican managers. The best proof of the latter fact is that Senator HARDING has been forced into one more attempt to make himself clear. Expressing amazement that any one can have failed to understand him, he issues another statement that nobody but a soothsayer could understand.

Unfortunately, it is not enough in politics to win the argument. The case is not submitted to a judge or arbiter, nor even to a body made up of what the Greek philosopher called "the judicious." It has to go before the vast complex of an electorate that votes from mixed motives: from prejudice as often as from reason; from custom, inertia, the psychology of the crowd, or what not. Still, even upon such masses of people, often apparently beyond the reach of pure logic, a deep impression is made by a straightforward and hard-hitting candidate for office, who meets all his enemies in the gate and throws himself valiantly and hopefully into the fight as Governor Cox has been doing. Besides convincing by argument he is compelling admiration for his pluck and energy.

MORE COAL MINED AND MOVED.

Health Commissioner COPELAND has private and direct information of the shipment of 11,000 cars of coal to this city within seven days and has moderated his fears of a fuel famine. It is agreeable news, but the reassurance rests on a broader basis than a week's movement to a single city. New York's supply would not be so much increased if other cities also were not receiving more, and that could not be unless more coal were being both mined and moved. The country's situation is now so much improved that the "Interstate Commerce Commis"sion announces the discontinuance of "preferential allotment of coal cars "for fuel transportation to the Great "Lakes district in three sections of "the country." It is officially explained that the shipments have been sufficient to permit reduction of this arbitrary movement and thus to afford greater supply for the districts concerned. The production of coal and the movement of it and of all other goods are either maximum records or near them. The production of coal exceeds the amount estimated as necessary for the country's supply. The improvement in the situation has been so marked that there is even discussion of a reduction of prices through trade discipline promoted by the cooperation of the Department of Justice.

The coal trade itself is scandalized by the speculation by interlopers without either scruples or trade knowledge. The Attorney General is so sympathetic with co-operation for the reduction of the price of coal that he has assured the National Coal Association that it need not fear prosecution by him if it follows the lines of the action taken by the operators of West Virginia in keeping their prices in line with their costs. On the other hand, in the words attributed to the Attorney General, "if they do not do this, and "any evidence of profiteering is se"cured against them, prosecution will "follow." Accordingly representatives of 7,000 members of the association met at Cleveland yesterday to consider the Attorney General's overtures. With the encouragement of the Department of Justice there is a prospect that "fair price committees" for the regulation of trade prices and procedure may be formed in other districts of the country than where they already are operating for the relief of consumers. If the plan meets expectations there is a prospect that coal may be both more abundant and cheaper for both home consumption and export.

THE REPUBLICANS WILL NEED IT.

It is short-sighted for the Republican managers to throw over Article X. They will themselves need it in their business. Nothing is more certain than that an external aggression will be made upon their independence and integrity. The War Lord JOHNSON and Field Marshal BORAH are visibly preparing an invasion. "There is no unity of purpose," declares Senator JOHNSON, between himself and the Republican leaders. This can only mean that he intends to launch his legions against them as soon as the election is over.

In that event, wouldn't they be glad to have a guarantee that the Western Huns would not be allowed to raid HARDING and split the party into fragments? If Article X. had not existed it would have had to be invented precisely in order to save the Republican Party from the trampling hoof of JOHNSON.

MR. HUGHES'S FUTILE UNDERTAKING.

The speech of ex-Justice HUGHES at New Haven on Saturday evening was much the most interesting piece of legalistic reasoning that the campaign has produced. Yet Mr. HUGHES was beating the empty air. Even while he was telling his New Haven audience that Mr. HITCHCOCK'S reservation relating to Article X., which Governor Cox favors, did not meet the case since "it does not say that the "United States refuses to assume the "obligation which the undertaking of "the first sentence in Article X. "would impose," Mr. Cox was saying at Madison Square Garden:

> I would willingly accept a reservation stating explicitly that the United States assumes no obligation to use its military or naval forces to defend or assist any other member of the League, unless approved or authorized by Congress in each case.

Mr. HUGHES is even more unsuccessful in his attempt to demonstrate that the obligation assumed under Article X. is "an absolutely compel"ling moral obligation," from which there is no escape save by the path of dishonor, and that the President's recent statement that there is nothing in the Covenant "which in "the least interferes with or im"pairs the right of Congress to de"clare war or not to declare war, "according to its own independent "judgment, as our Constitution pro"vides," cannot be accepted. Mr. HUGHES is astonished that the President should make that statement—were it not over Mr. WILSON'S signature he would "find it difficult to credit it."

But this is not a new view of the obligation that the President puts forth. We have often pointed out that the President has said just this before. Republican speakers and orators eagerly quote Mr. WILSON'S words about the "absolutely compelling obligation." He used that expression in the White House conference with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Aug. 19, 1919. But for some strange reason—we will not inquire why, since that would take us out of the domain of politics into that of morals—they never quote Mr. WILSON'S illuminating replies to Senator HARDING'S questions upon that occasion. Replying to a question concerning the nature of the moral obligation, as distinguished from the legal obligation, the President said:

> Now, a moral obligation is, of course, superior to a legal obligation, and, if I may say so, has a greater binding force. Only there always remains in the moral obligation the right to exercise one's judgment as to whether it is, indeed, incumbent upon one in those circumstances to do that thing. In every moral obligation there is an element of judgment, in a legal obligation there is no element of judgment.

Again replying to a question of Senator HARDING, who inquired whether in case of an attack upon Italy from the Balkan States, the Council declaring that the League members "should "immediately contribute an armed "force to stop the war," should "we "violate our obligation if we failed to "participate in the defense of Italy," the President said: "We would be "our own judges as to whether we "would be obliged in those circum"stances to act in that way or not." The President said further in reply to the objection that one man, our representative in the Council, could commit the country:

> Let me suggest that I find nothing more clearly in the consciousness of the men who were discussing these very important matters than that most of the nations concerned have popular Governments. They were all the time aware of the fact that it would depend upon the approving or disapproving state of opinion in their countries how their representatives in the Council would vote in matters of this sort, and it is not conceivable to me that unless the opinion of the United States, the moral and practical judgment of the people of the United States approve, the representative of the United States in the Council would vote in such advice as would lead us into war.

Months ago Mr. HUGHES'S contention was met and demolished. It is a strange situation. Here we have Mr. HUGHES, Mr. ROOT and few other interpreters of Article X. insisting that it binds our Congress to declare war. That view appears to be held only by the supporters of Senator HARDING. All the world beside takes the other view, the President's view. Here are forty-three nations, most of them having constitutional, popular Governments, who have become members of the League and not one of them entertains the belief that they are bound to go to war at the behest of the Council, that their legislative bodies have been deprived of the right to judge of the sufficiency of the cause of the war. The statesmen who drew up the Covenant and adopted Article X., we are told by the President, were careful to avoid any interference with the constitutional arrangements of the member nations; we are assured by him that they would have rejected indignantly the theory Mr. HUGHES so stoutly stands up for. Against this mass of collective authority upon the interpretation of Article X., the highest of all possible authority against the opinion entertained and acted upon by forty-three other nations, it is impossible successfully to contend. The men who made the Covenant and the forty-three nations who accepted it from their hands take one view of Article X. and the supporters of Mr. HARDING alone take the other.

If we seek the explanation of this strange delusion about the Covenant, we must look to its origin. It took its rise in that partisan plot against Mr. WILSON concocted when the "arch-conspirator," LODGE, brought forth the "round robin," in which thirty-nine Republican Senators pledged themselves to reject Mr. WILSON'S Covenant even before it had been adopted at Paris. The Republican theory that Article X. is a mandate upon Congress is not a legal theory—it has no more to do with law than with morals. It is a campaign theory, a party device, conjured up for the sole purpose of humiliating the President and defeating the Democratic Party in the campaign of 1920.

THE SILENT OBSERVER.

Paris is a long way off, but Mr. LAUZANNE of the Matin sees pretty well at a distance. Writing of America's detachment, he says:

> To the meetings at London, Paris, San Remo and Spa she sends us a silent observer. He listens, and has not the right to speak for the greatest people on earth. Whoever is elected President must not remain a silent observer. The silent observer has already made a name for himself in history. His name is PONTIUS PILATE.

Yet there is much to be said for PONTIUS PILATE by comparison. He said what he had to say, and if it was not satisfactory, at least it was brief and clear. When he washed his hands there was no doubt about what he meant. He made his observations in simple and intelligible Greek, without recourse to barbaric terms unknown to the dictionary. And, not knowing what was truth, he made no attempt to define it; he didn't make a speech a day for six months, giving in each one a new version of the truth which resembled those that had gone before it only in being unintelligible.

The silent observer no doubt lays himself open to much criticism. But a statesman who is fortunate enough to look wise is still more fortunate if he observes in silence. Until he opens his mouth nobody knows he isn't wise.

THE AMENDMENT.

A week from yesterday the voters of this State must pass upon a constitutional amendment reorganizing the State's bond system. The first portion of the proposed amendment repeals the present provision for meeting casual deficits in taxes or means for meeting contract debts. Instead there is proposed in the amendment a system by which such just and necessary demands may be met in anticipation of revenues provided but not collected. The proposal has nothing to do with the making of appropriations or of fixing amounts to be paid or of deciding for what purposes debts shall be contracted. Those decisions are left to be made by the Legislature or by elections ordered for the purpose, under conditions which the amendment revises. Speaking generally, it is better that deficits shall be avoided by a system than that they shall be met when they arise casually. The object and the method are an improvement upon the present plan of merely providing against unforeseen contingencies. The amendment contains the wholesome requirement that bonds in anticipation of revenue shall be redeemed in the next revenue collection.

The other portion of the amendment provides that State debts hereafter incurred "shall be paid in equal annual installments." That is a requirement of the serial method of meeting debt payments. Hereafter they would be amortized gradually by payment, instead of by lump payment from a sinking fund at maturity. The Legislature is authorized to alter the rate of interest payable on future debts, but not of past debts, and to provide for the exchange at par of old debts for the new serial form of bonds. The precautions for the protection of bondholders are too detailed for reproduction here. Among them is the authorization of suit against the State by any bondholder, the requirement that the Legislature shall make all the appropriations the amendment calls for and that the Controller shall use any funds in his hands to make good any neglect of the Legislature. Highway bonds promise to exceed Barge Canal bonds, and they specifically must be issued in the serial manner. The objection that the new method may injure the status of existing bondholders is met by the provision that nothing in the amendment "shall be deemed" to violate the obligations of the State's contract with them.

This amendment may be regarded as the sequel to the conditions disclosed in 1913 when it was shown that the direct taxes were swollen many millions by the excessive requirements of the sinking fund method. Seven years ago the Legislative Committee of Inquiry reported that the Controller's requisition for $9,022,245 could be reduced to $130,200, so excessive were the sinking fund accumulations. That is the meaning of the provision in the proposed amendment that sinking fund excess shall be applied to the payment of interest, that is, to reduction of taxation. The sinking funds had been set going for fifty years and conditions had changed so that the laws required the most obnoxious sort of taxation, that for unnecessary and undesirable objects. The benefit of the serial method is that it provides an annual check on its administration, a sort of pay-as-you-go method of paying debts. Under the serial method the State's financial authorities and the bondholder know year by year whether the conditions of the bond are being met or not and instant correction is necessary. The voters of the State, we think, should vote yes on the amendment.

THE CUBAN ELECTIONS.

The Cuban election law proposed by General ENOCH CROWDER, and accepted in large part by the Congress at Havana, will be tested in the national elections next Monday. There is definite provision in the law for the identification of registered voters, each bringing a card with him to the booth. Ballots must be counted publicly, and the work must be done before midnight on election day. But it is one thing to draft a statute to register the will of the Cuban people and it is another thing to make their politicians respect and abide by it. The Cubans do not divide easily into parties, but incline to follow leaders, as is the case in Mexico and in other Spanish-American countries. Thus the admirers of General JOSE MIGUEL GOMEZ, the Liberal candidate for President, are better known as Miguelistas than as Liberals, and the supporters of Dr. ALFREDO ZAYAS, nominee of the National League, composed of Conservatives and members of the Popular Party, are hailed as Zayistas. Dr. ZAYAS was the Liberal candidate in the campaign of 1916, which ended in a rebellion led by his most robust advocate, General GOMEZ. A former Conservative, FRANCISCO CARILLO, is Vice Presidential candidate on the ticket with Dr. ZAYAS; and MIGUEL ARANGO, also a former Conservative, is candidate for second place on the Gomez ticket, from which it can be seen that the disposition of the voters to follow leaders and not to acknowledge party loyalty is greater than ever in Cuba.

Election day may be fairly quiet, but whether the defeated party or group will abide by the result as indicated on the face of the returns may be doubted. The Liberals, or Miguelistas, are already threatening trouble if there are too many soldiers at the polls and their idol is not elected. President MENOCAL has announced that he will have order on election day, but the Miguelistas put a sinister interpretation upon his attitude. It seems to be true that the canvass of General GOMEZ in the interior has occasionally been interrupted by the blowing up of bridges, and there have been several political murders. The Liberals, either fearing that they cannot command votes enough to elect their candidates or suspecting that President MENOCAL will use his powers, including the army, in the interests of the Coalition ticket, have talked of asking the United States Government to supervise the election; but it is desirable that the new law should have a thorough trial. Moreover, President MENOCAL, who has given the Cuban people an excellent administration, should be above suspicion.

It is a curious feature of the campaign in Cuba that General GOMEZ, the Liberal candidate, owes his opportunity to the clemency of the man whom he constantly assails, for GOMEZ was defeated in the field and captured with his staff in the rebellion of February, 1917, and was not dealt with summarily by President MENOCAL. A few months in prison, with all the comforts his wealth could procure, was the only punishment of GOMEZ. He is immensely rich, as his associate on the Liberal ticket is, whereas their opponents, ZAYAS and CARILLO, are intellectuals and men of moderate means. The reorganized parties in Cuba are so unstable and there is such a medley of candidates that any prediction of the result of the election would be hazardous. The voters seem to be apathetic, but it may be ventured that, if General GOMEZ is worsted at the polls according to the returns as counted, he will cry fraud, as he always has done, and he and his lieutenants will bear watching by the United States Government, which in the case of insurrection would have a duty to perform under the Platt Amendment.

THE GREEK DYNASTIC CRISIS.

King ALEXANDER of Greece did not display the qualities of his namesake, but they were neither expected nor desired. Under peculiarly difficult circumstances he fulfilled loyally the limited but necessary duties of his place, at a time when an obstructionist on the throne could have made a great deal of trouble for the country. It is not too much to say that by his good behavior he contributed considerably to the work of carrying Greece through a serious crisis and opening the way to a brilliant future.

Now he is dead, and it is announced officially that the throne will be offered to his brother, Prince PAUL. But first CONSTANTINE and his son GEORGE must formally renounce the claims to the throne which they have tenaciously maintained in their three years' exile; evidently the promise of PAUL himself will not content the Government. That CONSTANTINE will at first refuse to abdicate seems to be expected, but apparently VENIZELOS hopes to convince him. There is talk of promising to the former King the pensions which have so far been withheld; but since one of CONSTANTINE'S brothers lately married a great American fortune, the royal family can hardly be in need of money. A more effective threat might be the prospect of the establishment of a republic. There are objections to that, but it would be safer than risking the continued influence of CONSTANTINE. When CONSTANTINE went into exile in 1917 there was still a prospect that his friends would win the war. Now the war is over, and the victorious Powers are not likely to look with much favor on a man who aided their enemies.

However, with the elections only eleven days distant, it may be that the former King will wait to see how things turn out. If VENIZELOS should be beaten, CONSTANTINE will probably refuse to abdicate; but this is hardly to be expected. If VENIZELOS wins decisively, CONSTANTINE will have to choose between saving the throne for his family at his own cost and dragging his son out into exile to join him in a lifetime of conspiracy.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Canadians Vote "Bone Dry."

Between prohibition declared by law and prohibition enforced by law there are in this and several other regions differences so large and obvious that prohibitionists cannot take quite as much pleasure as they would like in further extensions of the statutory ban. Still, they can persuade themselves easily enough that their foes no longer demand anything more than a slight mitigation of the law's rigor, and, if not exactly resigned to the loss of former liberties, are quite hopeless as to getting all of them back.

On the other hand, though the earlier enthusiasms of the prohibitionists must be a little chilled by the failure of the Eighteenth Amendment to produce immediate drought throughout the country, they have learned by long experience that though the "liquor interests" always were, as now, determined violators of any law that interfered with their business—and with most others—those "interests" have been fighting a steadily losing battle everywhere for many years. That the battle is not yet over, therefore, does not make its end dubious, and certainly there is something of encouragement for the prohibitionists in the rather frequent recurrence of such victories as were won in Canada this week, when four great provinces—Manitoba, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Nova Scotia—voted to make at least theoretically complete their existing state of desiccation by forbidding the importation as well as the manufacture and sale of all intoxicants.

They are to be, that is, as nearly "bone dry" as can be achieved by the passage of laws.

All Soldiers Voted This Time.

It is to be remembered—and the prohibitionists will allow nobody to forget—that these Canadian votes, like others in the Dominion that have preceded them, were direct appeals to the people, and that they express, whether with entire sincerity or not is irrelevant, the popular will as the people are willing to avow it.

Not now, as was said so often while the war was on, can it be said that the stay-at-homes have taken a base advantage of the absence from the country of its best and bravest men. The soldiers, or at any rate those who survived, are all at home, and not only did they all vote, but presumably their frankly uttered opinions gave each of the veterans what amounted to more votes than one. Yet alike in Nova Scotia, where the sun first sees America, as in the remote West, where he gets almost his last glimpse of it, the same decision is given—and with an equal emphasis! In Canada as in the United States, and as all over the world, for that matter, the Demon has his strongholds in the larger cities, and is defenseless in the villages and on the farms. That can be interpreted in two ways, of course, according to one's estimate of the relative wisdom and virtue of rusticity and urbanity, but it hardly would be safe, especially around election time, to claim moral superiority for the city folk as compared with those whom it is the fashion to picture as living closer to "nature."

How Death Was Long Postponed.

There is a scientific as well as a political point of view from which to observe and study the Irish hunger strikers. They are numerous enough to establish fairly well the limit of time for which human beings, sustained by enthusiasm for what they consider a great cause and receiving tender and skilful care, can go without food.

This period is proving to be surprisingly, even astonishingly, long—so long, indeed, as to explain why suspicion has been widespread that the fasting of these men was not complete.

Probably the suspicion is without foundation in fact. What is forgotten by the incredulous is that this fasting is done in conditions wholly different from those that usually, or next to always, attend starvation. This point is well brought out in an article translated by The New York Medical Record from a French journal of its own class.

> It is one thing to be entombed in a mine, lost in a desert or adrift in an open boat, and quite another to be in a modern hospital, attended day and night by physicians and nurses. In the former cases the physical resources are exhausted rapidly, not only by sufferings additional to those of hunger, usually with thirst as the worst of them, but also by the tortures of apprehension and of hope deferred or deceived. The faster for a cause, on the contrary, is doing what he has himself deliberately determined to do, he has no terrors or anxieties, he feels that whether he gains release or dies he will have attained his end, and, when his jailers are British and the time now, everything possible except forcible feeding is done to mitigate his pain and to prolong his life.

Naturally he breaks the familiar records of starving, just as in his interest are broken all the customary regulations of prison management.

Now is the Time to Smash 'Em.

In the current issue of Greater New York, issued by the Merchants' Association, many pages are devoted to reports from many parts of the country as to whether or not the campaign against the house fly, which was started by this organization in 1907, has resulted in a noticeable diminution in the number of those highly obnoxious and most dangerous little pests.

Almost everywhere, it seems, some degree of success has been achieved. It is greatest in the cities, least in the villages, and a good deal of it is credited to the replacing of horses by automobiles. But much educational work has been done, with the battle cry of "Swat the fly!" as the vigorous, if rather inelegant, incitement to slaughter.

Deserved attention is called to the fact that although flies almost have ceased to trouble for this year, in the North at least, this is just the time when the swatting of them should be the most persistent and ruthless. They are few now, but the few are all seeking places in which they can pass the Winter in safe protection, and every one is a potential progenitor of a billion offspring next summer.

"He wouldn't kill a fly" used to be a laudatory phrase. At present most people know that he to whom the phrase can be applied with literal truth is not an admirable person, but a public enemy, rather worse, if anything, than a pirate or a profiteer. For flies and the so-called filth diseases go together, and the former, though not exactly the causes, are the ever-busy distributors of the latter. They cannot be swatted too often or too hard.

REPUBLICANS FOR COX.

The Only Way They Can Support the League of Nations.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The League of Nations is generally agreed to be the paramount issue of this campaign. It seems, offhand, that pro-Leaguers should vote for the pro-League candidate, leaving the indifferent and the hostile to support the candidate who shares these characteristics.

But it is earnestly argued that in this case those that vote for the League shall lose it, and those voters that turn their backs on it shall find it. If this proposition were stated by some lover of paradox, like Mr. Chesterton, one might pass it by with a smile as something unusually witty and daring. But when it is advanced over the signatures of thirty-one eminent Republicans it invites analysis.

Leaving theory aside, what practical results may pro-League Republicans hope for from Senator Harding? If he is elected, his party will be hopelessly divided on the chief issue which it must solve. Its first positive act threatens to be its own disintegration. Rather than run the risk of a party split, which to Senator Harding is the supreme evil, will he not seize the opportunity of continuing on the fence? There may be many conferences of the "best minds of the country"—including all the irreconcilables—much wise and foolish talk. But if there is the slightest attempt at anything constructive the bitter opponents of the League principle may be counted on to block it. They have already proved the power of their threats over the Republican candidate. They will try to prevent any agreement, even in our own country, upon the terms of that new association which must later be imposed upon the other nations of the world.

Prominent Republicans who are sincere League advocates may be justified in preserving their party regularity for the sake of what personal influence they may thus exert with Senator Harding if he is elected. But the average citizen can only exert influence through his own ballot. A Republican who honestly believes that the League issue transcends party ties, and wants to cast his vote in support of his principles, can vote only for Cox. A vote for Cox means a vote for the League; a vote for Harding means nothing, or worse than nothing.

If Cox is elected, the treaty and the League with reservations will be ratified at once. Even if Senator Harding wins, every additional vote for Cox will strengthen the hands of the pro-League Republican leaders in their struggle with the irreconcilables.

A League supporter who votes for Harding condemns himself to impotent silence on the greatest issue of our time. And if he deceives himself into thinking that he is doing his best for the League he is guilty of a crime against common sense and honesty.

The issue is not paradoxical, but simple. Cox is the League candidate. Harding's election would not only jeopardize any hope of any League, but would mean a continuation of the fruitless quarrels which have marred our Government for the last year.

As a Republican supporter of the League I shall vote for Governor Cox and Mr. Walker.

New York, Oct. 25, 1920.

THE BELLS OF NO-CHURCH LAND.

On Christmas Eve, the legend tells,
Wherever once a church has stood
One hears the sound of Christmas bells
Ring out to make men kind and good.

They ring that people long since dead,
Who died in sin and cannot sleep,
May rest that hour, so 'tis said,
And need not then their vigils keep.

Then Judas sleeps, the traitor friend,
While Herod stops his clank of chains;
Herodias's conscious dance may end,
And Pilate's ghost quite still remains.

I wonder if the Huns then sleep,
Who churches razed and churches burned;
I wonder if their wrongs they reap,
Or if they rest in peace, unearned.

Great God! forgive us if we pray
And hope the legend's not all true;
Till wrong is righted, till they say:
"We're sorry!"—yes, and mean it, too!

Ring out, O pleading Spirit Bells,
So loud they cannot sleep.
Ring loud o'er hills and vales and dells,
Till they, repentant, weep!

APPEAL FOR MISSIONARIES.

Lutheran Plea to Lift Barrier Presumably Aimed at Britain.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The biennial convention of the United Lutheran Church finally adopted today resolutions urging the revocation of wartime restrictions on missionaries. The action presumably was aimed at the British Government, which was frequently mentioned in the debate.

Closure was necessary before the resolutions, even in their modified form, could be brought to a vote. Objection by members that it was not wise at this time to pass the statement of principles to which the resolutions were attached was voiced in the debate.

"When missionaries are willing to die a violent death on foreign fields," declared the Rev. Paul Roth of Milwaukee, "we who sit at home in comfort must not refuse to confess our Christian principles, whether it be a convenient time or not."

"We have found the British Government always ready to protect the missionaries in time of war," replied the Rev. T. E. Benze of Philadelphia. "Missionaries expect this. It is a simple fact that if in certain critical moments one should insist in preaching the gospel very serious difficulties would arise. We are discussing the matters in the resolutions at a most unfortunate time. We are still under the shadow of the great war."

The statement of principles and resolutions as adopted read:

"The principle of religious liberty has slowly gained ground and is now recognized by all Governments in peace treaties and international affairs.

"The right to propagate religious truth is a corollary of religious liberty. It is as inalienable as is the right of civil liberty.

"The exercise of the rights of conscience cannot be annulled unless it becomes subversive of good morals and public order. Only when it can be clearly shown that such exercise interferes with the rights of others and results in disorder may Governments interfere.

"When properly taught and exemplified, the Christian religion has ever promoted law and order, advancing civilization and strengthening good government."

Full voting rights for members of church boards will be asked by the Women's Missionary Society tomorrow. Suggestions for celebrating the four hundredth anniversary of the appearance of Martin Luther before the Diet of Worms were approved by the convention. The Executive Board was empowered to fix the date and arrange the program.

GERMAN BID FOR DYE TRADE.

Washington Sees It in a Decree Socializing Coal Tar Production.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The text of a German Government decree practically socializing the production of coal tar was received here tonight in official advices. Chemical experts of this Government see in the decree indications that Germany is planning for an attempt to regain her pre-war supremacy in dyestuffs.

Complete control of the distribution of raw materials for refining coal tar is given by the decree to a union representing all branches of the industry. Employers and employed in the production, refining, trade and distributing branches of the industry are represented in equal numbers, and the Government, by the Minister of Economics, is empowered to protest against such decisions as seem contrary to public welfare.

Regulation of the coal tar trade and economic questions concerning crude coal tar are placed under the jurisdiction of the union, as well as the supervision of exports and imports and price-fixing. Reduction of the importation of raw products for the purpose of maintaining high prices in Germany is strictly forbidden. Producers of crude coal tar are required to turn the entire amount of their output directly to refineries, and contracts in violation of this provision are declared null. The employment of crude tar except under the terms of the decree is made punishable by a fine of no more than 100,000 marks and five years' imprisonment.

Dyes and chemicals were the mainstays of Germany's foreign trade before the war, and it was pointed out here that if Germany hoped to recover her pre-war commercial position in the world the major branches of the industry must be built up as strongly as possible. Other Government officials, however, familiar with Germany's economic problems, minimized the possibility that she could again lead the world in the manufacture of dyes. Because of the coal deliveries Germany must make under reparation awards, it was said, the Government was probably trying to gain full control of connected industries.

ROOSEVELT GIFTS ASKED.

Memorial Association Appeals for $1 Contributions.

On the anniversary of the birth of Theodore Roosevelt, the Woman's Roosevelt Memorial Association today appeals for contributions of at least $1 for the fund to be used in restoring the house in this city where he was born on Oct. 27, 1858. They ask that the offerings be sent to the headquarters of the association at 1 East Fifty-seventh Street.

"On this day, on this anniversary of this great American's birth," reads the appeal, "we call upon every child, woman and man to send in memory of Theodore Roosevelt a birthday gift of at least $1 for the restoration of the house in which he was born, to be known for all time as Roosevelt House—something more than a monument of cold stone, it will pulsate with active Americanization."

Colonel Roosevelt would have been 62 years old today. He died at Oyster Bay on Jan. 6, 1919.

Massachusetts Commission Finds Price Increase in September.

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—The cost of living in this State increased last month, instead of declining, the Commission on the Necessaries of Life announced today. The figures showed an advance in the index numbers of living costs from 98.5 for August to 100.1 for September.

"These figures," the statement said, "are a disappointment to every one who has observed the immense amount of selling propaganda relating to special lots of manufactured articles, especially clothing and shoes. The mark-down sales of merchandise have generally included things out of style, odd sizes, odd lots and out-of-season products. There has been almost no variation in regular standard lines of either clothing or shoes."

Of the five factors which enter into the cost of living, food, fuel, shelter, clothing and sundries, fuel is the only one which has declined in price during the month, according to the commission.

"It is believed that prices for the month of October will show a decline," continued the report. "The best opinion in the trade is that the retailers will not be able to dispose of stock at the present high prices and that the public will continue to wait for lower prices. Since regular goods are being firmly held at regular prices, the prudent buyer will continue to shop around and buy such goods as are available in special offerings."

DEFENDS CALIFORNIA EXCLUSION DEMANDS

State League Denies That It Is Using Oriental Question for Political Purposes.

GUARDING TREATY RIGHTS

Would Co-operate with Federal Government in Working Out International Solution.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 26.—The Japanese Exclusion League of California, through the Chairman of its Executive Committee, U. S. Chambers, State Controller of California, issued a statement today in answer to that made public on Oct. 25 by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, which "deplored agitation and hasty action in the matter of Japanese immigration."

Mr. Chambers's statement said that the movement in California, "far from being a vote catching propaganda of politicians appealing to race prejudice and mob feeling, is really based on incontrovertible and startling facts, supported by official State investigation, under legislative direction, and fully corroborated in hearings of the House Committee on Immigration held on the Pacific Coast in July and August of this year."

Further the statement says:

"The Exclusion League is directed by prominent executives, officially delegated for the purpose, of such organizations as the American Legion, Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, State Federation of Women's Clubs, State Federation of Labor, and by business and professional men of Statewide reputation. Politicians have supported the movement because the demand is practically unanimous, and its justice beyond question. Otherwise, Senator Harding and Governor Cox, Presidential candidates, could not afford to take the stand they have.

"Certain aspects of the problem are particularly of State concern and exclusively of State jurisdiction. In these matters California is scrupulously guarding treaty and vested rights of the Japanese, but declining to accord rights to them not accorded to Americans in Japan and which, if continued here, would certainly create a race problem, with the friction and trouble which both countries wish to avoid.

"The problem, in its larger aspects, is national and international, and the league will direct national attention thereto and co-operate with the Federal Government in working out the proper remedy. That remedy, while insuring fully protection to American interests, should be so applied, if possible, as to avoid hurt to Japan's feelings.

"Certainly the way to insure misunderstanding and trouble with Japan is to encourage or permit the steady and rapid growth in this country of an unassimilable alien community, whose advantages in economic competition and whose great birth rate would in time force the whites out of the most favored localities and make race conflict inevitable.

"Hawaii is already lost to the whites. Unless we are content to see it become in effect a principality of Japan, we shall have to govern it by Federal commission. In California the Japanese have concentrated 75,000 of their people in favored spots in seven of our fifty-eight counties. They have secured control of industries, driven out whites and displaced white children in public schools. While their population in the State is less than one-thirtieth of the whites, Orientals, almost entirely Japanese, now control one-sixth of the total rich irrigated lands of the State, and control an actual majority acreage of such lands in several of the larger counties. They are bending every effort to increase control of land and industries before California can put a definite measure into operation."

JAPANESE ASSAIL LEGISLATION

"Menace to Advancement of Friendship," Opposition Says.

TOKIO, Oct. 26 (Associated Press).—The Political Affairs Committee of the Kensei-Kai opposition has adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, that the anti-Japanese land legislation in California is not merely a threat against the development of the Japanese nation abroad but also a menace to the advancement of international friendship between this Empire and America.

"Viewed either from the standpoint of humanity and justice or the standpoint of Japan's rights acquired by treaty stipulations or from the principle of international friendship binding two neighboring nations, such unreasonable and unjust legislation cannot be tolerated.

"The Imperial Government is requested to insist strongly upon Japan's right and to protest against such legislation, frankly expressing rightful reasons for objecting thereto, with the firm determination of accelerating a speedy solution of the pending question."

FUKUOKA, Japan, Oct. 25.—Agitation in Japan over the California land question, and especially attempts to utilize the controversy with the United States for political purposes, was deplored by Jushiro Kiushu and Kurusuki Okasaki, speaking at a meeting of the Seiyu-kai, or Government Party, here today. The two speakers, leaders of the party, told the 4,000 delegates present, however, that undeniably measures contemplated in California would be a heavy blow to Japanese interests and would constitute a serious international question.

The Japanese Government, they declared, should insist upon its rights in the course of negotiations at Washington, and the people should have confidence that everything possible would be done to obtain an equitable settlement.

WELCOME MOVED FAYOLLE.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—Major Gen. Marie Emile Fayolle, who returned to Paris Sunday from the United States, where he represented Marshal Foch at the convention of the American Legion, in describing to newspaper correspondents today the impressions he received during his stay in America, declared that he was deeply touched by the warm and spontaneous welcome he received. General Fayolle asserted that France enjoyed great prestige in the United States and expressed the belief that it was to France's best interest to appreciate and draw closer her union with America.

WASHINGTON OUSTS RUM PERMIT CLERK

Two Queens Prohibition Agents Accused of Extortion Are Acquitted by Jury.

Coming as a complete surprise to prohibition forces in this city, instructions have come from Internal Revenue Commissioner Williams, of Washington, transferring Moses Rosenthal, who was manager and later chief clerk in the New York office of Charles R. O'Connor, Federal Prohibition Director, to a clerkship in the Narcotic Department which is under Frank L. Boyd, Federal Supervising Prohibition Agent. Mr. Rosenthal has been replaced by S. Nolan.

Mr. Rosenthal said last night that he was glad of the change and said that the salaries of the two jobs were the same. He formerly was in the drug business in this city before his connection with the Narcotic Department early in January. He had been in this job about a month when Mr. O'Connor opened an office for the issuance of whisky permits. Mr. Rosenthal had to take care of the entire work in New York City while Mr. O'Connor organized the Albany office.

Later, when Mr. O'Connor was able to give more of his time to the New York office, Mr. Rosenthal was made chief clerk. During the first few months, and, in fact, until Sept. 1, he was charged with the responsibility of passing up virtually all liquor permits.

Director O'Connor praised Mr. Rosenthal in an address before the retail druggists at a dinner at the McAlpin Hotel a few nights ago. He not only told of the splendid work that had been done by Mr. Rosenthal, but mentioned the fact that when he wanted a man for this important post he turned to Mr. Rosenthal, whom he had known as a pharmacist of great ability and the highest integrity.

Prohibition enforcement agents arrested Michael Kenny and Timothy Lyons yesterday at the Plaza, charged with violating the prohibition law. They were held in $1,000 bail each by Commissioner Hitchcock.

In Brooklyn yesterday Federal Judge Howe sentenced John Murray, saloonkeeper of 132 Wyckoff Street, $50 for violating the prohibition law. He pleaded guilty. Leniency was shown because Murray as a World War veteran was gassed and wounded in France. Judge Howe said that he would order jail sentences for those guilty of trafficking in liquor, but when Murray's record was brought to his attention he changed the sentence to a fine.

Simone Sabatino, saloonkeeper at 112 Columbia Avenue, Brooklyn, was held in $2,000 bail for examination by Commissioner Goldrick on charge of violating the Volstead act and attempted bribery. Revenue Agent T. J. Daly said that Sanfo had offered him $200 not to press charges against him.

William A. Smith and John Sell, prohibition agents accused of having extorted money from saloonkeepers in the Laurel Hill section of Queens County, were acquitted yesterday by a jury after a trial in the United States District Court before Judge Harlan B. Howe. Witnesses for the prosecution were unable to positively identify the defendants as the two men, who, representing themselves as prohibition agents, took money ranging in amounts from $5 to $20.

A complaint filed yesterday in a suit by Gordon's Dry Gin Company of New York against Glickstein, by Wickenfeld & Turner, bottle dealers of Brooklyn, contains the allegation that the defendants, since the prohibition amendment went into effect, have supplied "large quantities of bottles of the same kind as those used by the plaintiff in bottling its product," even to the shape and the blown glass lettering, "Gordon's Dry Gin."

The complainant asks an injunction restraining the defendants from dealing in or distributing any and all bottles bearing the plaintiff's name or trade mark. The plaintiff has permission to manufacture gin for medicinal purposes.

JOHN B. KERFOOT MARRIES MRS. HUNTER

John Barrett Kerfoot, former literary editor of Life, and Mrs. Annie C. Hunter were married at St. Peter's Church at Freehold, N. J., at 10 o'clock yesterday morning by the Rev. John F. Hillbank, former pastor of the church.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of only a few relatives and intimate friends and immediately afterward the couple left on a motor trip of a week. Upon their return they will reside at 57 South Street, Freehold, in the former Summer home of the Hunter family.

Mrs. Kerfoot divorced her first husband about six years ago, following a $50,000 alienation suit brought by Mr. Hunter against Mr. Kerfoot. Mr. Hunter lost the action against Mr. Kerfoot.

It was in 1906 that Mr. Kerfoot married a sister of Mr. Hunter, Miss Sarah F. Hunter, who died the following year. After her death he made his home with his brother-in-law, who, in 1899, married Miss Annie Belleville Haight, daughter of the late Charles T. Haight, former prosecutor of Monmouth County, N. J. Mr. Kerfoot remained at the Hunter home until 1915 when Mr. Hunter filed suit against him for $50,000 for the alienation of his wife's affections.

Mr. Kerfoot denied the charges and the jury finally disagreed. Later Mrs. Hunter obtained a divorce from her husband, naming as co-respondent a woman alleged to have accompanied him on a trip to New Orleans.

In February, 1918, Mr. Hunter applied for an order vacating the alimony of $433 a month which he had been paying his former wife, basing his application on the allegation that Mr. Kerfoot and the former Mrs. Hunter had been secretly married at Perry, Taylor County, Fla., on Feb. 1, 1917. This both Mr. Kerfoot and the then Mrs. Hunter denied, submitting affidavits to prove that they both were at different places on the day they were supposed to have been married. The matter was put before a referee, who found Mr. Hunter guilty of fraud. The court exonerated Mr. Kerfoot and Mrs. Hunter of the secret marriage charge, and awarded $42,000 damages to Mrs. Hunter from the estate of her first husband.

Mr. Hunter died in November, 1918, leaving $500,000 to his widow, who was the co-respondent named in the first Mrs. Hunter's suit, and whom Mr. Hunter subsequently married.

A. I. NAMM, MERCHANT OF BROOKLYN DEAD

BOY IMMIGRANT'S SUCCESS

Active in the Borough's Civic and Communal Interests and in War Work.

Adolph I. Namm, one of the city's pioneer merchants and founder of the department store of A. I. Namm & Son, in Fulton Street, Brooklyn, died yesterday in his apartment in the Hotel Langdon, 2 East Fifty-sixth Street. Mr. Namm was born in Posen, Germany, on June 12, 1856, a son of Joel and Frital Namm. He came to this country at the age of 14, working his way on a sailing ship which took forty days to make the trip from Hamburg to New York. Thrown upon his own resources, Mr. Namm worked days and studied evenings, with the result that at 21 he was established in the dry goods business in Sixth Avenue.

When 29 years old he married Cecelia Meyers and shortly afterward, foreseeing the great possibilities for business development in Brooklyn, he transferred his business to lower Fulton Street, Brooklyn. The business prospered and from a 25-foot shop it developed into the present establishment, which occupies almost an entire block, from Fulton to Hoyt Street and from Livingston Street to Elm Place.

In 1910 Mr. Namm retired because of ill health, retaining only a small interest in the store which bore his name. His son Benjamin H. Namm succeeded him and later his son-in-law, Edgar M. Baum, joined the firm. For the last five years Mr. Namm had been an invalid, suffering from arthritis, and death resulted from that disease.

Mr. Namm in addition to his business interests was also active in Brooklyn civic and communal work. Shortly after this country entered the war, and while his son was serving in France, Mr. Namm offered the store and its facilities to the Government. This offer was taken advantage of in many ways, principally in connection with army and navy recruiting and Liberty Loan work.

Mr. Namm is survived by his wife and three children, Major Benjamin H. Namm, Miss Estelle Namm and Mrs. Rose N. Baum. The funeral will be private.

FLOUTS VERSAILLES TREATY

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—Thirteen hundred representatives of banking firms from all parts of Germany opened their fifth annual congress in Berlin today. The principal speakers were Georg Solmssen and Max Warburg. Both asserted that the financial, industrial and social recovery of Germany and Europe was impossible only if the Treaty of Versailles were thoroughly revised.

"The peace treaty, based solely on destructive tendencies and lacking in any constructive ideas, cannot exist for any length of time," said Herr Warburg. "Never will the expectation be realized that all this misery created by the war can be remedied by the labor of the German people. Not until the great nations realise that all the world is one economic community will recovery be possible, and then we may hope for the solution of the technical part of the problem."

$500,000 BOUT IS NOT A CERTAINTY

MOVE SURPRISES RICKARD

TEX STILL IS HOPEFUL

Thinks That Kearns Will Attend Meeting Today and Accept the Conditions.

Unless conditions undergo a decided change, there will be no meeting this morning for the purpose of formally signing contracts calling for a world's heavyweight championship battle between Jack Dempsey, titleholder, and Georges Carpentier, European champion. Just when everything seemed to be satisfactorily arranged and the stage cleared for the actual signing of contracts at a meeting scheduled for the Claridge at 11:30 o'clock this morning, Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, announced that any such meeting would have to struggle along without him.

Kearns's statement came late last night following a busy afternoon and after he had perused the contracts which were to be submitted for his signature at the meeting scheduled this morning. Dempsey's manager had purposely deferred signing any papers until he had a chance to scrutinise them carefully. In order to prevent any last-minute hitch in the negotiations for this important ring contest, Kearns had arranged to review a copy of the contract last night before finally indorsing the document.

In accordance with this, an appointment was made last evening with William A. Brady, who with Tex Rickard and Charles B. Cochran shares in the promotion of the prospective bout. Following this meeting, Kearns announced that he would not attend the session called for this morning, when the contracts were to be actually signed. Dempsey's manager refused to detail his reasons for withdrawing from the negotiations just when it seemed they were about to be consummated. He declared that there were several provisions in the contract which he did not approve, and that, under the circumstances, he would not proceed further with the negotiations until the objectionable features of the article had been removed. Just what provisions were unsatisfactory Manager Kearns would not say, but he was emphatic in his declaration that he would not attend the meeting scheduled for this morning.

Kearns has steadfastly refused to sign any contracts to date. He is in receipt of attractive offers from Jack Curley, who is understood to be backed by Harry Frazee, owner of the Boston Red Sox, and Tom O'Rourke, veteran promoter of bouts and handler of boxers, who is bidding for the Dempsey-Carpentier bout and is reported to have backing for a purse of $500,000. Kearns has not yet closed with Promoters Rickard, Cochran and Brady, but whether his refusal to attend this morning's scheduled meeting has any connection with other offers is a matter of conjecture.

A Surprise to Rickard.

The information that Kearns had withdrawn from the negotiations surprised Tex Rickard last night. The Madison Square Garden promoter declared that he was of the opinion that everything had been satisfactorily arranged at a meeting in Promoter Brady's office yesterday afternoon. At this meeting articles for the bout were drawn and tentatively agreed upon, subject to the indorsement of Manager Kearns. When informed of Manager Kearns's unexpected action after he had read the contracts over, Promoter Rickard was still inclined to the belief that everything would be arranged as scheduled this morning.

The afternoon session concluded with the positive announcement that the match would be definitely closed this morning, when Messrs. Rickard, Cochran and Brady and Manager Kearns and François Descamps, Carpentier's manager, would assemble at the Claridge. As the situation stood following this meeting, all that remained to clinch the bout was for the principals, their managers and the promoters to affix their signatures to the contracts.

Under the terms of the agreement tentatively adopted at the afternoon meeting, the boxers were to battle for the record purse of $500,000. The boxers would work on a strict guarantee basis, Dempsey being assured of $300,000 and Carpentier being guaranteed the sum of $200,000. The bout was to be for between ten and fifteen rounds, with or without a decision, depending entirely on the conditions existing where the match was held.

The articles stipulated that the bout must be held in the United States, Mexico, Cuba or Canada, eliminating any possibility of going to England. Promoter Cochran made a last effort to induce Dempsey's manager to journey to England for the bout, but Manager Kearns steadfastly refused. In explaining this situation, Manager Kearns said there were sentimental and business reasons back of his stand.

"The title belongs here," said Kearns. "Dempsey is an American and he won the title from an American on American soil. The financial side of the situation holds greater promise than could be offered by England or any other European country. These reasons are sufficient for my insistence that the bout be held in America, or at least on this side of the Atlantic, no matter what the inducement might be to go to Europe."

Kearns's Conditions.

The session at which the articles for the bout were drawn was by no means a social gathering, judging by the details of the meeting divulged by Manager Kearns. The champion's manager insisted on the elimination of several proposals which did not quite meet with his approval, and held out for several minor changes in the articles. Just what the changes were Kearns would not say, but he declared he had insisted on reserving the right to submit the names of six prospective referees and several capable judges, if the same conditions prevailed as at the Dempsey-Willard bout in Toledo.

Manager Kearns also insisted on the payment of the entire Dempsey end of the purse twenty-four hours before the boxers entered the ring. Kearns insisted that the amount be handed to him personally, or be placed to his credit in a bank the day before the bout. To bind the contracts, it is understood the boxers and promoters were to post substantial guarantees. Promoters Rickard, Cochran and Brady had agreed to post $100,000 Nov. 15 and the balance of the purse before fight time. Dempsey and Carpentier, under the terms of the agreement, agree to post $50,000 each. These forfeits must be posted by Nov. 15.

The site for the bout is not disclosed in the contracts. Neither is the date for the contest. No specific time or place is mentioned in the articles. Promoter Rickard, with his experience in previous important ring matches, has insisted in the contracts a clause stipulating that the bouts must be signed of the date and place at least sixty days before the day of the bout. Manager Kearns declared the contract stipulates that the promoters expect to announce on Jan. 2 the location for the bout and the date. This clause, however, is not positively binding. An alternative clause provides that in the event that plans are not completed by Jan. 21, the promoters have until March 1 to divulge the information. In the meantime, Carpentier may engage in bouts in Europe up to sixty days before the bout and Dempsey may box here for a similar period.

The question of where the bout will be held has caused considerable speculation. It will remain a matter of conjecture, however, until the promoters definitely divulge their plans in this respect. New York is the logical place for such an important ring event, and is accepted as such by the men concerned in the promotion of the bout. But indecision as to whether the Boxing Commission and License Committee, governing the sport in this State, will sanction the bout, is the principal factor in all speculation on this point. No definite policy with regard to the bout has been announced by the governing officials who are resolved to proceed slowly with the project.

It is reasonably certain that the match will not be held in Madison Square Garden. Tex Rickard as much as said he would not utilize the historic old fistic arena, following yesterday's session. There is not another indoor arena available that could accommodate the crowd such a fight would attract. In the event that the bout is held as an outdoor attraction, which seems decidedly probable now, several places are available as prospective sites. The Polo Grounds could accommodate the expected crowd, at a sliding scale of prices, or a metropolitan race track or a Coney Island site could be remodelled to fit the occasion.

From what Promoter Rickard said of the matter yesterday, however, it is altogether possible that he will follow a course similar to that he pursued in the promotion of the Dempsey-Willard bout at Toledo. On this occasion the Western promoter constructed his own arena. Promoter Rickard declared yesterday that he had an open mind on the question of where to hold the bout. He was not prepared to disclose the probable date.

The length of the bout is not definitely disclosed in the contract for obvious reasons. The promoters are not decided yet just where they will hold the bout, and the number of rounds, therefore, must be determined entirely by conditions as they are encountered. In the contract it is stipulated that the bout shall not be of less than ten nor more than fifteen rounds. A decision bout will be conducted, if possible, but this detail is not regarded as important in view of the terrific hitting powers of the men who will strive for the title.

Neither of the principals will have any part in determining where the match will be held. This matter is left entirely to the promoters. In the event that the bout is held in the Spring, Cuba is regarded as a likely battleground. If the contest is to be held in the Summer, a suitable spot in the United States, probably in or very near to New York, will be the scene of conflict.

Question of Referee.

It is understood that Promoter Rickard has decided that, under no conditions, will he officiate as referee. The arbiter will be mutually agreed upon by the principals. Manager Kearns has reserved the right of submitting the names of half a dozen candidates for the post, together with the names of prospective judges of the bout, but he has no privilege to dictate the men selected. In discussing the pilots of the bout yesterday, Manager Kearns mentioned, offhand, as possible referees, Billy (Kid) McPartland, Otto Floto, Jim Griffin, Jim Jefferies, Jim Corbett, Jimmy Dougherty, Jeff Brown and Bob Edgren. Col. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, William Muldoon, Assemblyman Martin G. McCune and Joe Ruddy were named as possible candidates for the duties of judge.

Manager Kearns emphasized that he had not yet affixed his signature to any contract. In explaining this situation, Dempsey's manager declared that up to 12:30 yesterday he was entertaining a proposition submitted by Promoter Jack Curley and Harry Frazee, the owner of the Boston Red Sox. When tentative articles had been drawn, it was suggested that the managers at least affix their initials to the documents, to serve as a temporary binding feature until the contracts were formally signed and approved this morning, but at this proposition Manager Kearns demurred, preferring to scan the contract carefully before he actually signed the paper.

The immense purse for which the men will strive sets a record in ring history which is likely to stand for many years. The previous record was made when Dempsey wrested the title from Willard at Toledo. On this occasion Willard received a guarantee of $100,000 and Dempsey $27,500. A record gate is expected by the promoters, but in arranging the bout they have also taken into consideration the tremendous value which would attach to moving pictures. This part of the match is expected to prove the greatest source of revenue. It is understood that Dempsey and Carpentier will have a share in the picture profits.

In the event of a Carpentier victory the pictures would probably be worth millions of dollars abroad, where the French heavyweight is a popular idol and acclaimed as a hero. In this country different conditions would interfere with the success of the film reproduction, since interstate traffic in fistic films is banned by law. The pictures could only be shown in the State where the bout took place, unless the present laws should be changed to meet the emergency.

Dempsey right now is in perfect condition and ready to defend his title with but little training. Unlike title holders who have preceded him, Dempsey has not been affected by the glare which attaches to the heavyweight crown. He has lived a regulated life since defeating Willard and is always in fighting trim. Manager Kearns said yesterday that Dempsey weighs 188 or 190 pounds today, and could enter the ring on short notice.

Carpentier will leave for France on Nov. 6 and plans to spend the Christmas holidays with his family at home. It is understood he intends to return here early next year and begin an extensive period of training in preparation for the Dempsey match.

The approaching close of the Dempsey-Carpentier battle dissipates for the time being the prospects of a return meeting between Dempsey and Jess Willard. This bout was being considered as a prospective attraction next March, and it is understood Willard was pursuing a course of light training in preparation for the match.

Starts Laundry to Fight High Cost of Football

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 26.—A football laundry is the scheme devised by Athletic Director L. W. St. John of Ohio State University to combat the high cost of football. All the football paraphernalia, which has more than doubled in cost during the last two or three years, is put through a process of soap and water, gasoline and other cleansing agents, and the result has been, it is said, to triple the usefulness and life of the equipment.

Shoes that formerly cost $4.25 now sell at $10, and the $6 grade at $12, wholesale. St. John, with the help of Trainer Gurney, goes over the footgear, employs a cobbler and salvages enough shoes in the best of condition each Fall to equip the ordinary team.

The 'Varsity clothing outfit, he points out, now costs $40 new at wholesale prices, compared with from $15 to $20 a few years ago.

Shoes, stockings, knickers, belts, shoulder pads and headgear all are carefully gone over. Holes are mended and darned and patched. Housewives could get a lot of pointers from the Buckeye athletic staff on short cuts to longer wear of duds.

HARVARD 'VARSITY IN LIGHT PRACTICE

TO USE PRINCETON ATTACK

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 26.—After two days' rest the Harvard football players began to pick up the loose ends again today, making an easy start with only the Virginia game between them and Princeton. Although Virginia is reported to have a pretty capable line from tackle to tackle, the Cambridge coaches will take the game with the Charlottesville team as it comes. Probably they will continue to hold back the special offensive that is being worked out for the Princeton game.

Harvard at Oregon last Winter got the idea of a few new offensive wrinkles and some of them will probably be tried out against the Jerseymen. Today the work was very light, the first half hour being spent in kicking. Some of the backs tried to kick the ball to the top of the stadium promenade and Stillman succeeded twice. Stillman showed up well late in the game against Centre, and if he can keep track of plays he ought to prove a valuable backfield auxiliary for the big games.

Lothrop Withington, Captain of the Harvard 'Varsity term in 1910, and who was one of the first really strong linemen of the long Haughton list, came out to assist in the coaching today. He has helped with some of the best teams Harvard had had since he stopped playing active football.

Billy Robinson, one of the 1916 quarters, also was an addition to the coaching staff. The second team did not enter the stadium today, continuing its drill on Princeton attack and rush-line methods. Teams "A" and "B" ('Varsity regulars and subs) worked on offense. The coaches are polishing off some plays and getting a start on others. Eastman and Crocker were in the places of Hubbard and Caston, but Churchill was in the back field again, Owen and Horweed. Churchill is lame, but went through the plays all right. Ralph Horween had another session with the drop kickers again today. Churchill is doing a little work, while Hamilton is showing better results than ever for a other substitute backs. He, with Humphrey and Gratwick, composed the substitute backfield.

Lockwood is coming along fast at tackle. He was expected to make a fight for a regular place when the season opened, and there is an excellent chance for him to wedge in ahead of Fauxon. Sedgwick was in the soft work, but is not ready for scrimmages.

ARMY COACHES ARE BUSY.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 26.—A hard driving scrimmage featured the Army's football drill today in further preparation for the Notre Dame contest on Saturday. Preliminary work with individual coaching lasted nearly an hour, Head Coach Daly and Prichard assuming charge of the backfield men in the forward pass and kicking drill. Tom Hammond and Hoge worked with the ends, while Graves and McEwen drove the linemen through their paces. Afterwards Daly sent for the Cullum Hall eleven, which was practicing on an adjoining field, and the two teams were sent through thirty minutes of gruelling scrimmage.

Cullum could not withstand the onslaughts of the 'Varsity's offensive drive, and yielded two touchdowns during the melée. French ran thirty yards for the first score, and Lawrence, who has displaced Dodd at halfback, drove off tackle for the second score. French later gave way to Smythe, the latter an acquisition from the Cullum squad. Wilhide drove the 'Varsity at quarter during the whole of the scrimmage work, although Ogden had been used during the signal drill.

CHANGES AT POLO GROUNDS.

The work of building new stands at the Polo Grounds, to increase the seating capacity for the Army-Navy football game on Nov. 27, is now under way, and when the work is completed it will be possible to accommodate more than 40,000 persons at the big game. The new stands cover the left field section of the bleachers and also a big part of the outfield.

Representatives of the Army and Navy Athletic Associations have been in New York to supervise the numerous details connected with the game. This year the two academies will be in charge of the arrangements, doing much of the work that formerly was done by the officials of the New York National League Baseball Club. Even the ticket distribution will be done by the athletic associations of West Point and Annapolis.

The new stands may be used at some of the other gridiron contests to be played at the Polo Grounds before the Army-Navy battle, but it is not likely that the capacity will be threatened at these earlier games. The collegiate football schedule at the Brush Stadium this year is as follows: Nov. 2, Rutgers vs. Nebraska; Nov. 6, Dartmouth vs. Cornell; Nov. 20, Columbia vs. Pennsylvania; Nov. 27, Army vs. Navy.

BROWN VICTOR IN RING.

Georgie Brown, west side lightweight, scored a technical knockout victory over Frankie Rice of Baltimore last night in their scheduled ten-round bout at the Commonwealth Sporting Club. Referee Lou White stopped the contest five seconds before the bell in the fourth round, when Rice was staggering against the ropes, unable to effectively defend himself from his rival's assault, and was bleeding profusely from a cut lip.

The bout was replete with action while it lasted. Both boxers slugged freely and willingly from the tap of the opening gong. In the second session it appeared that Brown was on the verge of a trip to dreamland when Rice hooked a wicked left to the stomach and followed with a hurried attack to the face. Brown weathered the storm, however, and in the one minute intermission recovered from the effects of the blows. In the third round Brown showed to advantage, and in the fourth session he administered a severe drubbing to the Baltimore boxer. A stinging right cut Rice's upper lip and started a flow of blood. Brown whipped over several hard jolts to the jaw, and had Rice backed against the ropes ready for a decisive blow when Referee White intervened.

Harvey Bright, former amateur boxer, scored a victory over Frankie Edwards, a Harlem featherweight, in their ten-round session. Bright gained the judges' award, earning a clear margin over his rival in a majority of the ten rounds. The third ten-round bout of the evening brought together Frankie Jerome, Bronx bantamweight, and Johnny Wallace. This contest ended abruptly in the opening round when Jerome whipped over a right to his opponent's jaw and Wallace went down for the count.

MURREY THE STAR OF TIGER PRACTICE

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 26.—Frank Murrey's individual work was the only thing that enabled the Princeton 'Varsity to triumph over the Omelettes on University Field this afternoon. The speedy Tennessean was at quarterback today, replacing Don Lourie, who did not appear on the field. Murrey swept around the ends for two touchdowns, and had it not been for his brilliancy the 'Varsity total would have been held to two points, the result of a safety by Audrey.

The 'Varsity did not look well in the scrimmage today, showing raggedness on both attack and defense, while the line was offside frequently. Stan Keck was the worst offender in this particular, reverting to the over-eagerness in charging which was his defect on the freshman team of 1917.

Baker and Griffin of the scrub proved too strong for the regular forwards and broke through repeatedly. The Princeton line would be greatly improved by the presence of these two ineligibles.

A long signal drill preceded the scrimmage, and the 'Varsity tried out several new plays. Murrey was calling signals, with Garrity, Gilroy and Scheerer in the backfield. When scrimmage started, Stanley Netts made his first appearance on the 'Varsity, starting at left end. Netts, who is the 'Varsity basket ball captain, has been out all Fall as the result of a minor operation which he underwent in September. He played well today, but Roper did not let him stay long in the game. Le Gendre, at the other wing, showed his usual fight.

The day's lineup:

Ends, Netts and Legendre; tackles, Halsey and McNamara; guards, McCaull and Dickinson; centre, Callahan; quarterback, Murrey; halfbacks, Cleaves and Scheerer; fullback, Gilroy.

N. Y. U. LINEUP REVISED.

Coach Gargan Tries Several Combinations and Benches Regulars.

Coach Gargan gave the New York University football team a complete shaking up yesterday afternoon on Ohio Field, giving all members of the squad a tryout at the various positions in an effort to find a more effective combination. The Violet mentor was not at all partial, but took out even the veterans of several years' experience and tried second-string men in their places.

At present the local team is handicapped by a hospital list that includes several first-string players. Both 'Varsity ends were unable to get into yesterday's session, as Levin still is suffering with a pulled muscle in his hip and Adams's shoulder is in bad shape as a result of Saturday's game. Caldell, who played tackle, also is out, and will not appear in the Violet lineup for several weeks. In the backfield Ryan is still missing.

The line came in for the first shift yesterday. Gargan tried all combinations of forwards, and will continue the experimenting for the rest of the week. Edgar and Robinson both got a chance at the guard places, and Horrigan, who has been working at guard, was tried at tackle. The two substitute linemen showed plenty of fight, and it is possible that one or both will win a regular berth.

In the absence of Adams and Levin, Gargan tried several sets of wings. Bates, Bacile, Wiltse, Parkhurst and Minton were all in the lineup for part of the session. Bates also was tried in the backfield and did well, and it is likely that he will get into the Trinity game.

With Ryan out of the backfield, Jackson has been shifted from the quarterback place to full, and Bourginon has run the team. The problem now facing Gargan is to find a way to get Jackson back at quarter and still have a good fullback. In yesterday's practice Nelson and Bates were given a chance at half and full, respectively, with Weinheimer at the other half and Jackson running the team. Sherfy and McCran also worked out in the backfield. If any of these men shows up well enough, Jackson will stay in the pilot's place.

CORNELL TRIES OPEN GAME.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 26.—The first serious practice of the week for the Cornell football squad, held this afternoon, found the Ithacans on their toes and practically every 'Varsity player in good shape. The immediate object of Cornell's drive now is the Rutgers game Saturday. But back in Coach Dobie's head the plans for the Dartmouth game at the Polo Grounds on Nov. 6 are already unfolding, and some of today's practice was devoted to the working out of several new formations, most of them based on the forward pass.

The 'Varsity team as it played Colgate worked together in today's scrimmage with the seconds, but Dobie indicated that he had not yet settled the question as to whether Hoff or Carey would play quarterback, and that his mind was still open between Jewett and Lechler for the position of fullback.

The fight between Carey and Hoff is a keen one, Hoff being the older and more experienced all-around player, with a record of better speed in calling the plays and of good judgment in his choice of plays favoring him. On the other hand, Carey is the best punter on the squad, and a cool-headed back, with plenty of power behind his drive. On the showing so far, Hoff has the preference, but Dobie is by no means sure that he will hold it. The two have a clear and fair field and nobody knows now which will land.

Cornell's punting weakness against Colgate, when Carey was out of the game, was practically the only weakness the Ithacans disclosed. But it impressed Dobie, and he is trying to develop a good kicker from a group including Mayer, Hoff and Kaw.

PREP SCHOOL GAME HERE.

Even the prep. school football teams are going to use New York City as the scene of their most important games, following the system of the college elevens, which hold their intersectional and other battles here. The teams of the Hill School and Lawrenceville, rivals of many years, will this year bring their annual contest to New York and hold it Saturday on the New York University field in the Bronx.

COLUMBIA ELEVEN VASTLY IMPROVED

Columbia's football team began to sit up and take nourishment yesterday after another stiff prescription from Coach Buck O'Neill. Still smarting from Saturday's unexpected trouncing, the Blue and White 'Varsity tore into the freshmen and the scrubs in a long scrimmage, and was a vastly improved team over the aggregation that made such a doleful showing against Wesleyan. There was nothing but optimism and vim on South Field when the scrimmage was finally called off and the players were dismissed for the afternoon.

The defensive side of the scrimmage was what drew the closest scrutiny from O'Neill. After he was satisfied that his new backfield, with Canapary at the helm, had shown enough dash and power against the scrubs, the 'Varsity was put on the defensive for the remainder of the workout. The ball was given to the second team on the 10-yard line, and one onslaught after another against the first-string defense was unsuccessful. After one march had been stopped, O'Neill took the ball back to the 10-yard mark again and started another procession. On the last attempt the second team failed to go over from the 1-yard line on the last down, and even on an extra attempt Habenicht, trying to slip off tackle, was nipped by Brodil and Canapary for no gain. After this display of defensive ability O'Neill sent the tired players to the shower baths.

A scintillating exhibition by Franklin Brodil at centre was the high light of the 'Varsity's defensive play. The brawny crew star is working over the handicap of having Columbia's Captain as his rival for the pivot position, but he flashed a brand of football that drew praise from both O'Neill and Tom Thorp. Brodil was a terror as a roving centre. He played the difficult position with perfect judgment, was never drawn away from the play, and made some smashing tackles that were gems. His long reach came to his rescue in several difficult tackles, and he pulled more than one runner to earth by falling full length and stopping his man by the narrowest of margins. Brodil showed that he is quickly mastering the position, and his speed and drive made it seem improbable that he will be displaced by Captain Klenninger or any of the other centre candidates.

Speed and then more speed was O'Neill's aim in the 'Varsity attack. Acting under the brusque orders of the coach, Frank Canapary kept the offensive moving with vim and dash. The team lined up quickly. Little time was wasted in calling the signals and getting the play started, and Canapary picked his plays with judgment and alertness. The interference was distinctly improved, Johnstone showing special aptitude at taking out tacklers. Two touchdowns were scored against the freshmen, and Burtt's goal from placement was the 'Varsity's sole effort against the second team before the ball was taken away from the regulars for the defensive drill.

PANTHERS ON THE SICK LIST

Warner Has Several Cripples as Lafayette Game Nears.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26.—The University of Pittsburgh players emerged from the Georgia Tech game in bad physical condition, and Coach Warner has a problem on his hands getting the boys in shape for the game with Lafayette College at Forbes Field on Saturday. No less than six regulars are badly crippled as a result of the bitter struggle with the Southern team.

The outcome of the game was very pleasing to Pitt fans as Georgia Tech proved one of the strongest teams that the Panthers have ever faced. In the first half, with Davies crippled in the first few plays, they clearly outplayed Coach Warner's men. In the second half, with the regular quarterback, Tom Holleran, leading the team, and with Davies and Hewitt back in the lineup, the university boys staged a magnificent comeback and pulled the game out of the fire. It was one of the most thrilling battles ever staged on the local gridiron and was witnessed by 22,000 people.

Much interest is being shown in the game with Lafayette on Saturday, due to the fact that the Eastern team is coached by Dr. J. B. Sutherland, a Pitt man and one of Coach Warner's greatest guards a few years ago. Sutherland is bringing an aggregation to Forbes Field that threatens to cause a lot of trouble for his old teacher. Pittsburgh is football mad, and the chances are that a crowd of over 20,000 will see the Pitt-Lafayette game.

The following Saturday Pitt goes to Franklin Field for the annual game with Pennsylvania, and then comes the classic W. & J. game at Forbes Field on Nov. 13. The finale is with Penn State on Thanksgiving Day here.

PENN STATE CRIPPLES BACK.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 26.—Shooting his 'Varsity against the scrubs in next to the last scrimmage before the game with Penn on Saturday, Coach Bezdek devoted his team to working up the plays that are expected to baffle Heisman's eleven when the two teams meet on Franklin Field. Redinger, last year's freshman star, was at quarterback in place of Killinger, and Bezdek is grooming him for use against the Quakers in case the star Harrisburg boy is unable to play.

Dick Rauch, the veteran guard, and Casey Jones, a strong end candidate, both of whom were injured in the North Carolina game, got back into action today and they will probably be in shape to play on Saturday in case of need. In their absence, Griffiths and McCollum have been showing up so well that it is doubtful if Bezdek will break up his present combination. With the exception of Killinger, all of the players are in the best of condition and they will be ready to play the game of their lives when they meet Penn.

STEVENS TRIES AIR ATTACK.

With Rensselaer looming up as the next opponent for Stevens Tech on the football field the team, in the daily practices which Coach Durborow is ordering, is working hard to atone for the poor showing made in the game with Middlebury. Coach Durborow is still worried over the forward pass. Yesterday's practice was largely devoted to forward passing, in which the second team cleverly outguessed the regulars time and again. Practically the entire afternoon was devoted to this style of game, indicating that Stevens is preparing to use its extensively and to better advantage the remainder of the season.

W. & J. IN TEN-DAY DRIVE.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 26.—W. and J.'s ten-day drive, which will end with the Syracuse game Nov. 6, got under way this afternoon when Coach Morrow inaugurated a scrimmage series on College Field that promises to eclipse anything of the kind seen here in years.

The Westminster game at Newcastle, Pa., Saturday is the immediate objective of the gridsters, but Morrow is shaping now almost exclusively for the big Orange team, staking his big throw there before the championship battle with Pitt.

General Pershing May See Nebraskans Tackle Rutgers

In response to an invitation from the New York alumni of the University of Nebraska to be their guest at the Nebraska-Rutgers football game at the Polo Grounds on Election Day, General John J. Pershing replied yesterday: "I will make every effort to attend and will advise definitely at earliest convenience." General Pershing is a graduate of Nebraska, having received his LL.B. there in 1893. He was commandant of the Nebraska cadet corps in the early nineties. At that time football was an infant sport at the Cornhusker school, and the then Captain Pershing gave it an impetus through his encouragement of the cadets to join the gridiron squad. The Pershing Rifles, a company of crack drillers within the cadet corps, was organized by the commandant.

GREEN TEAM WORKS HARD.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 26.—Dartmouth today began its preparation for the Tufts game Saturday. Spears had the whole squad out for the first time since the Syracuse setback last week. Only Captain Robertson, whose arm is now out of a sling and who may get back later in the season, and Gus Sonnenberg, star tackle, were allowed to lay off. Sonnenberg has borne the brunt of the work on the line so far this year, both on the offense and the defense, and Spears is taking no chances of letting him go stale through overwork before the big contests coming within the next few weeks.

Several men, Moore, Shelburne and Burke, are still a bit stiff from the effects of the clash with the Orange. Shelburne, big fullback, whose defensive work Saturday was one of the bright spots of the day from the Green standpoint, is not as strong yet as he might be, due to a wrenched tendon suffered in the early part of the season. For that reason, Spears is not planning to use him unless necessary in the Tufts game, preferring rather to save him for Cornell a week later at the Polo Grounds. This game now looms up as the big objective on the Dartmouth schedule, and Spears is bending every effort toward having his men in perfect shape at that time.

The principal work of the afternoon consisted in the developing of several new forward pass formations, a department in which the Green has shown marked improvement during the last ten days.

YALE 'VARSITY HAS SCRIMMAGE DRILL

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 26.—Most of the members of the Yale 'Varsity reported at the bowl this afternoon and several of them were in the scrimmage, which lasted for forty minutes. Fido Kempton ran the team at quarter back most of the time and was succeeded for a few minutes by Dan Kelly, Kempton going to left half for the latter part of the practice. Thorne Murphy, who was hurt in the West Virginia game, reported in a uniform and did some placement kicking and a little drop kicking. Several old players who were on the teams of 1906 and 1907, of which Tad Jones was quarter back, were out helping with the coaching, among them being Captain Lucius H. Biglow and H. Ray Fales, who worked with the tackles, and Clarence F. Alcott, who worked with the ends.

Mackay soon replaced Munger at tackle, and Munger played awhile at end. Mackay also played a part of the time on the other side of the line and O'Brien went in at left tackle. Feigan and Shevlin each got in for a few minutes at end. Croskey and Cochrane were in the back field at one time, replacing Knapp and Jordan.

The team ran with considerable snap, but at no time used forward passing. Kempton failed in a drop-kick attempt from the 30-yard line. After a series of line plunges Knapp made a touchdown for the 'Varsity. The 'Varsity was then given the ball on its own 30-yard line, rushed it to the centre of the field, advanced to the 15-yard line when Knapp made a 35-yard run, and scored on a 15-yard end run by Kempton. Kempton and Dan Kelly subsequently each made a touchdown. The 'Varsity was then put on the defense and the scrubbes managed to get the ball three yards from the 'Varsity goal line, where they fumbled it. Hendrick recovering it after a 15-yard loss. Hendrick failed in a trial for a field goal from the 25-yard line. The gains for the scrubbs were made principally by Hendrick and Saunders.

Aldrich, Callahan, Acosta, French and Murphy all had light work and are rapidly rounding into shape. Tom Knapp, whose work was the feature of the practice, is a sophomore in Sheff and comes from Roland Park, Md. He attended the Episcopal High School in Baltimore.

FOAM TAKES RACE IN BUTLER'S COLORS

BAND CELEBRATES TRIUMPH

Finally Gets Opportunity to Play "The Wearing of the Green" —Ensor Has the Mount.

Finegan's band had been waiting hopefully all through the meeting at Yonkers for a chance to play its favorite tune, "The Wearing of the Green," which it reserves especially for occasions when the colors of James Butler, President of the Empire City Racing Association, are brought home to victory. With the meeting rapidly coming to a close it looked as though the band would go into Winter quarters without sounding a note of the tuneful air, when suddenly the opportunity came yesterday.

It came in the final race of the day and the band made the most of it. "The Wearing of the Green" could be heard as far away as Getty Square, Yonkers, for Foam, a two-year-old filly, got home in front in a driving finish in a five-furlong dash for maiden juveniles. It was the first victory that had been scored for the Butler colors this year.

Mr. Butler no longer maintains a large stable, but he has several two-year-olds which have raced this season. At Jamaica and Belmont Park they fared badly. The situation was desperate until Foam was dropped into a spot where it seemed she could hold her speed to the finish.

Buddy Ensor had the mount on the Butler filly, and as a result Foam was made a favorite in a field of seven youngsters. After some waiting at the post, Foam got away on the outside but had to race wide all the way to the turn into the stretch before Ensor could get far enough in front to get over to the rail. By this time Lady Stella had been roused to the ground, but Jamaica Belle loomed up with a burst of speed and threatened Foam at the head of the stretch.

Foam Draws Away.

Ensor nursed his mount through the stretch, and, though Jamaica Belle got her head in front for a few strides, Foam was able to draw away in the final sixteenth to win by more than a length. Just as the number of Foam went up the band went into action to the accompaniment of cheers from the stands. Jamaica Belle saved second from Lady Stella and none of the others were ever serious contenders.

One of the closest finishes that has been seen at the Hilltop course came in the fourth race, the Lexington Handicap, at a mile and a sixteenth, when C. A. Stoneham's Recount got up in the last nod to take the decision from Johnny Dundee's War Mask. The victory was gained by a nose, and many of those who were not right at the finish line contended that the race had been given to the wrong horse. Right over the line it was plain that Recount had won.

There were only three starters, R. T. Wilson's Wyoming being the other horse. This one is not ready for a good race, so the contest was between War Mask, the odds-on choice, and Recount. War Mask was sent to the front and had a lead of three lengths at the first turn. Marinelli, who had the mount because an apprentice allowance had been claimed, hardly knew what to do with the horse, but did take him up slightly in the back stretch and give him a chance to catch his breath.

Turning into the stretch a length in front War Mask made a game effort to hold his lead, but was tiring and Recount came up with a rush and finally got on almost even terms. A hundred feet from the wire the two ran almost nose and nose, and Weiner, on Recount, was able to outride Marinelli and get the decision. Wyoming was badly beaten.

Another Choice Beaten.

The Lilip Stable's Raico caused the downfall of another choice when he took the measure of Pickwick in the third race at a mile and a sixteenth. This was another event with three starters and but two contenders. Raico went to the front at the break and, setting the pace all the way, won by a length, although he was under a drive in the stretch to hold Pickwick safe. It appeared that the distance was too far for the latter. He tried hard in the final furlong, but he had scant speed and was tiring badly at the end. War Plume was never in the running after the first sixteenth of a mile.

James W. McClelland added to his successes in the opening race when his two-year-old colt Caligula was an easy winner in a six-furlong dash for juveniles. He won by three lengths from Black Knight, with Sparkling third among the five starters.

Caligula was held in high esteem by the oraclists, who quoted 1 to 4 on the colt. Caligula never left the lasue in doubt and, breaking in front, outran his field all the way and was never put to any trouble to score.

Seven platers went to the post in the second race at a mile and the victory went to Montfor Jones's Sweep Clean. He won easily by four lengths with Sande in the saddle. The Wagoner was second and La Rablee, the heavily backed favorite, third. Lt. Rablee has been backed favorite, third. La Rablee has and has disappointed consistently. Sweep Clean was reserved to the stretch, where he came around The Wagoner and drew away.

Another favorite bit the dust in the fifth race when Prince of Como once more went down to defeat in a six-furlong dash in which there were a dozen starters. He was beaten by a nose by Mars Mouse, with Chimera third.

Prince of Como had no excuse except that he got out of breath before the finish was reached. He was in front to the last twenty feet, when he weakened badly and Mars Mouse caught him. The summaries:

SANFORD ALLOWS NO LETUP

Rutgers Eleven Jacks Up Its Defense—Cripples May Return.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 26.—The possibility of the return of the Rutgers cripples in time for the Cornell game on Saturday is the chief interest of the Scarlet coaches at present, particularly in regard to Winner. Without him the backfield was lost on the offensive last week, but it is believed that he will be back this week. Dunham, at centre, is also still missing.

Sanford is allowing no letup and he refuses to admit defeat yet. The team is being worked harder than ever, and was given a long scrimmage this afternoon. It is to be drilled chiefly on the defensive for the Cornell game and this afternoon the scrub was given continuous possession of the ball and allowed to drive a steady attack at the Varsity. Special attention was paid to forward passes. The practice was fairly satisfactory, and the team worked much more smoothly than had been expected. The defense showed a considerable development of power.

Sanford also had his men working on the famous multiple kick which he devised several years back, but which has not been tried out by Rutgers in a game this season. With Redmond to operate it, however, it is believed that it may prove a valuable scoring factor against Cornell.

MAROON REGULARS RETURN.

Players Battered by Georgetown Are Back in Fordham Lineup.

Coach Joe Dumoe of the Fordham University football team, put his charges through a long and strenuous practice at Fordham Field yesterday afternoon. Most of the regulars who were so badly battered in the set-to with Georgetown on Saturday that the Maroon mentor excused them from Monday's workout, returned to the fold yesterday. Dumoe again kept his team at the fundamentals of the game, dividing the practice about equally between tackling, running down punts and signal drills. The workout ended with a short scrimmage.

Cliff Steele, the star quarterback of the Maroon aggregation, was again at the helm during the signal drill, but he had to give way to Berry when the scrimmage started. Steele is not yet ready for strenuous work, and it is feared that his injured foot will keep him out of the game with the University of Detroit team next Saturday.

Jim Dufft, the big guard of the Fordham eleven, is also on the hospital list and had to remain on the sidelines yesterday. He is suffering from a pulled tendon in his leg, but the injury is not serious enough to cause any worry. Coach Dumoe announced last night that he expected to have Dufft back in the lineup today.

Reports from the Middle West indicate that the Maroon athletes will have to display a considerable better brand of football than they have shown at any time this season if they hope to triumph over the University of Detroit this week-end, as the Westerns are said to have a strong combination.

MOTOR COP MAKES SHOW OF HIS FIELD

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 26.—Commander J. K. L. Ross's Motor Cop, which seems to have reached his best form again, gave further evidence of this speed at Laurel this afternoon when he romped off with the six-furlong handicap which was the feature of the day. It was his second easy victory in a few days. He finished six lengths in front of H. P. Whitney's Panoply, with Mock Orange third.

Motor Cop took the track at the break and ran away from his field. Panoply made a good effort, but could never get close to the leader and the Ross sprinter was being eased up in the stretch. Panoply was easily second, though Mock Orange closed with a rush when she turned for home.

Crest Hill was the winner of the steeplechase, and finished five lengths in front of Bob Redfield with Melos third. The winner drew away on the last turn of the field when Balloon fell.

WOMEN'S GOLF YEAR ENDS.

Scores Are Remarkably Low in Farewell Event at Knollwood.

It was a wise move of Mrs. R. Percy Thompson, Secretary of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association, to hold the season's farewell one-day tournament at the Knollwood Country Club yesterday. Over a course where good scoring came comparatively easy the the linkswomen wound up their local season. There was no need of nineteenth-hole post-mortems, for every one was happy. The women don't need to recall with shame what they did at Essex County and Siwanoy; they can remember with smiles what happened at Knollwood.

Three of the metropolitan stars broke ninety yesterday, and five more got under the century mark. A fair enough day in any kind of a tourney. This young English girl, Miss Sylvie Highton, who has joined the Hackensack Golf Club since coming to this side, found conditions particularly favorable yesterday, and, with a score of 87, 6—81, she won low net prize for the day by two strokes. It was left to a better known metropolitan headliner, however, to carry off the main prize of the day, that for low gross score. The winner was Mrs. F. H. Dubois of Baltusrol, who shot a commendable 85. Her handicap was 2 and her net 83. Mrs. Alfred S. Rossin of Century won second net honors, with 88, 5—83.

Mrs. G. W. Brock, Siwanoy, 94, 7—87; Mrs. Albert Taylor, Hackensack, 95, 7—88; Miss Daisy Airey, Garden City, 94, 5—89; Mrs. Henry Blumenthal, Fairview, 94, 3—91; Mrs. F. W. Ely, Scarsdale, 109, 16—91; Mrs. Jay Lee, St. Albans, 101, 9—92; Mrs. Myra Peterson, Knollwood, 98, 5—93, and Mrs. S. A. Beresford, Westbrook, 101, 8—93.

SCHOOL SOCCER IS CLOSE.

Evander Childs Snatches Victory in Last Minute of Play.

One of the hardest fought soccer games in the annual P. S. A. L. competition took place yesterday at Crotona Park between the sievens of Evander Childs and Stuyvesant High schools. After a gruelling contest, Evander Childs finally obtained the verdict in the last minute of play, after having reduced the lead of 1—0 established by Stuyvesant in the first half. The final score was: Evander Childs, 2; Stuyvesant, 1.

The world's champion was pitted against Charles Cast, who claims the championship of the west side. Greenleaf won by a score of 125 to 35, making high runs of 58 and 31. BOYD WINS CLOSE MATCH WITH CUE

Displaying a complete reversal of poor form which had handicapped him in his most recent matches, Frank W. Boyd last night scored his first victory in the final round of the Class C 18.2 balkline tournament at the National Recreational Academy in Brooklyn for the interborough championship of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players. Boyd defeated Joseph Johann by a score of 150 to 143 in the closest and most interesting match thus far staged in the tourney. The winner made high runs of 19 and 17 and averaged an even 6, while Johann gathered clusters of 22 and 20 and averaged 4 27-29. Boyd has now broken even in two matches in the final round and Johann has been beaten twice.

The enthusiasts who have been following the play in the current jamboree for this newest of billiard titles anticipated a cue battle worth while in spite of the poor showing Boyd had made in his first game in the final round and one of his matches in the preliminary round. The result was that the Academy was filled with the largest gallery that has yet attended any of the contests. And it was an enthusiastic audience. Several times during the course of the game the contestants were compelled to quit playing until the applause had subsided. The outbursts were not prompted solely by a feeling of partisanship. They were justified by the good playing which both players liberally distributed throughout the thirty innings the game lasted.

It was an extremely tough game for Johann to lose, but, from the same token, it was a decidedly creditable victory Boyd scored. Johann started out as if he meant to saw up the game in the early innings. Through the twenty-third round, Johann led, and at times his margin was as robust as fifteen or twenty buttons—which is a fair lead in a Class C cue clash. At the end of the twenty-third canto, Johann was stepping along in front, the score standing 124 to 113 in his favor. Boyd had been playing well, but Johann had been performing so much better that the majority of the spectators were of the opinion that nothing short of a cyclone would keep Johann from winning.

In the twenty-fourth inning, however, Boyd unlimbered his stroke and before he missed he had put together his high run of nineteen points. This put him in the lead, 132 to 124, and he managed to maintain the advantage to the end. The fact that Boyd did not make any runs of more than nineteen proves that his performance was not exactly what could be called a flashy exhibition, but, when his comparatively small runs are taken into consideration, the fact that he finished the game with an average of five shows just how consistently he played, once he found himself.

Player.	Won.	Lost.	Per Ct.
L. A. Servatius	2	0	1.000
F. W. Boyd	1	1	.500
C. J. Steinbugler	1	1	.500
J. Johann	0	2	.000

DE ORO MATCH ARRANGED.

Greenleaf Will Meet Veteran Billiardist in Three-Day Event.

Final arrangements for the three-cushion billiard match between the veteran Alfredo De Oro, and Ralph Greenleaf, national pocket billiard champion, were completed yesterday. They will meet at Kline's Strand Billiard Academy next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 1, 2 and 3, playing a total of 300 points in blocks of 100 each afternoon and evening.

Greenleaf will be 21 years old on Nov. 3, the final night of the match.

Greenleaf Would Pay $200 For Return of Cue Worth $15

Ralph Greenleaf, the world's professional pocket billiard champion, has lost his cue. Returning from playing an exhibition match at Lawler Brothers Academy in Brooklyn recently he became separated from his stick and doesn't know just where. Although it was worth only about $15 he has offered a reward of $200 for its return. The young champion prized his cue almost as much as he does his title. It was the same cue that he has used ever since he was 9 years old. When he first began to show ability as a player his father presented him with the cue, so that it might be said that Greenleaf practically learned to play with it. In making the announcement Greenleaf called attention to the fact that his name is inscribed on a plate on the butt of the cue.

LIKELY TO MODIFY BAN ON SPITBALL

Club Owners Seem Ready to Allow Present Pitchers to Continue Moist Delivery.

Major league club owners at a meeting last Winter passed a rule that the spitball should pass out of their circuits at the close of the 1920 campaign. One year of grace was allowed so that exponents of the moist delivery might develop effectiveness along other styles of pitching. Now it appears that the regulation against spitball pitching in the majors is to be modified.

The campaign of self-protection got under way at the training camps last Spring and it is has been carried on in a quiet but most effective manner during the season. Pitchers specialising in the moist delivery got together whenever two teams met, and word was passed along as the season progressed until all the spitball pitchers had been acquainted with the plan, which was simple. It consisted of discussing frequently with the club owners the idea of having the rule changed so that all pitchers now in the game be allowed to remain until their effectiveness is gone. In the meantime no spitballers will be added to the list.

Owners Favor Plan.

When the major leagues convene in December for their annual meeting the proposition will be advanced by a club owner of each league if the matter is not settled in advance by a mail vote. Virtually every club owner has on his staff a spitball pitcher whom it may be worth while to keep in these days when staffs are not overcrowded with talent. It is easy to understand that club owners, now face to face with the prospect of lessening the effectiveness of a star boxman or two, will not be so anxious to pass rules against the delivery as they were a year ago, when the year's grace made the plan less objectionable.

The 1920 season was a highly successful one for the moist ball pitchers. In the National League, Burleigh Grimes and Bill Doak were among the few boxmen who registered twenty or more vitories. Fred Toney of the Giants was another who accounted for more than a score of successes. Dana Fillingim of the Braves was not high among the National League boxmen, but he did good work with a poor team. Phil Douglas of the Giants is a spitballer. It is hardly likely that Messrs. Ebbets, Brendon, Stoneham and Grant will be inclined to oppose the rescinding of the rule which doomed the spitball, when it will mean much to have certain pitchers at their disposal next season. In the American League, Stanley Coveleskie, Urban Shocker and Jack Quinn are the leading spitball pitchers, but there are a few others who use the moist delivery at times. It would not be difficult to line up the owners of the Cleveland, St. Louis and New York clubs in the fight to rescind the rule, and it is probable that other owners would join.

Unfair to Pitchers.

MUSIC

By Richard Aldrich

The Philadelphia Orchestra.

The Philadelphia Orchestra, which has gradually been making itself more and more at home in New York, and finding itself a welcome guest, began its season here last evening in Carnegie Hall; the hall was full; the evidence of the appreciation in which the orchestra and Mr. Stokowski are held was unmistakably shown.

The program was a long one, including Schubert's symphony in C, Alfredo Casella's orchestral rhapsody "Italia," Op. 11, and Sibelius's "Swan of Tuonela," and "Finlandia." The playing of the orchestra showed the qualities that have won it admiration here before; elasticity, a plastic modelling under the conductor's hand, precision of ensemble, and in general an excellent quality of tone, even though not in all respects of the greatest beauty. Mr. Stokowski's reading of the symphony realized much of the poetical beauty of the work, much of its joyous elan. It was much applauded.

The rhapsody of Casella was heard for the first time in New York. The composer is one of the better known of the younger generation of Italians. His Italy is not the Italy that has been so often joyfully celebrated in music, the picturesque Italy of sunshine, careless gayety and serenades. It is a more serious affair. The composer has desired to give a tonal picture of Sicilian life "in the play of tragedy, superstition and passion under the terrible heat of the sun or in the hell of the sulphur mines," and of Neapolitan life "in its full abandon and care-free exuberance, its mad delirium of joy." He has used several folk songs and several popular tunes, as Densa's "Funiculi, Funicula," and another by Tosti ("A Marechiare").

The piece opens lugubriously with a succession of the folksong motives, rising to a passionate violence; there is the suggestion of a Good Friday procession with a hymn intoned on the English horn; a folk dance, in which the bassoon plays the tune, accompanied by the harp. The scene changes as the tune of "Funicula Funicull" is heard well muffled up in the most modern of harmonies. There is a fugato on several of the motives, whipped up to a vertiginous end.

The music is graphic, imaginative. There is apparently no definite program, no depiction of scenes, but a succession of moods, sullen gloom, passion, mad delirium, powerfully evoked and sustained. The orchestral coloring is often striking, novel in effect. It is the work of a strong hand certain in its touch. The performance was a brilliant one.

Sabre Wielder Indicted.

An indictment charging murder in the first degree was returned yesterday by the Grand Jury against Rozzirl Voschi, 19 years old, who was arrested on a Dekalb Avenue car in Brooklyn Sunday while brandishing an army sabre. He is charged with having hacked to death with the sabre Mrs. Anna Horowitz, janitress of the tenement at 427 Cherry Street, last Sunday morning. Voschi is being detained for observation as to his sanity in the Kings County Hospital.

TWO PIANISTS HEARD.

Ralph Leopold, twice heard as pianist here since he served in the war, and previously, it is said, with orchestras abroad, reappeared before a large audience in Aeolian Hall last night. He gave an unaffected, musicianly and clean-cut performance of Beethoven's Sonata Op. 31, No. 2; arrangements by d'Albert of Bach's D major prelude and fugue, and by Kundinger of Popper's "Dance of the Elves." There were also some Chopin, Liszt's "Consolation" and Russian descriptive pieces by Balakirew, Arensky and Rachmaninoff.

Helen Scoville, a young pianist of some individuality, gave her first recital before a matinée audience yesterday in Aeolian Hall. She played pieces by Chopin, a sonatine by Ravel, and such other moderns as Cyril Scott, Debussy, Dohnanyi, with one classic echo in a Schubert-Liszt "Soiree de Vienne." Miss Scoville's performance of these was, like "free verse" of the day, out of the beaten track in tempo and rhythm, yet even in wayward fancy often touched with youth's freshness and grace.

WANTS NEW YORKER NAMED.

Smith Asks Wilson to Consider State In Filling Ship Board Vacancy.

Governor Alfred E. Smith sent a telegram yesterday to President Wilson requesting that he appoint a New York man to fill the vacancy on the Shipping Board caused by the declination of Theodore Marburg to serve on the board.

"In filling the vacancy in the shipping to which a member from the Atlantic seaboard is to be appointed," said the Governor's telegram, "I would respectfully urge that you consider New York City and its great port facilities. It would be a source of gratification to our commercial and industrial enterprises if a man from this State be appointed."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The cast of Shaw's "Heartbreak House," which will have its first performance on any stage at the Garrick Theatre on Wednesday night, Nov. 10, will include Albert Perry, Effie Shannon, Lucile Watson, Elisabeth Risdon, Ralph Rooder, Dudley Diggess, Fred Eric, Erskine Sanford, Henry Travers and Helen Westley.

Eddie Cantor will appear at the Century Promenade tonight.

Herman Bernstein's adaptation of "The Mandarin," with Brandon Tynan in the leading role, had its first performance last night in Syracuse.

There will be two performances on election night in all the Keith vaudeville houses in New York. A late performance will also be given at the Columbia Theatre.

Mary Hay has been engaged for "Sally in Our Alley," the new Ziegfeld production.

"Enter Madame" is to be published as a novel.

Elaine Palmer, a dancer, has been added to the cast of "The Half-Moon," opening at the Liberty next Monday night.

Chinese night will be celebrated at the Riverside tonight. The Long Tack Sam is appearing on the program, and a number of Chinese officials will attend the performance.

THE PLAY

By Alexander Woollcott

Made in Germany.

YOUTH, a tragedy in three acts by Max Halbe. At the Greenwich Village Theatre.

Rev. Father Hoppe	Adolph Link
Amuschka	Lois Churchill
Amandus	Alan McAteer
Father Gregor Shigorski	Edward B. Reese
Stephen	Reginald Sheffield
Maruschka	Zylah Shannon

The season of the Messrs. Conroy and Meltzer at the Greenwich Village Theatre was inauspiciously launched last evening by a noisy and befuddled production of "Youth." The origin of this is the "Jugend" of Dr. Max Halbe, a German play of nearly thirty years ago which may have possessed something of the flavor of "Frühlingserwachen," but which has been denatured and rendered impotent by an awkward translation and an alien and incompetent performance.

It tells the story of a young girl who dwells in the home of a kindly and philosophic priest and who, in the Spring time, becomes the centre of the thoughts of her father confessor and of a passing student and whose seducer is slain in the final scene by her idiot brother. This fable, done over into stark and ponderous English and given voice by a widely variegated company, in which the Etonian English of Reginald Sheffield and the involuntary Wartieldese of Adolph Link struggle with the assorted American of the rest of the company, achieves at last something of the effect of a Heine lyric, literally translated by a high school boy whose voice is changing.

Mr. Sheffield, who is in the half-way stage between a child actor and an adult of the theatre, acquits himself creditably enough, and there are some good moments in the work of Adolph Link, whom the scattering of the Irving Place company by the war has bequeathed to our stage, for which he is inadequately equipped. But both of these are uncommonly explosive on this occasion and the same may be said of others in the little cast. Indeed, the production, though credited by the program to Emanuel Reicher, bears no indication at any point of the kind of work we have been taught to expect from him. Mr. Conroy himself will direct the next production at this theatre, for which rehearsals begin today.

It is probable that "Jugend," though given us in an inspired translation and presented by an expert company, would still seem wearily alien, unpalatable and laborious. As it stands now in Sheridan Square, it has something of the fresh impulsiveness of the fun in a neighboring restaurant, which, according to the warning in the program, is an "unspoiled rendezvous where spontaneous entertainment frequently occurs among a talented and distinguished patronage."

fruit business, concerning which Mr. Pecora questioned him during one session of the inquiry. Mr. Travis said he had practically no records of his private finances and testified that he had made out his income tax returns from his check stubs and penciled memoranda, which he had since destroyed.

Tells of "Moral Obligation" Deal.

Deputy Controller Boardman said he was present at only one negotiation by the Controller's office for the purchase of bonds. That was in November, 1917, when he accompanied Controller Travis and Deputy Controller Wendell to the Empire Trust Company, which was carrying for William S. Fanshawe a block of bonds which the State intended to buy. Mr. Boardman, like Mr. Travis and Mr. Wendell, corroborated, in essential details, the stories told by his chief and Wendell at previous hearings to the effect that Mr. Travis had decided he was "morally obligated" to pay more than the market price for the bonds because he had given a verbal order for them several months previous.

Mr. Boardman testified that he had told the Controller his conduct of the negotiations was a "careless way to do business." In reply to a question by Mr. Pecora as to what he meant by that, Mr. Boardman said he did not believe the transaction should have been permitted to drag along for a year. Albert L. Judson, who accordingly to previous testimony bore no part of the loss on the transaction, although he would have received the larger share of the profits, was present at many of these conferences, Mr. Boardman said.

Reviewing one meeting, Mr. Boardman said that Fanshawe had told the Controller the bonds were 94 when he sold them. Travis suggested taking the bonds at 85, but this figure was advanced, first to 87 and then to 89½. Fanshawe lost $88,000 by the transaction.

Mr. Boardman testified that he had never bought any stock for Mr. Travis's private account. He said he had several times cashed personal checks for Mr. Travis, the largest amounting to $150.

Inquiry May Be Ended Today.

Le Roy W. Baldwin, President of the Empire Trust Company, testified as to the part his company had played in the "moral obligation" sale. His version of the transaction was substantially the same as that of other witnesses. He testified that he made the agreement with Fanshawe by which bonds valued at several million dollars were carried at the purchase price. After the sale had been made, Mr. Baldwin said, Fanshawe gave the bank notes for the $88,000 loss which he had borne on the sale. None of the notes has been paid, Mr. Baldwin said.

"Did Fanshawe speak as if he himself had conducted the negotiations?" Mr. Pecora asked.

"That is my recollection," said Mr. Baldwin.

The private conference between Colonel William Hayward, counsel for Deputy Controller Wendell; Justice Kernochan and Mr. Pecora, at which Mr. Wendell's personal accounts are to be scrutinized in order to determine whether any of them are relevant to the inquiry, has not yet been arranged, Mr. Pecora said at the close of yesterday's session. Mr. Pecora said he had asked to have Mr. Wendell and the records produced tomorrow morning.

Justice Kernochan directed that Controller Travis be informed of the testimony of the stock brokers yesterday as to his personal accounts in order that he might avail himself of the opportunity of testifying about them tomorrow, if he wishes. No announcement was made by the Justice with regard to his punishment of Mr. Travis for contempt of court.

Should the investigation be concluded tomorrow the Justice's findings are expected by the end of this week or early next week.

THREE MEN SHOT IN BAR HOLD-UP

INVADERS SERIOUSLY HURT

One Shot in Region of Heart, the Other in Head—Neither Expected to Live.

Two men were shot by Andrew Hollocher, part owner of a saloon at 609 Columbus Avenue, shortly before last midnight when they attempted to rob the till of the saloon. Hollocher was shot in the groin. At Knickerbocker Hospital it was said his assailants would die.

The hold-up men were identified by the police as Nicholas Mecca, 25, of 109 West 100th Street, who was shot twice, once through the heart, by Hollocher, and Thomas Hunt, 23, of 703 Columbus Avenue, who was shot twice through the forehead. Hunt was identified by Detective Morrell of the West 100th Street station as the hold-up man who shot and killed a youth in Central Park West last week after he had attempted to rob the young man. Hunt, it was said, was well known to the police.

Both Hunt and Mecca, with another man and a girl, entered the saloon early in the evening and remained chatting in the back room until shortly before the hold-up.

While the unidentified members of the party remained talking to Hollocher in the back room, Mecca and Hunt, drawing pistols, advanced upon the bartender. They first held up James Fowler, who conducts an oyster stand in the saloon, and while Hunt guarded Fowler, Mecca walked to the bar and covered George Ulrich, the bartender.

Hollocher, who had heard stern shouts of "Don't move your hands!" from the front of the saloon, crept silently to the bar.

"I'll give you all the money there is in the register," he answered.

He opened it, but in creeping up to the bar he had grasped a pistol, and with this he whirled about and fired two shots at Mecca, who dropped to the floor. Then he aimed at Hunt, and both exchanged shots. Although Hunt fired first, he wounded Hollocher less seriously than he himself had been wounded. Hollocher fired twice before he fell with a bullet in the groin. Hunt dropped at Hollocher's first shot.

Policeman Price of the West 100th Street Station was summoned by Fowler. Price called an ambulance. Before the arrival of Dr. Shapiro of Knickerbocker Hospital, Detectives Morrell, Moore and Mosher of the West 100th Street Station reached the scene. Morrell identified Hunt as a professional hold-up man and said the man had been arrested only a week ago. He could not explain how he happened to be at liberty. Other detectives had seen Hunt's picture in the Rogues' Gallery.

The saloon, of which Hollocher is part proprietor, is known as William J. Martin's. Only a few persons were in the place at the time.

DELANEY ANSWERS ATTACK BY MILLER

John H. Delaney, Transit Construction Commissioner, yesterday, in a letter to Nathan L. Miller, replied to the Republican Gubernatorial candidate's recent attacks upon the Public Service Commission. He wanted, he wrote, to set Mr. Miller on the road to truth and to correct "a campaign lie."

Mr. Delaney said that when he assumed office, on June 1, 1919, subway construction was at a standstill, the department was completely demoralized and a large force of engineers and other employes was working ineffectually. Time limits had been exceeded by contractors, and the failure to complete parts had tied up the operations of entire lines. Depreciation funds had not been set aside and neglect was apparent even in connection with the important Fourteenth Street-Eastern District lines.

Mr. Delaney charged that under the five-headed commission no accounting system had been devised to protect the city and that:

"The contractual time requirement, so that a five-cent fare on all lines of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit system could be enforced by the completion of a small section of elevated structure, was utterly neglected, and consequently a ten-cent fare was charged on the lines to Coney Island."

Mr. Delaney says the former commission seemed to devote its entire time to quarreling with the city administration, and compares this record with the work accomplished by Lewis E. Nixon and himself. He says that "delinquent and incompetent contractors have been expelled and the work taken over by his department and carried on toward completion with the result that during the year twenty-five and a quarter miles of new transit facilities, costing $76,000,000, have been opened to the public."

In addition $7,200,000 of contract work has been awarded for further extensions in comparison with $2,600,000 worth awarded by the old commission during the last year it was in office. Then the letter reads:

"New plans for the completion of the remaining sections of the dual subway are rapidly advancing toward the point of advertising the contracts. The needs of the city for the next twenty-five years have been studied and plans outlined for sections requiring immediate transit relief.

"The new parts of the dual system shortly to be contracted for are: the extension of the Queensboro subway from Grand Central Station to Seventh Avenue; extension of the Fourteenth Street-Eastern District Line from Masserole Street to Nassau, New York; construction of the Nassau Street section from the Municipal Building to Whitehall Street; construction of five storage and repair yards in different boroughs, and construction of repair shops at 149th Street.

"Plans are also going forward, Mr. Delaney says, for the extension of the subway to Staten Island and to Flushing; the closing of the gap of the Fulton Street elevated line in Brooklyn with the subway, for new facilities in Manhattan, and for final settlement of accounts with contractors.

"Concerning the charge that the incumbents have been improvident, figures are presented to show that appropriations for the first half of 1919 amounted to $944,051 and for the second half of 1920 to $1,105,662, including increases in salaries. These increases, Mr. Delaney says, are not sufficient.

"The relief given to the underpaid employes has doubtless been a potent factor in producing the really remarkable progress of the last few months," says Mr. Delaney. "With a working force of fifty-three less than the comparable period, the current work has been kept up to date, the arrearages have been considerably absorbed, many investigations and new plans have been developed, and two new and important branches of work, accounting and supervision of operation, have been created."

Replying to statements made by Mr. Miller that the two Commissioners are "an ex-leader of Tammany Hall" (Mr. Nixon) and "a lieutenant of McCooey, the Brooklyn leader," Mr. Delaney says:

"That was unworthy of you, especially in view of your own political activities and close affiliations with the Republican organization. No one can successfully impugn the honor or fine reputation of either Lewis Nixon or John H. McCooey. I have neither the political acumen nor the inclination to have even the rank of lieutenant in the party organization, but I rejoice in the personal friendship of Mr. McCooey, and it would increase your happiness to cultivate it."

PACKERS ALTER PLAN TO SELL STOCK YARDS

MEETS SOME OBJECTIONS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Swift & Co. and Armour & Co., two of the packers included in the "Big Five" who recently submitted a plan for the disposal of their stock yard holdings to a holding company organized by F. H. Prince & Co. of Boston, appeared today in the District of Columbia Supreme Court with the skeleton of a substitute scheme. This included the actual purchase by Prince & Co. and the appointment of five trustees by the court, who would supervise the affairs of the concern for twenty years.

When the packers first offered to sell their stock yard holdings to Prince & Co. as a holding organization, the Department of Justice objected, saying it would constitute an even greater monopoly than exists at present. The Federal Trade Commission took the same view. A statement issued today by the department says the new plan is designed to meet its objections.

It is understood the department will insist that cattle shippers shall have the first chance to purchase shares in the stock of the new company. Another stipulation will be that no plan now agreed upon shall interfere with future legislation on the stock yards by Congress. A statement from the Department of Justice reads:

"On the 31st of August last the packers filed a plan for the disposition of their interests in the stock yards to which the Department of Justice filed objections. That plan was so thoroughly objectionable that the packers have now withdrawn it.

"The new plan, filed today, we take it, was designed to remove the principal objections urged by the department against the first plan. This new plan has been in our hands only three days and we have therefore not had sufficient time to study it thoroughly.

Trustees to Control Operation.

"The underlying basis of it seems to be that the control of the principal stock yards, now in the hands of the packers is to be lodged for a period of twenty years in the hands of five trustees to be appointed by the court. It contemplates that the packers are to part forever with all ownership of the stock yards and that the cattle producers are to have the first opportunity to buy the stock of the corporation that will take over the packers' interests in the yards. In these respects it would seem to be a distinct improvement over the first plan.

"The Government will ask for a few days in which to study this plan carefully, and will then either give its approval or point out objections, if any there be. At this time the Government desires to state that it will insist that neither this nor any other plan be approved by the court without providing in the decree by which the plan will be approved in substance as follows:

"1. That the court's approval of a plan shall in no way interfere with the enactment of any legislation by Congress which may deal with the stock yards and their operation.

"2. That nothing contained in this plan or any other plan that may be finally approved shall be construed as a modification or amendment of the provisions of the decree entered in this case.

"3. That the packers shall dispose of all securities that they may, with the approval of the court, take in part payment for their stock yards interests within a reasonable time, to be designated by the court.

"4. That if this plan be approved, the decree approving the same shall prescribe the rights and duties of the trustees and shall give the trustees the right to hear all complaints by packers or shippers or producers concerning the management of the stock yards and shall, either upon their own initiative or as a result of such complaints, correct any practices in the yards which may tend to restrain commerce or free competition in the yards. They shall have the right to denounce all arrangements for the operation of any yards wherein the packers or any of them may seek to regain control over such yards, and in the discharge of their duties the trustees shall have the right at any time to remove any director, officer, executive head or employe of any corporation owning or operating any of the stock yards under the control of said trustees."

Joseph W. Folk, appearing as counsel for Prince & Co., said his company had not reached an agreement with the Cudahy and Morris interests in regard to the first plan. It is understood that these two interests will submit a plan similar to that presented by the Swift and Armour concerns. The Government has until Nov. 8 to consider the proposal, on which a hearing will be held on Nov. 16.

Details of the New Plan.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (Associated Press).—Under the proposal submitted by Swift & Co. and Armour & Co. today for the disposal of their stock yard holdings, F. H. Prince & Co. would organize the United Stock Yards, Inc., under the laws of Maine, to take over the stock in the principal yards held by the packers, while the yards not named in the agreement would be offered for sale by the packers to the public. It was understood that Wilson & Co. also would adhere to this plan. Morris & Co. and the Cudahy Company have until Nov. 16 to negotiate for their inclusion in the new plan or to find some other purchaser for their stock yard interests.

The United Stock Yards, Inc., will be capitalized by issues of first preferred shares, second preferred shares and common shares of stock and by notes. Live-stock growers and commission men are to have preference in the purchase of the shares of the new company, but the common shares alone will have voting power. Under the plan the common shares "will be issued to or transferred to five voting trustees to be appointed by the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, * * * to hold under a voting trust for twenty years."

The United Stock Yards, Inc., will pay to the Chicago Stock Yards Company $300,000 per annum, and the leases or operating agreements shall provide that there shall be no restraint of free and open competition in respect to the purchase and sale of livestock in the yards, nor any combination in restraint of trade, and that no packer shall exercise directly or indirectly any control or influence over the operation of any of the yards.

F. H. Prince & Co. propose to organize a syndicate with a paid in capital of not less than $1,000,000. The syndicate will provide for two years' cash for all necessary working capital of the United Stock Yards, Inc.

The Rev. Dr. F. de Sola Mendes was retired on full salary and made rabbi emeritus at the annual meeting of the congregation of the West End Synagogue, West Eighty-second Street, near Amsterdam Avenue, last Thursday evening. The action was taken at Dr. Mendes's request, and the title of "emeritus" and perpetual salary were bestowed upon him to show the affection in which he is held. His retirement marks his seventieth birthday and the forty-eighth anniversary of his incumbency. This was the only congregation he ever served.

A Sphinx of Silence and A Pyramid of Power!

Silent on the road—inaudable in traffic—mute on maintenance—quiet on the subject of gas—yet growing better with the going and stronger the longer it runs—accumulating energy in the hush of expending it—silently improving in the crucible of use—a finer motor at ten thousand miles than at five, better yet at twenty, better still at thirty, and in the prime of its performance at fifty thousand forward!—these are the things that make the Silent Sleeve-Valve Willys-Knight a privilege and an economy to own.

when they said we couldn't build a fine custom-tailored suit or overcoat for $40

Men, meet one of our woolen buyers.

As keen for a cent in the market as a hound for a scent in the field.

But a worthy friend of yours in your clothes-buying; your faithful and able servant in securing the world's finest woolens at lowest cost—for your wardrobe.

T. R. T.

It amused him to hear some of the Fifth Avenue tailors declare it impossible for us to make fine custom clothes for $40.

"Of course, they can't understand," he said. "A man cannot appreciate that which he hasn't experienced.

"They cannot comprehend woolen values such as we get, because they haven't the buying power to command them.

"Where they buy by the piece, we buy by the trainload. Where they dicker with brokers for job lots, we take a mill's entire output.

"Every success has a mathematical explanation. It is our wholesale buying power; our national trade of half a million suits a year—which enables us to furnish such remarkable quality at such low cost.

"The Royal plan makes it an economy for any man to wear the best made-to-order clothes."

CALL ON DRIVERS FOR TEN-HOUR DAY

REFUSE DEMAND FOR RISE

Teamsters Told They Must Do Their Share to Reduce the Cost of Living.

UNION TO CONSIDER ANSWER

Leaders Promise 50,000 Members Will Not Strike Without Full Discussion of Proposal.

The city trucking interests served notice on their employes last night that the new working agreement between the owners and the unions, due to be operative Nov. 1, must provide for a ten-hour day instead of nine at the same wages now paid for nine hours. This, the truck owners declared, was only labor's just share in the effort "to correct the abnormal conditions created by the war, and to re-establish an industrial balance."

The action of the truck owners, although heralded by resolutions adopted on Sunday at a meeting in the Waldorf which declared that it was the turn of labor to make concessions to reduce the cost of living, came as a surprise to the union leaders on whom the demands were served last night at the City Club in reply to the unions' demands for still higher wages.

The leaders refrained from comment until the members of the unions should meet and take action on the employers' demands.

The union spokesman, however, assured the truck owners that there would be no strike of the 50,000 truckmen involved—even if the unions had not acted before Nov. 1, when the present agreement expires—until the demands had been discussed in detail by the locals in a joint meeting. The date of the meeting, they said, could not be fixed, because of the uncertainty of engaging a hall.

At the conference last night were the members of the wage scale committee of the Merchants' Truckmen's Bureau, of which Arthur G. McKeever of the Ajax Trucking Corporation is Chairman, and the following delegates from labor organizations: A. Shaeffer, Joseph Brennan, William Brown and William O'Neill, Local 807; Joseph Tobin, Local 202; Martin Tracey, Local 643, and Edward McCaffrey, Local 282.

The wage scale committee first held a meeting at which the demands were formulated. These, in addition to the ten-hour working agreement at the present scale, provide for a $500 bond to be given by each employer and employe to assure payment of any damages incurred by either as the result of a strike or lockout in contravention to the agreement.

What Employers Demand.

The demands in full follow:

Whereas, Labor costs musts be reduced in proportion to the lower cost of commodities in order to re-establish normal conditions of business, and, whereas, this must be accomplished either in a reduction of wages or through securing more work for the same pay; therefore be it

Resolved, That this committee proposes to the representatives of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers that the basis of the contract to be entered into for the period of one year from Nov. 1, 1920, to Nov. 1, 1921, shall be substantially as follows:

The same scale of wages shall be paid as at present.

Ten hours shall constitute a day instead of nine hours, as at present.

Overtime shall be paid by the minute at the rate of $1 per hour (not pay for an hour when work has been done for only a part of the hour).

Drivers and chauffeurs to be paid for holidays providing they work the entire week.

A bond in the amount of $500 shall be filed by both employer and employe to assure the payment of damages sustained to either because of an unauthorized strike or lockout in contravention of this agreement.

Declares Situation Unbalanced.

Mr. McKeever, in presenting the resolution to the labor representatives, said:

"War prices grew from the urgent demand for commodities, and labor justly participated in the increase in order that the high cost of living might be met. The demand for merchandise has been diminished by a lack of buying power in this country and abroad, until many commodities now are selling below what it actually cost to produce them, but labor costs still remain adjusted to war prices.

"This leaves the situation out of balance. Employers have no incentive to produce under present labor costs, because they cannot sell at a profit. Further, the manufacturer and the merchant logically expect lower labor costs, and until this adjustment has been made they hesitate to make commitments based upon the present cost of labor. This works to the disadvantage of the employer and of the employe, as there is a lack of business for one and unemployment for the other.

"The world is working to correct the abnormal conditions created by the war, and to re-establish an industrial balance. This work must be shared by employer and employe alike, and the sooner a full co-operation is had toward this end the quicker the job will be finished to the advantage of both.

"This committee has given careful consideration to the facts that the normal range of prices will probably be higher than those of pre-war times; that the benefit of price reduction has not, as yet, been felt to the full extent in reducing the cost of living, and that living conditions must be maintained upon the higher plane consistent with our national progress; but with these facts in mind we feel that it is the task of labor to make concessions and we have accordingly adopted the resolution.

In Conciliatory Mood.

After the meeting, which was secret, spokesmen of the truck owners said that generally the delegates had shown a conciliatory disposition, although several had said they did not think the attitude of the employers was just and they feared the consequences of reporting it to the members of the union.

Joseph Seaman, President of the League of Metropolitan Merchants, declared prices were already being cut and that the cost of living was due to be lowered materially. To this the union men replied that the only commodities they had seen cut were silk shirts and diamonds.

The truck owners asserted that since their action at the Waldorf on Sunday had received publicity, hundreds of business men had pledged their support to a movement to increase labor's efficiency. Among them, it was said, were pledges from commercial organizations, who had promised their support only on condition that no compromise was made with the labor unions.

The demand of the truckmen for an increase in wages, which, the employers say, would amount to 40 per cent., was presented a week ago. The employers rejected the proposition and called a meeting of all the trucking interests in the city for Sunday, at which the counter-demands were decided upon. That action was not considered seriously by many of the union leaders, who believed the owners would be willing to agree last night to continue another year at the present scale and under the present working conditions.

THREATENS CUBA WITH INTERVENTION

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Oct. 26.—President Menocal today ordered the District Attorney of the Audiencia to prosecute Mason Peters, general manager and part owner of The Havana Post, for libel because of an article published in that newspaper this morning under the headline "No Robbery," in which it was asserted that if the election next Monday was stolen an American army would disembark on the shores of Cuba and intervene at once.

This article appeared on the front page in large type, and the Government apparently maintains that this is a direct threat to the Conservatives, since, being in power, they are the only party that could steal the election, and they allege on this basis that the article cited is Liberal propaganda.

This view appears to be shared by most Cubans, regardless of party, and by many Americans. Before the news of the libel charges became known, it was generally asked whether the article had been inspired officially. No statement was forthcoming from the American Minister to Cuba.

The Evening News, published in English, asserts that Minister Long "denies all knowledge of such a threat being made to the Cuban Government, and disclaims all knowledge of anything contained in the article."

ROTHSTEIN CLEARED IN BASEBALL FIXING

Gedeon Is Also Exonerated, but They Give Evidence Tending to Convict Others.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—Arnold Rothstein of New York and Joe Gedeon, St. Louis American League second baseman, testified today before the Cook County Grand Jury investigating the baseball scandal, which the State's Attorney's office afterward announced had "exonerated the two men from complicity in the throwing of games in the 1919 world's series, but had materially strengthened the cases against some of the men already indicted."

The jury completed today the taking of testimony in the investigation, which has lasted more than a month and resulted in true bills being voted against thirteen men on charges of conspiracy to do an illegal act, but it will hold a final session Friday to finish up clerical work. The jury will vote no more true bills, according to State officials.

Gedeon and Rothstein testified against Abe Attell, Hal Chase, William Burns and others on whom the jury already had acted. Their testimony probably will result in an attempt to have Attell brought back here from Canada for trial. Officials said it was believed here that he can be extradited.

Supplementing the announcement by the State's Attorney's office, President Ban Johnson of the American League declared he felt that Gedeon was "entirely innocent," and Alfred Austrian, attorney for the Chicago American League club, issued a statement declaring that Rothstein, in his testimony today, had proved himself guiltless."

WEAKENS COCCHI'S DEFENCE.

Bohan Testifies in Italian Trial for Cruger Murder Here.

BOLOGNA, Italy, Oct. 26.—At the continuation today of the trial of Alfredo Cocchi, charged with the murder of Ruth Cruger in New York in 1917, Owen Bohan, an Assistant District Attorney of New York City, testified.

Mr. Bohan said that Cocchi's wife, who was accused by the prisoner of having committed the crime, but who was exonerated, was a hard-working and moral woman, and that Cocchi's eldest daughter was dead. Cocchi previously had testified that he made his confession of killing Miss Cruger so as to protect his wife and children.

The testimony of Mr. Bohan was declared by the defense to have considerably weakened the pleas of the defendant.

Mr. Bohan's testimony that one of Cocchi's children was dead created a sensation. No one in the court had knowledge of this. Judge Bagnoli scowled at Cocchi, the defendant's own lawyer frowned and the jury evinced emotion.

"Georgette is dead and Athos is going to school," said Mr. Bohan in referring to Cocchi's children, whom the accused man said he had protected in making his confession.

Mr. Bohan reviewed the entire case. He laid emphasis on the morality of Mrs. Cocchi and her hard working traits. Until he had given his testimony Cocchi had been able to assail his wife without rebuttal.

The Judge, jury, attorneys and the crowd in the courtroom listened intently to Mr. Bohan's reading of the indictment of Cocchi by the New York Grand Jury.

Poland Peace Ratified.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—Ratification of the preliminary peace treaty between Poland and Bolshevist Russia was voted by the All-Russian Soviet yesterday, according to a wireless dispatch from Moscow.

George Tchitcherin, Bolshevist Foreign Minister, explained the compact, and declared Poland had refused assistance to General Baron Wrangel, head of the anti-Bolshevist Government of South Russia. He also asserted Poland had agreed not to lend aid to forces of reaction in Russia.

Church Board Wants Congress To Buy Up the Liquor Supply

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The purchase by Congress of all supplies of intoxicating liquors held in bonded warehouses was urged today by the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Church.

The holdings should be got together in a smaller number of warehouses, the board recommended, and after a sufficient supply for "legitimate uses" had been provided the remainder should be rendered unfit for beverage use and sold for industrial purposes.

LEAGUE ADOPTS WORLD COURT PLAN

DISCUSSES VILNA DISPUTE

BRUSSELS, Oct. 28 (Associated Press).—The Council of the League of Nations approved today the plan for a permanent court of international justice as adopted by The Hague Committee of Jurists, with the exception of the provision for obligatory jurisdiction and some minor matters.

Those parts of the plan generally attributed to Elihu Root, the former American Secretary of State, were accepted in their entirety.

The Council decided that it could not recommend to the Assembly of the League a plan going further than the covenant of the League of Nations, which provides that both parties to a dispute must give their consent in order to bring their case into court. The question of the compulsory adherence of a defending nation will, however, be submitted for study to all the legal associations, including the American Institute for International Law, along with other points that may come up, as suggested by Mr. Root.

The opinions of the associations will be asked with regard to the holding of another international law conference.

The decisions of the court will not bind nations not parties to a case, and hence they will not constitute precedents. The language used by the court will depend upon the choice of the parties at issue, but French and English have been recommended as the official languages.

The occupation of Vilna by General Zeligouski was the subject of animated discussion by the Council this morning.

Three eventualities were under consideration by the Council. The first of these was the expulsion of Zeligouski and the reinstallation of the Lithuanian authorities, but the League's military mission reported there was no force available for this purpose.

The second eventuality was continued occupation of Vilna by the Poles.

The third was a plebiscite by which the inhabitants could express a desire for self-determination.

The discussion was noteworthy owing to the fact that M. Askenazi, a Polish professor in the University of Warsaw, replaced M. Paderewski, the former Premier of Poland, who was prevented by illness from attending the session. M. Askenazi presented the Polish views, while Augustine Waldemar spoke for the Lithuanians. Both Askenazi and Waldemar sat as members of the Council under the ruling that non-members of the Council and also non-members of the League are admissable as full members when their interests are discussed.

The Polish contention is that Zeligouski occupied Vilna without the knowledge or desire of the Polish Government, but that he did so in response to popular sentiment of the inhabitants. M. Waldemar presented documents which, he said, tended to prove that the Warsaw Government had previous knowledge of Zeligouski's enterprise.

It is understood that the members of the Council favor a plebiscite to settle the dispute between the two countries.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The main body of the Secretariat of the League of Nations will leave London on Wednesday and reach the new home of the League in Geneva on Thursday morning. Sir Eric Drummond, Secretary General, who has been in Brussels for the Council meeting, will probably travel directly thence. Only a few subordinate members of the staff are left in the large house at the corner of Piccadilly and Downing Streets, which has been the headquarters of the League for the past year.

In none of the larger allied countries has it more and keener friends than here, and it will be with a qualm of regret that they will hear of the removal of the League from the sympathetic air of London to the calmer and more strictly international atmosphere of the Alpine lakeside.

The Council and the Secretariat have made in this first year a brave start, intervening, not always successfully, in several of the most anxious current problems, such as those of Russia, Turkey and Poland, administering certain territories and portioning out many thousands of war prisoners, founding new international organs like the Permanent Court of Justice, the Permanent Armaments Commission and the Health Commission, pressing forward the creation of the World's Labor Charter, conducting at Brussels a great inquiry on financial reconstruction and preparing for new tasks.

The first and second budgets of the League, covering twenty months, from May 5, 1919, to the end of this year, show a total expenditure of about £650,000, the price of a small cruiser. For a year it will cost Great Britain about £325,000, but next year's estimates will be weighted with the cost of the Geneva headquarters, the Permanent Court of Justice and various organisations, and may thus be doubled.

Important to the value of its work the League will probably still be the cheapest institution in the world. This work will develop fresh power and interest from the first meeting in Geneva of the Assembly of the League, which will be open on Nov. 15. In addition to the three British delegates, Mr. Balfour, Mr. Fisher and Mr. Barnes, several imperial representatives are announced, including Prince Ranjitsinhji, Maharajah Jam Sahib of Nawanagar, who will head the Indian delegation.

The news that General Smuts has persuaded Lord Robert Cecil to represent South Africa along with Sir R. A. Blankenburg will be the subject of general rejoicing.

There has been some question of a meeting of the chief allied Premiers about the German indemnity which is contemplated in the present Franco-British negotiations being held at Geneva during the sessions of the League Assembly. France, however, is understood to object strongly to this suggestion.

LADY RHONDDA CLAIMS HOUSE OF LORDS SEAT

Petitions the King to Accord It to Her Under Sex Disqualification Act.

LONDON, Oct. 26. — Viscountess Rhondda has presented a petition to the King claiming her right to sit and vote in the House of Lords. The petition will probably be referred to the Committee on Privileges.

Lady Rhondda states that she thinks the time has come to test the legality of her contention that she has this right. The Sex Disqualification act has equalized the position of the sexes in regard to public appointments, and in her view the House of Lords should now admit peeresses in their own right to the privileges of membership.

German Coal King and His Son Reconciled; Thyssens' Long Feud Cost a Billion Marks

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Oct. 25.—The long feud between August Thyssen, Germany's second richest man, and his son has come to an end. Ten years ago the coal king quarreled with his second son, August Thyssen, Jr., over various money matters, but chiefly regarding the division of his mother's fortune. They went to law and nearly a score of suits were fought out with the utmost bitterness and with ever-changing fortune. In the end the whole matter stood as at the beginning.

Meanwhile the younger Thyssen, certain by German law to inherit a proportion of his father's fortune, settled down in one of the foremost Berlin hotels. Banks and money lenders were only too glad to supply him with funds in exchange for I.O.U.'s; indeed, those documents became so numerous as to be actually current as money in certain strata of Berlin society.

The young man went into business and set up various concerns, often with a view to competing with his father, but bad luck attended all his ventures, and his debts mounted into many millions.

Now it is all over. August Thyssen, Sr., is 72, and friends have worked hard during the last two years to bring about a reconciliation. At the week-end father and son met for the first time in ten years, and family relations were declared resumed and everything forgotten and forgiven. August Thyssen, Sr., will pay all his son's debts—a task which, on account of the vast fortune which he built up during the war, will not be difficult.

The coal king comes next to Hugo Stinnes in the list of Germany's richest men. Before the war he had a fortune of many millions of marks. In one week he once made 15,000,000 marks by means of a lucky coal speculation, but just before the war speculation had nearly brought him to bankruptcy. Under war conditions, however, he blossomed into a cannon king on a Krupp-like scale, and since the end of the struggle he has been engaged in various profitable enterprises. His fortune is now estimated at 6,000,000,000 marks, a fifth of which, it is said, will be swallowed up in paying his son's debts.

REPARATION DELAY ALARMING FRANCE

Fear That the Dollar Will Go to 20 Francs and the Pound to 70.

SAPPING OF FRENCH CREDIT

35,000,000,000 Francs Already Expended by France on Reparations, None Out of Revenue.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—"Unless a satisfactory solution of the reparations problem can be found the dollar may easily go to 20 francs, and the pound sterling to more than 70 before Christmas," was the opinion expressed today by one of the leading exchange experts in Paris.

During the last three months the franc has been steadily sagging away from a peak it reached in the Summer as a result of the Finance Minister's campaign of optimism. Today the dollar closed at a mean price of 15 francs 60 centimes, and the pound sterling at 54.29. THE NEW YORK TIMES was informed that 15.75 and 55.00 were respectively asked for large amounts.

Obviously the burden of reparations is sapping France's credit. Since the armistice she has had to pay for the damage done by Germany just as if the war had ended with "peace without victory," or worse. It was recently stated at a meeting of the Finance Committee of the Chamber that the total sum thus exchanged was 35,000,000,000 francs, none of which was met from revenue, but found by loans and other methods of inflation.

At the same time another reason is given for the present fall of French exchange. It is the general tightness of money throughout the world, especially in the United States, which has brought about the general calling in of loans to European clients. This would explain the fall of sterling from around $4 to below $3.50 which has paralleled the more rapid fall of francs from 11 francs to 15.60 per dollar. With call money at its present price in New York it does not look as if there would be much relief in this respect for France in the near future. The effect is simply to enhance the burden of reparations and make a solution of the reparations problem more urgent.

DENIAL THAT PERSHING LEASED ROSLYN HOUSE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The report that General John J. Pershing had leased the house of Mrs. John Demarest at Roslyn, L. I., and would spend several months there, appears to have grown out of the fact that General Pershing's brother, James Pershing, who lives in the vicinity, had taken a lease of a residence in that place.

General Pershing, it was explained today, had no intention of going to Roslyn to reside, but would probably spend the Christmas season with his brother, whose home at Roslyn would be the scene of a Pershing family reunion at that time. General Pershing, with some members of his staff, lives in a suburban residence near Chevy Chase, Md., a few miles from Washington, which he leased from Mrs. Henry Corbin, the widow of Brig. Gen. Corbin of the army.

The report that General Pershing had leased a Long Island home was coupled with the rumor that he was in ill health. This was denied today, and all that is known of General Pershing's physical condition sustains the denial.

The statement from Washington that General Pershing did not contemplate renting the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Demarest at Roslyn, L. I., as a Winter home was not borne out by inquiry at the Demarest cottage yesterday. No light, however, was obtainable on the report that the leader of the A. E. F. was soon to be married and had acquired the Roslyn home for his bride.

It was stated at the Demarest home that General Pershing had taken a two months' lease of the cottage, and that he was expected to take possession on Nov. 1. The Roslyn place was formerly the residence of Rear Admiral W. H. Emory, U. S. N., retired. It adjoins the beautiful home of the late Admiral Aaron Ward, U. S. N., and is ideally located. The estate comprises about nine acres.

Some time ago it was semi-officially announced in Washington that General Pershing would undertake a tour of South American countries. It was not known locally whether these plans had been altered.

D'ANNUNZIO COUP FEARED IN TRIESTE

GENERAL TALKS TO OFFICERS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, Oct. 26.—D'Annunzio's rumored dash for the seizure of Trieste caused that city and port to be placed last night under military occupation. Strong guards were set over the Government buildings and the Lloyd shipping offices. The streets were patrolled by armored cars and the harbor defences held in instant readiness. All land communications with Fiume are blocked by large bodies of troops.

General Cavoglia, hero of the Vittoria Veneto battle and commander in chief of the garrison, summoned all his officers to Oberdan Barracks, wires the Corriere della Sera correspondent, and lectured them on the paramount duty of unswerving loyalty and obedience to the State in the crisis.

"Those who meditate a coup d'état," said the General, "are doubtless actuated by intensely patriotic motives, but they must subordinate personal ambitions and particularist views to the sovereign interest of the nation at large. A reactionary coup can only have the effect of ruining Italy, because it would cause the withdrawal of whatever foreign credit she possesses and by stopping essential supplies of raw material would necessarily drive 20,000,000 Italians from their motherland or leave them to perish of hunger. In this conviction I am determined to oppose my whole strength to the last drop of my blood to any kind of matricidal act against us. Our army's mission is not yet finished. Still again it will be the country's salvation." I may blunder, but I shall never go wrong on the score of personal considerations."

D'Annunzio has just denied having fomented a military plot, but adds in his communiqué:

"Let the quidnuncs know that D'Annunzio is a man of daring, not a dastardly dealer in plots and that when the ripe moment comes he will act in despite of all gossipmongers and all spies, who will only learn the fact afterward."

PLANS £12,000,000 LOAN TO AID AUSTRIA

Vienna Reparation Commission Also Contemplates Developing Austrian Water Power.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Oct. 26.—Considerable excitement was caused today in Vienna by the publication of plans said to have been drawn up by the Austrian section of the Entente Reparation Commission for the economic restoration of Austria.

According to these plans, as reported, Austria is to receive, pending final settlement, an international loan amounting to £12,000,000, while a new bank of issue, based on private capital, is to be established. The early development of Austria's rich resources in water power is also recommended, while certain expedients for the immediate relief of the food situation are mentioned.

From inquiry in trustworthy quarters today I learn that this publication is premature, but that it is on the whole in accord with what the Austrian section of the Reparation Commission will ultimately recommend. The bank of issue must of course be grounded in the terms of the Peace Treaty, while the development of water power resources must necessarily be envisaged so as to free Austrian industry from the nightmare of coal scarcity.

The cost of developing water power to the extent of some 800,000 horse power is estimated at about £30,000,000 and would seem to offer a rich reward to some enterprising capitalists.

Meanwhile the Reparation Commission in Vienna is busy with the final draft of its recommendations to the Reparation Commission in Paris.

The Austrian section is working on the basis of the plan prepared by Sir William Goode, its chief, who is looked upon in Austria as its guardian angel. It is expected that the final recommendations will soon be agreed upon and that the Austrian section will leave Vienna to present its report in Paris on Nov. 4.

U. S. COURT HEARS RENT EJECTION CASE

RIGHTS INVADED IS CLAIM

Occupant of Apartment Holds Legislation Was Necessary to Meet Emergency.

Federal Judges Mack, Manton and Hand heard argument yesterday in the first attack on the constitutionality of the new rent laws in the Federal courts.

The suit brought into court a brilliant array of lawyers, including Louis Marshall, representing various real estate interests; former Supreme Court Justice George L. Ingraham for the Real Estate Board; William D. Guthrie and Julius Henry Cohen for the Lockwood Joint Legislative Committee on Housing, Samuel Berger for the State Attorney General and John Caldwell Myers for District Attorney Swann.

The case was that of the Marcus Brown Construction Company against Arnold Pollock, a tenant in an apartment house at 215 West Ninety-first Street. The landlord maintains that the tenant is a trespasser. The company is suing to have the new laws declared unconstitutional and to oust Pollock whose lease expired on Sept. 30 and also to restrain Mr. Swann from prosecuting for failure to furnish hot water and elevator service to Pollock.

The landlord maintains that the new laws are confiscatory, that they impair the right of contract and compel involuntary service. Edward Fillmore and David Podell appeared for the tenant.

Says Legislature Exceeded Power.

J. A. Seidman, for the plaintiff, said the new laws were without the bounds of legislative power because they deprived a class of citizens of the right to use and enjoy property without due process of law. He maintained that the laws were passed because of an emergency said to exist, but asserted that prior to the war there was an overproduction of houses.

Mr. Podell defended the constitutionality of the laws, and in proof of his assertion that an emergency existed gave the following table of evictions in the Municipal Courts:

Manhattan	37,298	40,852
Brooklyn	39,621	25,863
Queens	3,699	3,303
Richmond	355	327

Mr. Podell contended the injunction suit was not the rightful remedy to be sought by the plaintiffs. He said the April rent laws on which the more recent ones are based had not been attacked anywhere in the argument of opposing counsel and declared that even though the court declared the new laws unconstitutional it would have to direct the plaintiff to go elsewhere for his remedy.

He took the position that it was not so much a matter of rental, for, however exorbitant it was, Pollock would have been compelled to pay it, but that he could find no place suitable for his requirements after making diligent search. He could get no assurance of possession on Oct. 1, the lawyer argued, and was therefore compelled to seek the protection of the new laws.

Laws Necessary to Public.

"These laws may be said to be extraordinary," he continued, "but the emergency which brings them forth and makes them necessary for the protection of the public is even more extraordinary, and the Legislature of the State of New York would have been grossly negligent in its duty to the public had it not adopted radical means and measures to curb what was threatening to undermine the basis of our national existence, the destruction of the home.

"We maintain that the existence of the emergency, the menace to public health, the danger to the public welfare in a thousand and one different ways, by reason of the housing shortage, are all findings of fact, as recited by the Legislature in its enactments and are to be accepted as true in a determination of this application, unless and until the contrary appears by the most convincing evidence."

Mr. Podell read figures showing the small number of houses built since the war and declared that the hardships caused by the lack of building had been universally acknowledged, even by landlords. To protect the public the State Legislature under the police powers had ample right to pass the laws, he said. The plaintiff was not being deprived of his property but its use was being limited, the lawyer contended.

Says Laws Restrain Freedom.

"Whether these laws are construed to be retroactive or prospective makes no difference," said Mr. Seidman on behalf of the realty company. "So long as this legislation restrains the freedom of the citizen to make a valid and enforceable contract respecting property, which is not a public utility nor a private monopoly, it comes within the inhibition of the fifth and fourteenth amendments of the Constitution of the United States."

Landowners, he said, were unable to meet the cost and expense of maintenance and operation of buildings and the payment of taxes and interest on mortgages, he said.

"By depriving the landlord of the means of enforcement of leases calling for the surrender of the property upon the expiration of the lease, the Legislature has in effect decreed that leases as such no longer exist in the State of New York," he maintained.

Mr. Cohen upheld the constitutionality of the new laws. Briefs may be filed today by Messrs. Marshall, Guthrie and Ingraham.

HYLAN EXTENDS GRAFT HUNT.

The discovery that there are rings in industries for collusive bids on contracts will not only bring every city contract for at least a year under scrutiny, but may result in a series of actions in the courts. Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield said yesterday that where there was evidence to justify action the holders of contracts would be haled to court, even though the work had been done.

As a further safeguard against graft rings Mayor Hylan sent a letter yesterday to Commissioner Hirshfield and Corporation Counsel John P. O'Brien, instructing them to confer on the method of changing the present form of contract.

A passport was issued to Mosley of Matagorda, Texas, on Oct. 7, but there is no record of a passport having been issued to Salter.

COURIER TO LENIN SEIZED IN LONDON

Letter from Sylvia Pankhurst Telling of Revolutionary Plans and Hopes.

HER APPEAL FOR FUNDS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—An unknown man, charged today at Bow Street with the technical offense of failing to register as an alien, was declared by the Crown Prosecutor to be evidently a courier between revolutionaries in this country and the Russian Soviet authorities. He was arrested just after leaving the house of Lestrange Malone, the avowed pro-Bolshevist M. P., and letters from Sylvia Pankhurst to Lenin and Zinovieff were found upon him.

The police confessed they could make nothing of their prisoner. The name he signed to a receipt for money given him by the police was Andersen, but he refused to state his name or his nationality. "All he would talk about," said one witness "was politics," and the prosecution could only hazard a guess that the man was either a Scandinavian or a Finn.

When he was arrested a woman was with him, but she was equally uncommunicative. The male prisoner had made a quick sign to her as the officers questioned her, putting his hand to his mouth, and she had obeyed him absolutely. She has since been released.

The prisoner had with him an attaché's case, and three sealed envelopes, with military works addressed to a Stockholm publisher. In the case was an envelope containing a letter from Sylvia Pankhurst to Lenin and Zinovieff. One of the letters was to "Dear Comrade Lenin." Another in cipher not yet decoded was to the "Small Bureau of the Third International, Moscow." There were also memoranda dealing apparently with the training of the Red army in Russia, and proofs of a pamphlet by Malone, "The Humbug of Parliament."

Sylvia Pankhurst's letter to Lenin began:

"The situation here is moving in a revolutionary direction more swiftly. Of course we are far away yet. The prices of necessaries are rising, though the cost of living is not supposed to have risen this month. Unemployment is now acute and the unemployed are restive. One of Lansbury's meetings was broken up by members of our party because he advised peaceful methods and the crowds supported the young dockers, seamen and others of my party who opposed him. The unemployed in various towns are to march to factories, enter them, make speeches, and speak of seizing them. Ex-soldiers are to arm and drill.

"Don't exaggerate these things; they are not formidable yet.

Sylvia then bewailed the divisions and lack of courage among the British Communist parties and speaking of her recent arrest said:

"I expect six months' imprisonment. I considered a hunger strike. I am afraid that weapon is destroyed now, since the Government is letting the Irish hunger strikers die."

Then she detailed the "most terrible struggle" she has had since her return from Moscow in getting out her newspaper Dreadnought. Her branch lacks money. She can't pay for type metal and machinery and the brokers were in twice in one week. She concluded: "The Third Internationale in Moscow heard my plea when I was there and promised relief. It does not come. This week South Wales mining comrades sent for 60,000 extra copies of the Dreadnought. I borrowed paper from the Herald. At present I have no paper for next week. It is not pleasant to go to prison. So still things advance.

"With Communist greetings,

"SYLVIA PANKHURST."

The prisoner was remanded.

SELLING U-BOAT SECRETS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—The German Government a few days ago ordered the arrest, which has been effected, of a number of ex-naval officers, against whom charges of high treason will be brought.

Not long ago the naval authorities learned that an ex-naval Lieutenant named von Bercken was engaged in suspicious transactions with foreigners. He was shadowed, and it was found that he had a number of confederates, the object of the gang being to sell German submarine secrets to foreign powers. Somehow or other von Bercken and his comrades became possessed of numerous secret documents regarding U-boats and U-boat warfare, and it was these they were negotiating to dispose of at a high figure.

DENIALS BY H. G. WELLS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—In reference to The Morning Post's Riga dispatch, cabled to THE NEW YORK TIMES on Oct. 26, H. G. Wells has sent the following letter to The Morning Post:

"I see you published the form of a third-hand interview with me, in which I am made to say that conditions in Russia are 'horrible beyond description.' Your eavesdropper in Raval has misled you. I said nothing of the sort. There are want and famine in Russia, but order and much courage in spite of six years of warfare.

"The yarn about my having some project for the rescue of intellectual workers is quite childish. Intellectual workers have been formed for some time into a special rationing organization with the help of the Bolshevist Government. Much of their want and misery is due to the blockade and our persistent support of such brigand bands as those of Denikin and Wrangel.

"You will, I know, oblige me by giving these contradictions equal prominence with the fabrication of your Riga correspondent."

PRINCE IS NON-COMMITTAL

HE IS ACCEPTABLE TO PARIS

Foreign Office Intimates That It Is in Agreement with Venizelos's Decision.

ATHENS, Oct. 26 (Associated Press).—The Cabinet assembled immediately after the death of the King last evening and drew up a message to the people expressing the grief felt at the monarch's death, adding:

"In conformity with the constitutional order of succession, the younger brother of King Alexander, Prince Paul, is called to succeed him. However, in view of his absence and the relations existing between the nation and the House of ex-King Constantine, the Government has decided, in conformity with Article 50 of the Constitution, to convoke the Chamber just adjourned to proceed to the election of a Regent until the arrival of the new King.

"Meanwhile, and until the oath is administered to the Regent in compliance with the same article of the Constitution, the royal and Constitutional powers will be exercised by the Council of Ministers."

The question of succession to the throne in place of King Alexander will be examined "in the light of the elections of Nov. 1," to use an expression of Premier Venizelos. Then the new Chamber of Deputies will be called on to decide the question. It seems certain, however, that whoever is chosen from the present dynasty to succeed Alexander will have to give formal guarantees that all kinds of intrigues shall cease.

The Cabinet has decided that King Alexander's body shall lie in state Wednesday. The funeral will take place Friday afternoon. The Chamber of Deputies will be convened Thursday.

Coundouriotis May Be Regent.

Admiral P. Coundouriotis, former Minister of Marine, is believed to be the Government official most favored for the appointment as Regent of Greece to hold office until the successor of King Alexander ascends the throne. He was formerly a member of the Saloniki Government and is known to be friendly to the Entente.

It is said that the offer of the throne to Prince Paul will be made on condition that ex-King Constantine on condi- abdicate and Prince George, elder brother of Prince Paul, renounce his rights.

It is probable that King Constantine will at first refuse to meet these conditions, but it is understood that Premier Venizelos will produce arguments of some importance. Constantine's financial status is well known, and it is the understanding that the Premier will agree to restore the former King's suppressed pension, if the above terms are accepted.

Only in the event of Constantine's persistent refusal would there be a question of the establishment of a republic, but it is known that Premier Venizelos is of the opinion that Greece is not yet ripe for that form of government.

Elections at which will be chosen members of the new National Assembly have been postponed one week, it is announced here. They were to have been held on Nov. 8.

France Favors Naming Paul.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—At the French Foreign Office it was said today that the French Government was quite in agreement with the policy of Premier Venizelos in offering the Greek throne to Prince Paul. He is regarded here as the logical as well as the dynastic successor to the late King Alexander, owing to the elimination of ex-King Constantine and Prince George, who is also Duke of Sparta, from the succession.

Ex-King Constantine in Tears.

LUCERNE, Oct. 26.—Ex-King Constantine of Greece burst into tears today on learning of the death of his second son, King Alexander of Greece, news of which was received last night, although it was withheld from the deposed monarch until this morning. The former King has not seen his son in several years.

Many telegrams and letters of condolence have been received at the Hotel National where the ex-King and his family are staying.

The question of the Greek dynasty has occupied the attention of Constantine since his son's illness became desperate, and the former ruler has conferred frequently with the former Greek Foreign Minister, Georgios Streit, who is understood to have been directing the

AGREE TO HELP STOP RISE IN SOFT COAL

BAN ON UNWISE PRACTICES

Pledge Refusing to Ask or Receive Unreasonably High Prices Unanimously Adopted.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 26.—At an open meeting here today of approximately 1,000 delegates, representing 7,000 soft coal operators and three-fourths of the total production of the country, a resolution was unanimously adopted pledging their support to Attorney General Palmer for the elimination of unreasonably high prices and unwise practices where they existed.

"I am informed that you have called a meeting of operators of bituminous coal mines throughout the country at Cleveland for the purpose of complying with my recent suggestion that the operators should reduce prevailing unreasonably high prices for bituminous coal and thus lessen the number of prosecutions to be instituted by the Department of Justice for violations of the Lever act in charging unreasonably high prices.

"If the operators limit themselves at that meeting to discussing prices with the sole purpose of preventing unreasonably high prices and without any attempt, directly or indirectly, to fix prices, I would consider such action as an effort to comply with the Lever law. It would be particularly helpful to this department if, in pursuance of the general purpose to reduce prices, the operators could arrange for reports to me, voluntarily made to our District Attorneys, in cases where any operators continue to charge unjust and unreasonable prices. You will understand, of course, that I assume there will be no effort directly or indirectly to hold prices up or to make them uniform for any body of producing or consuming regions either by the operators at the Cleveland meeting or by any of their committees or representatives."

Today's meeting was called by Colonel D. B. Wentz, President of the National Coal Association, to consider a similar telegram sent by the Attorney General to the association last week. A meeting of the association members to consider the general coal situation had been called previous to the receipt of the message, but Colonel Wentz later asked operators not members of the association to attend the meeting.

Members of the National Coal Association held a meeting this morning, considered the Attorney General's request and the soft coal situation in general and voted to maintain their fixed policy against taking any action touching on coal prices, because of restrictions in their charter. They voted to refer the message from the Attorney General to a second meeting, comprising the operators from all parts of the country, both in and out of the association.

This general, open meeting was called to order immediately on adjournment of the association meeting and, after a short adjournment to give a committee of nine time to prepare a suitable resolution, the following was unanimously adopted, a copy being wired to the Attorney General:

"Whereas, An abnormal condition for some time past has existed in the bituminous coal industry of this country due to inadequate transportation facilities, labor difficulties and shortage, and other causes beyond the control of the bituminous coal operators of the country; and

"Whereas, The Attorney General has requested the bituminous coal operators of the country to co-operate with the Department of Justice in bringing about the elimination of unreasonably high prices for coal where such exist; and

"Whereas, It is the sense of the bituminous coal operators of the country that unreasonably high prices and unwise practices where such exist in the industry be eliminated;

"Therefore, be it Resolved, That the bituminous coal operators of the country refuse to ask or receive unreasonably high prices for bituminous coal, and, further, that all unwise practices in the industry, where any such exist, be condemned and eliminated;

"Be it further Resolved, That it be recommended to each bituminous coal district in the United States that it immediately establish a committee in its district, and that such committee so established will use every effort to cooperate fully with the Department of Justice and the Federal District Attorney in such districts to bring about an elimination of unreasonably high prices and unwise practices, where such exist, in order that the purpose and the object sought by the Attorney General throughout the whole country may be accomplished."

PRESENT NEW WAGE DEMANDS

Anthracite Miners Meet Operators as Requested by President Wilson.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—Wage increases equal to the 27 per cent. recently granted the bituminous miners, with a minimum daily rate of $6 and a seven-hour day in the hard coal region, were demanded by representatives of the anthracite mine workers here today at a conference with the coal operators.

Under the Anthracite Commission's award the hard coal men received an average increase of 17 per cent., with a minimum day rate of $4.20.

In again asking the reopening of the award at today's meeting, which was called at the request of President Wilson, officials of the miners presented eight demands, which, they explained, would eliminate alleged inequalities in the present agreement.

The operators, without discussion, took the subject under consideration and will present their answer to the miners at another meeting to be held here on Nov. 5.

Contract rates to be increased an additional 13 per cent., to a total of 31 per cent.

All classes of labor receiving rates in excess of the minimum rate in effect previous to the agreement of Sept. 3, 1920, to receive the same increase as applied on the minimum rate.

Hourly rates of those receiving less than the old minimum of $1,545 to be increased to the same percentage or flat amount as that received by other employes.

Rates to be paid consideration miners to be increased an additional 14 per cent. so that they may receive an average increase of 31 per cent.

Contract miners, laborers and consideration miners' laborers to receive the same increase per day as given to inside day men.

Monthly men and men on a shift basis to receive the same increase as provided for those receiving the minimum rate.

Men working in excess of the eight-hour day to have their work day readjusted to the eight-hour basis.

Tokens for Hallowe'en.

There is a surprising amount of crepe paper used in this country. It goes into all kinds of shops and is used for many purposes, chiefly for festive occasions, the big holidays, various kinds of picnics, church fairs, &c. Paper shortage affected it seriously, but reports at the present are that conditions are greatly improved with a promise of return to the nearly normal shortly. Improvement in this, as well as the sentiment for festivities which has revived since the war, is shown in the biggest demand for crepe paper ornaments for Hallowe'en that there has been for any festival or holiday since the war. Apparently arrangements are being made for a gay celebration all over the country. Even big manufacturing plants are arranging Hallowe'en festivals. There is an unusual variety in the decorations that have been made for the occasion. There are sunflowers of papers, natural size, with black cats' heads in the centre, a wide variety of friezes with witches and cats, black cat lanterns with cats and witches, and a grotesque collection of orange caps on which the two favorite Hallowe'en emblems flourish.

APPLE WEEK IN FAVOR.

Civic and Charitable Organizations Throughout Country Giving Aid.

Thousands of civic and charitable organizations throughout the country and hundreds of school teachers in this and other States have taken hold of the idea of a "National Apple Week" from Oct. 30 to Nov. 6, and Herschel H. Jones, Director of the New York office of the State Division of Foods and Markets, said yesterday that there was every indication the event in New York State would be a big success. Joseph Sicker, Chairman of the committee of the International Apple Shippers' Association, said he was receiving letters from all parts of the country telling of plans that are being made in different cities for the observance of the week.

"This committee," said Mr. Sicker, "is in a position to furnish Northwestern box apples to any consumer who requires them. At the present time, Jonathan apples are in season, and the best of them can be secured at $3.50 a box, which is the wholesale price, consumers paying the express charges.

"On Wednesday, Nov. 3, this committee will distribute free of charge to the public school children of the City of New York, and free of charge to any worthy institution, a supply of apples.

"All correspondence in connection with this should be addressed to the International Apple Shippers' Association, 204 Franklin Street, New York, N. Y."

Director Jones yesterday sent to Mayor Hylan a letter in which he said:

"On behalf of the State Department of Farms and Markets, which is cooperating with the International Apple Shippers' Association in conducting this Apple Week campaign, I write to urge that during that week, and if possible for a week afterward, the peddlers selling apples be given as much freedom on the streets as possible, and that the usual police restrictions regarding their movements be removed temporarily. I am sure that if you find it possible to arrange for this your action will prove of great service in getting the apples that would otherwise be wasted to the people of the city."

Mr. Jones yesterday sent out an appeal for funds to help pay for apples which are to be distributed free to children in the congested districts. Contributions, Mr. Jones said, should be sent to Joseph Sicker, 204 Franklin Street. In the same announcement also appeared the following:

"During the week of Oct. 30 to Nov. 6 all clubs and public eating houses are urged to feature apples on their menus.

"Why not conduct an apple sale during Apple Week? The Division of Foods and Markets will assist any organization in purchasing apples of standard quality at lowest wholesale prices. We would prefer not to bother with purchases of less than ten barrels. A representative of the organization ready to sell apples at cost should come to this office (corner of Chambers Street and West Broadway) between 10:30 A. M. and 11:30 A. M. any day except Friday, preferably before Nov. 2, with cash or check book."

GEN. BARNETT WILL TESTIFY

He Will Explain Charges of Haiti Killings at Naval Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Brig. Gen. Barnett, former Commandant of the Marine Corps, will appear tomorrow before the naval court of inquiry investigating the American occupation of Haiti to give evidence as to his charge of "indiscriminate killings" of natives in Haiti which brought about the investigation.

The court has concluded examination of departmental records, and will begin tomorrow examination of such witnesses as are available in the United States before convening the investigation to Haiti.

The court has not determined how many witnesses will be heard here.

CANNOT CUT STATE COSTS, SAYS SMITH

Best That Can Be Done Is to Keep Expenditures at Present Level, He Asserts.

DEFENDS COMMUTATIONS

Praises Work of Prison Survey Committee and Tells of Reforms He Favors.

There is little prospect of reducing the cost of government in New York State, said Governor Smith in a talk to the Prison Survey Committee yesterday. In answer to those who clamored for economy Governor Smith said

"Those who say that appropriations should be lessened are asking the impossible. I do not believe it is possible. Why should we think that the State's activities will slacken? The best we can do is through reorganization and reform to keep expenditures at their present level, and it is useless to pretend that they can be lowered."

The Governor defended his use of the power to commute prison sentences. He said he had tried to give every application his individual attention, and told the prison committee that of 200 men he had paroled during his term as Governor only two had "come back to the State." His statement was applauded.

The survey committee, appointed by the Governor to investigate prison conditions and suggest reforms, entertained him at luncheon in the Biltmore. The Governor then thanked the committee and its chairman, Adolph Lewisohn, for their work.

"I am heartily in favor of the various changes put forth in your report," he said, "and if re-elected I shall use every effort to put it over in its entirety. Whatever can be done without awaiting legislative action I will attend to through executive channels, and I will urge legislation to cover the rest."

Governor Smith said he was especially anxious to see more modern machinery installed in prisons, so that the inmates through their labor might fit themselves for jobs after their discharge. He spoke of the folly of placing an order for a million automobile license plates with a Middle Western firm, which announced it had 1,000 lot of old spinning wheels, and some shoe machinery that must have been installed back in 1820." He indorsed the classification system for criminals instituted at Sing Sing, and added that much more should be done for the feeble-minded who come to prisons.

WILL SELL FRENCH SHIPS.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—The Cabinet today decided to sell the merchant fleet operated by the various Ministries. The fleet totals about 800,000 tons.

Utah Linotype Operator Sets Record

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 26.—Alder Hewitt, linotype operator on The Tribune, established on Sunday night what is said to be the world's record for linotype composition, setting 82,500 ems in six hours and 35 minutes, an average of 12,540 ems an hour. Hewitt's setting was entirely in nonpareil. The setting was in straight-away composition and not in competition.

SHIP BOARD FINANCES DON'T WORRY BENSON

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Repeated charges that the United States Shipping Board is in financial straits were not taken seriously this afternoon by Admiral W. S. Benson, Chairman of the board.

"I really do not know the exact situation as we are still working up our accounts, but I do not believe we are in a 'hole,'" he said.

For some time, the board's experts have been compiling figures, which will be presented to the public as soon as possible. The process, however, appears to be tedious and attended by many delays. No immediate prospect of the issuance of the report is offered.

Admiral Benson said that the board was "carrying a tremendous burden for which we get no return," inasmuch as the building program involves many ships which were not off the ways.

The board has claims for $200,000,000 against the War Department, of which $40,000,000 has been paid. The rest of the sum involved has not been adjusted. About $140,000,000 is called for in the construction of twenty-six passenger vessels, of which, so far, only one is in service. This is the Panhandle State, now allocated to the United States Mail Steamship Company. No money is coming in to the board for this great financial outlay. Nine tankers are also on the program.

"Next month there will be a tremendous drop in the construction expenditure as compared with $32,000,000 last month," said Admiral Benson. "I think our operators are making expenses."

It was learned that several inquiries have been made lately concerning the Leviathan.

"With the tremendous influx of immigrants, I believe she could be made into a paying investment if she were converted into second and third class accommodations for large number of persons," said Admiral Benson. "I think she would very soon pay for herself and could be reconditioned for such a service at a comparatively small outlay. I am informed she is in excellent condition."

ASKS $2,398,316 DAMAGES.

Four steamship companies controlled by Charles W. Morse and his associates sued the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation in the Supreme Court yesterday for $2,578,316, on the ground that the Shipping Board caused damage of the amount sued for by refusing to keep an agreement. The plaintiffs are the St. Paul, Minneapolis, Huron and Binghamton steamship companies, owning the freight vessels of those names. The complaint in each case is identical except that the damage sued for is $661,000 by the Huron, $621,000 by the Minneapolis, $573,010 by the St. Paul, and $557,526 by the Binghamton Steamship Company.

It is alleged that in January, 1919, the United States Shipping Board, in order to facilitate the completion of twelve steel freight vessels at the plant of the Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation, agreed to lend the corporation $750,000 and deliver to each of the plaintiff corporations a consent to the transfer of the vessel built by the company from American to Canadian registry, and for each vessel a mortgage for $750,000 was to be given in part payment by a purchaser already obtained by the plaintiff, and this mortgage was to be taken by the defendant as part of the collateral for the loan.

The plaintiffs say that after an offer from G. A. Moulton and his associates had been received for the vessels, the defendant refused to permit transfer of registry to the Canadian flag, and the sale could not be made.

TO CUT DFF MILK SUPPLY.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 26.—Dairymen of Onondaga County, in conjunction with others throughout the State, aim to cut off New York City's supply of milk by their determination not to sell any of their product there at a cost less than $3.65 a hundred pounds. Dealers have refused to pay that price, and the producers are firm in their determination to stand by the figures set by the Dairymen's League.

Large numbers of milkmen in Onondaga County are affected by the decision, for most of the milk from the farms in the vicinity of Lamsons, Baldwinsville, Oran, Tully and Apulia now goes to New York. This is nearly all controlled by the Dairymen's League. Before the formation of the league the dealers fixed the price, and the farmers had to abide by the decision made in New York, but now the league fixes the price. If the price demanded is not granted, milkmen say the product will be turned to cheese and butter.

The Borden's Farm Products Company, league officials announced, had submitted a list of thirty-two plants owned by them which would be closed on Nov. 1 if the $3.65 price was maintained. It was understood that several other concerns also had prepared lists of plants to close, but it was stated that the Sheffield Company announced they would accept it and keep all their plants open.

PRINTED FABRICS EXHIBITED

The American Federation of Arts announced yesterday that it had placed on exhibit an extensive collection of samples of modern American printed fabrics and that the exhibition would continue at the Textile School, 124 West Thirtieth Street, until next Monday. The samples include cretonnes, block prints, curtains, laces, floor coverings, wall and furniture coverings.

William Laurel Harris will lecture tonight on "The Aim and Value of Decorative Fabrics or Textiles."

Discount Campaign Fails.

As a result of an agreement reached between leading manufacturers and jobbing organizations in the women's garment trade, the campaign which had been set on foot by certain retailers to obtain discounts more satisfactory to them than those now in force appears to have failed. The terms that have been in effect for about three years provide for discounts of 2-10 or 8-10, depending on whether or not the discount was included in the selling price. Many retailers maintain that, under existing conditions, they are handicapped by the lack of, to them, a better arrangement. Sellers are not in sympathy with that condition, however, and an agreement to stick to the terms fixed in 1917 has been made by the Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' Protective Association, the Merchants' Ladies Garment Association and the Dress and Waist Manufacturers' Association. It is understood that the members of these bodies are being shown the need of sticking closely to the present stipulations.

Birthday Cake Board.

Difficulty in obtaining wood stock has kept the department of wooden goods in department stores and household furnishing establishments in a depleted condition. So small, necessary and cheaply made an article as the clothespin is sometimes out entirely. There is, however, a new article added to the wooden ware—a birthday cake board. This is a plain round board of solid wood with a row of holes on one side around the edge for candles. It solves the problem of using these without detriment to the cake. However, it provides for only twenty-one. The board retails for something over $1.

Only Printcloths Were Sold.

Sales of importance in the local gray goods market yesterday, which were again limited in number, were confined to printcloths for spot delivery. Among the business put through on these goods were sales of 39-inch 80 squares at 14 cents, 38½-inch 64-60s at 10 cents and 38½-inch 60-48s at 8½ cents.

No Overstocking of These.

Glassware, porcelains, &c., are among the goods with which the dealers are not overstocked and which show no sign, it is said, of a decrease in price in the near future. Reasons for this are the cost of transportation of the raw material, the high price of coal, which the firing makes a big feature, and, above all, the slow rehabilitation of firms abroad dealing in these goods; large quantities of which have hitherto been imported.

Evening Gowns of Gauze.

Magnificent imported wraps for evening gowns are all of gauze, with tremendously high, close collars of ostrich or fur. One, with a collar of deep orange ostrich feather strands, of gauze of gold thread, with orange gauze falling over it. Another is of soft, dull, brownish tones, with the deep standing collar of a neutral toned mouffelon, while ribbons of a deep American Beauty shade give a touch of color. The wraps fall to the knee and are draped.

They Have a Real Problem.

One of the hardest problems the overall manufacturers of the country had to face for some time is how to make and sell their merchandise of denims due on orders placed when the market price of the basic grade of those fabrics was 44 cents, while certain sellers are now offering the same cloths to them at a reduction of about 50 per cent. While recognizing the legal sanctity of contracts, the overall men feel that the denim manufacturers should make some kind of readjustment that would prevent the full effect of the drop from falling on them. With the attitude of the commission houses which sell to the overall trade very strongly against cancellations, the solution of the problem will be watched with considerable interest in local dry goods circles.

Did Not Take Suggestion Well.

The appeal made to the Southern cotton ginners by Governor Parker of Louisiana, that they close their plants for a period of thirty days in order to let cotton put up again to a living price, aroused comment in the locality of dry goods trade yesterday which indicated little favor of the proposal. The feeling seemed to be that any benefit so gained by the planters would only be temporary and that, with prices of the finished goods at the low levels reached by the recent downward revision of leading lines, any real rise in the cost of the staple, even if temporary, would have a serious effect. It was contended that higher cotton would produce all over again the uncertainties of which the trade is only now beginning to find its way.

Sale of Millinery Ornaments.

An interesting feature of this year's millinery sales has been that ornaments of home manufacture have had a better sale than the imported. An exception to this is imported ornaments of straw, combined with metal, some with small danglers and more without, and in mixed colors but in excellent taste, which give promise of being very popular. Buyers of ornaments abroad purchase by the case and are not always sure of everything it contains, and it is not impossible to prophesy just what will please the public taste. It is for this reason that women in small towns may be seen wearing expensive French ornaments on their hats that cost them less money than if they had been bought in New York. A small town buyer comes late and takes a stock of fine ornaments that, costing originally $1.50, dropped to $1.25 and then to $1, and finally buys them for half that price.

Seventeenth Store in Group.

Announcement was made here yesterday that the George E. Stifel Company of Wheeling, W. Va., has joined the affiliated Retail Stores, making the seventeenth in the group. The Stifel store, which was founded in 1878, was said to be the largest in West Virginia, and it was further said that steps are to be taken shortly to make it even a greater power in the retail dry goods trade of that State. The management of the business will continue the same as before, with George E. Stifel as President and George Schmidt as Vice President and General Manager. A dinner was tendered the officials and employes of the store last night at the Carroll Club, Wheeling, to welcome the new store into the affiliated group. A number of public officials attended, as did the following committee from the Affiliated Retail Stores: Arthur Freeman, New York representative; Victor Sincere of the Bailey Company, Cleveland; Isaac Seder of Frank & Seder, Pittsburgh, and L. A. Behr, Walter Rosenbaum, Mr. Billings and Mr. Rogers, all of the Rosenbaum Company, Pittsburgh.

THE Denver & Rio Grande system, 2,600 miles long, is covered by three first mortgages. Net earnings in 1919 were over twice the interest charges on these bonds. The Government guarantee was over three times those charges and we estimate that under the new rates the road will earn, net, more than five times the interest charges on its three first mortgages.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Move Uncertainly—Call Money 10 Per Cent.—French Exchange Declines.

The Steel Corporation Directors naturally did no such thing yesterday as had been predicted on Monday by the foolish rumor-mongers. Only the usual dividends were declared, notwithstanding the largest net earnings during the September quarter of any three months' period since 1918. Both July and September showed better results than any other months since the armistice. The interest of the financial community, however, is likely to be directed chiefly to results of the immediate future, which depend on the course of steel prices and the trade reaction.

This statement was not given out until after the closing of the Stock Exchange, and United States Steel shares hardly moved all day. The rest of the market was again irregular, with most of the day's net changes trifling. A 10 per cent. call money rate for the third successive business day and the report of a heavy deficit by the Central Leather Company for the September quarter were the main governing influences.

A sharp decline in exchange on France and Italy carried rates to the lowest level in a fortnight, while sterling, after early irregularity, closed uncertain. With the French Government's sales against the Anglo-French loan payment apparently out of the way, this movement of Continental exchange is undoubtedly disappointing. Two facts in the situation of the moment must, however, be kept in mind. This is the time of year in which, even under normal economic conditions, New York exchange habitually moves against Europe because of our large agricultural exports. It has equally been true, even in normal times, that tight money in New York at the end of October always operates to depress exchange on Europe.

How far an actually increasing export trade from this country to Europe may be a cause for the depression in exchange cannot be positively known until the figures of the September exports by destination are published. It appears from a Government bulletin given out yesterday that, as against last month's increase of $32,000,000 in total exports compared with August, shipments of cotton increased $13,200,000 and of meat products $7,300,000, wheat exports decreasing slightly. It will be much more interesting to see whether reduction of our imports from Europe was an essential part of the $158,000,000 shrinkage in September's total imports from the preceding month. In August our imports from Europe were $54,000,000 greater than those of 1919; for the eight first months of the present year they showed an increase of $537,000,000, or 145 per cent.

An advance of more than 10 cents per bushel in the day's wheat market brought the price nearly 25 cents above the month's lowest level. The recovery is not surprising, and there is not the least need to ascribe it to the appeals of Western functionaries for the farmers to "hold wheat for three dollars." When the Chicago Board of Trade was listening last August to stories that the British Food Commission was buying huge quantities of our wheat at the $2.40-per-bushel price then prevalent, people who had some knowledge of the facts were aware that hardly a bushel was being bought in the United States for England; that the English buyers were filling their requirements in Canada and waiting for the two-dollar Chicago price which they were confident would come. When it came, and especially when the Chicago price last week went well below the Canadian market, nothing was more reasonable than to anticipate the shifting of England's orders from Canada to the United States, with the natural result in checking the declining market at Chicago.

OTTAWA, Oct. 26.—Canada's trade with the United States continues to develop on both sides of the account. STEEL EARNINGS UP NEARLY $5,000,000

United States Corporation's Report Shows Expected Increase for Third Quarter.

NO EXTRA DIVIDEND PAID

Forward Bookings of 10,374,804 Tons Sufficient to Last for Seven to Eight Months.

The United States Steel Corporation in its report for the third quarter of this year, issued just after the close of the market yesterday, shows net earnings of $48,051,540, after providing for Federal taxes and interest on the bonds of subsidiary companies. This is an increase of nearly $5,000,000 over the net of $43,155,705 reported for the second quarter, and an increase of nearly $8,000,000 over the earnings for the third quarter of last year.

After providing for all charges there was a balance of $30,528,639 available for dividends in the third quarter. After allowance for the preferred dividend this was the equivalent of $4.76 a share on the common stock. In the previous quarter the amount available for the common was $3.96 a share, and in the third quarter of 1919 the amount for the junior issue was equivalent to $3.43 a share.

The rumor of Monday that the Steel Corporation was preparing to distribute an extra dividend of 10 per cent. in Liberty bonds proved to be a canard of the typical Wall Street sort, designed apparently with no other idea than to scalp a bit on the long side of the market. No extra dividend was declared by the Corporation yesterday. The regular quarterly preferred dividend of 1¾ per cent. was declared, as well as 1¼ per cent. on the common stock. The former is payable Nov. 29 to stock of record Nov. 1, and the latter Dec. 30 to stock of record Dec. 1.

Thus far this year the net earnings of the Steel Corporation have amounted to $123,294,984, and the amount available for dividends is $82,995,067, or the equivalent after preferred dividends of nearly $11 a share on the common stock.

The increase in Steel Corporation earnings for the third quarter was confidently expected and measured up to predictions. Early yesterday there was a report that earnings would be about $50,000,000, and this proved to be within $2,000,000 of the correct figure. The trend of events was indicated in the reports on the third quarter made some days ago by the Lackawanna Steel Company and Republic Iron and Steel. The ratio of increase over the second quarter was, however, not as large as in the case of the other two companies, probably because the Steel Corporation was holding to the stabilization level of prices while the independents were obtaining much higher prices. The increase in earnings by the Steel Corporation over the second quarter amounted to 11.4 per cent. The increase by Republic Iron and Steel was 41.7 per cent., and the increase by Lackawanna was 80.5 per cent.

The comparison of Steel Corporation's third quarter earnings with the second quarter is shown in the following table, as well as the monthly earnings for the first nine months of 1920 and 1919:

	Quarter Ended Sept. 30. 1920.	Quarter Ended June 30. 1920.
Net earnings	$48,051,540	$43,155,705
Dep., R. F. &c.	12,511,802	11,447,901
Income	35,739,737	31,707,804
Int. U. S. S. bonds, &c.	5,210,698	5,333,771
Balance	30,528,639	26,435,033
Dividends preferred	14,304,910	14,304,913
Dividends common	6,353,781	6,353,781
Surplus	17,869,885	15,776,883

Net Earnings by Months.

January	$13,958,809	$15,296,157
February	12,860,019	11,886,087
March	15,704,900	9,380,190
First quarter	$42,069,019	$35,518,384
April	$12,190,448	$11,027,893
May	15,366,518	10,998,559
June	15,750,741	12,371,849
Second quarter	$43,155,705	$34,331,301
July	$16,486,802	$13,507,100
August	15,440,410	14,444,851
September	16,174,322	12,165,251
Third quarter	$48,051,540	$40,177,232

The increase in earnings during the third quarter is largely attributable to the improved transportation situation, the car shortage being less acute. Goods which had piled up at the sources of production were therefore moved out and there was a heavier volume of business done than at any time during the year.

That September earnings increased over those of August indicated that there was no abatement in this liquidation of accumulated goods at the mills.

The corporation reported forward bookings of 10,374,804 tons, as of Sept. 30, an amount sufficient to carry the Company along at something near capacity for seven to eight months.

SLUMP IN LEATHER BRINGS BIG LOSSES

Central Company Reports Deficit of $8,138,755 for Three Months Ended Oct. 30.

HAD SURPLUS LAST YEAR

American Hide Shows a Shortage of $1,392,573 for the September Quarter.

The slump of leather prices in the last six months was reflected in sharp declines of quarterly earnings reported yesterday by two prominent producing companies. The Central Leather Company reported for the three months ended Sept. 30 a loss from operations of $5,897,667 and after general expenses had been met the deficit totaled $7,215,452, compared with an operating profit of $4,420,687 in the same quarter of last year. The complete deficit after adding in outside income and meeting bond interest was $7,556,023 and the payment of $582,732 in preferred stock dividends increased the loss to $8,138,755. A year before the corresponding period brought a surplus of $2,139,184.

The American Hide and Leather Company was operated in the September quarter with a deficit of $1,392,573, compared with a surplus of $1,212,418 a year before. The June quarter brought a deficit of $310,697. Net current assets on Sept. 30 amounted to $10,044,417, a decline of $2,206,822 from the total a year before.

Both corporations evidently wrote down their inventories heavily in the three months, following downward the course of leather prices. The striking contrast of the current year's results, covering nine months, with last year was disclosed in yesterday's report in the fact that a deficit of $12,065,803 has occurred thus far in 1920 in the case of the Central Leather Company in contrast with a surplus of $6,333,461 in the three quarters of 1919 ended with Sept. 30, after providing for interest and dividends.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Standard Oil Issues Gain.

Standard Oil stocks were in good demand yesterday at rising prices, the upturn which started some time ago in Standard of Kentucky, Standard of Indiana and one or two others, having spread to the entire list. The leaders in yesterday's trading were Indiana and Standard of New Jersey, both of which climbed 25 points. There continues to be talk of a stock dividend in connection with Indiana but the rise in the other Standard Oils seems to be more of a sympathetic reflection rather than an advance based on definite news or rumors. While the stock dividend feature is the outstanding one in connection with Indiana, the fact cannot be overlooked that the company is making plans for an expansion which in the long run would be expected to greatly improve earnings. Not long ago there was an exchange of stock between Indiana and Midwest Refining, rumor having it that Indiana had acquired something like 100,000 shares of Midwest. It is believed now that the acquisition was in excess of this amount. At any rate the procedure assured Indiana of a commanding position in the Wyoming field. In connection with this the word has now come that the capacity of the Indiana refining plant at Casper, Wyoming, is to be trebled within the next few months. It is planned to build 125 additional Burton stills, bringing the total up to 185. This increased refining capacity will be installed in time to take care of the expected increase in production from the Salt Creek field.

Another Big Mexican Well.

Another big gusher has made its début in the Mexican oil fields. This most recent well is owned by the Sinclair Oil Corporation and has an estimated flow of 50,000 barrels a day. The company, it is said, has already contracted to sell 25,000 barrels of oil daily from this well to the Mexican subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

Thin Market in Some Stocks.

There was evidence of only a thin market in some of the specialties and less active issues yesterday, transactions showing declines of a point to a point and a half between sales in some instances. Evidence of how small offerings could seriously depress issues was to be had in the case of Central Leather preferred. The stock dropped from 91¼ to 88 on a turnover of only 700 shares and the decline from 88 to 84 was made on 200 shares with a drop of a point on each 100 shares. Chandler Motors slid off from 85½ to 84 on only 200 shares. The evidence all points to a hypersensitive condition in the specialties.

Steel Corporation Earnings.

Earnings of the Steel Corporation for the third quarter of the year, which were announced yesterday, measured up to expectations in the financial district. It was not to be believed that the proportion of increase over second quarter earnings would measure up to the corresponding increases reported by Republic Iron and Steel and Lackawanna. The differences in prices would militate against this. Earnings of $48,051,540 are, however, better than any reported thus far this year and the balance for the common stock, of nearly $5 a share, would certainly assure stockholders that the big producer was carrying on its business on a healthy basis. Third quarter earnings were at the yearly rate of slightly better than 10 per cent. on the junior shares.

British Shipbuilding Also Quiet.

While many American shipyards are obtaining only a small amount of new business for ordinary tonnage, and companies which were working at high speed a year ago and crying for increased production now find themselves with a huge but starving machine on hand, reports from the other side indicate that British shipbuilders are faring about the same. It is asserted in reports from England that there have been a large number of orders cancelled which were placed only a few weeks ago. At the same time it is said that the slowing down of the British yards has been due in part to labor difficulties and the fact that materials and supplies are not being received as under normal conditions.

New England Railroad Rumors.

No formal statement has been made so far regarding the plan which the Interstate Commerce Commission will adopt with regard to a consolidation of New England railroad systems. The Transportation act calls for a regrouping of the railroads, and it is the opinion of a majority of railroad men that the handling of the New England situation will prove the most difficult in the entire country. Rumors have been many and frequent regarding New England consolidations, the Pennsylvania—New Haven one, which has cropped up at intervals being the most frequent, while it has been suggested more than once that there could be a merger of New York Central and northern New England roads. Now it is suggested that the New England roads be merged into one system and that the important "trunk line" companies lease the new system and arrange to share its profits and its losses. The lessees suggested are the lines which enter New York.

Money Tighter.

The call money market continues to rule at figures which may again occasion official displeasure. Yesterday the renewal rate, which had been 8 per cent. the day before, was moved up to 9 per cent. and in the afternoon the 10 per cent. high of the preceding day was again realized. At the Reserve Bank it was announced that Government withdrawals tomorrow will be approximately $16,000,000, which will make about $45,000,000 for the week and $165,000,000 for the last three weeks. This will reduce the Government's local balance to about $56,000,000, whereas a month ago it was $145,000,000. Here is one explanation for the recent tightness in call money. Even if it is assumed that all of the money withdrawn by the Government comes directly back to the banks, in the form of private deposits, the lendable funds of the banks would be something like $21,450,000, for Government deposits, being secured by collateral, require no reserve, while private deposits, which are not secured by collateral, have to be protected by 13 per cent. reserve. As a matter of fact, however, not all of this withdrawn Government money comes back to local banks, so that the loss is even greater.

Reserve Bank Gold.

The Saxonia brought in about $9,000,000 and the Celtic, due to arrive on Friday, will bring another $6,500,000 of the gold the Federal Reserve banks have been carrying with the Bank of England. Thus far, counting the metal on board the Celtic, about $85,000,000 of this gold has been transferred from London, and within another month it is expected that all will be here. When this is done, one of the most interesting chapters in international finance will be closed. But there may well be other chapters of a similar character, for the experiment of keeping gold on deposit with a foreign agency has turned out profitable and expedient, and, with the arrangement recently completed with the Bank of France, whereby the local Reserve Bank stood prepared to make advances to French agents here on notification of the earmarking of gold at the Bank of France, the scheme may be extended to Paris as well as to London, and in time even further, as occasion may require.

City Finances.

Fiscal authorities of the city are understood to be well satisfied with the current cash position of the city's treasury, and because of this are quoted as saying that no long-term financing is in contemplation. Nevertheless, it would not be surprising to hear of the inviting of bids on a big issue of corporate stock before next month is out. The condition of the bond market, where long-term city bonds are now selling on considerably better than a 7 per cent. basis, is now thought to be entirely favorable for the floating of $50,000,000 to $60,000,000 of long-time 6 per cent. bonds, and it is considered probable that the city will take advantage of it before many weeks are past.

The Growing Demand For Good Bonds

The prospect of easier money rates, the elimination of wasteful extravagance, and the gradual but sure drop in commodity prices have justified the present demand for good bonds, with the result that bond prices are now reflecting this condition.

$225,000,000 ASKED IN NEW FINANCING

Total Expected to Reach $500,000,000 by Dec. 31 if Bond Market Holds.

FOREIGN CITIES SEEK AID

Berne, Stockholm and Swedish Government Make Advances Here —Utilities Want $50,000,000.

Negotiations, in various stages of completion, for new financing aggregating something in excess of $225,000,000, are now being carried on in the financial district. Of this amount considerably more than half is foreign business. Of the domestic business, bankers say that only a relatively small part is definite enough to be discussed now, and the prediction is made that if the present aggressively strong bond market continues throughout the remainder of the year, the total of new financing between now and the end of December will run considerably above $500,000,000.

The two largest projects of foreign financing now being considered have to do with Brazil and Cuba. The former is arranging for $40,000,000 and Cuba is anxious to raise $50,000,000. The Brazilian arrangement contemplates the creation of a $40,000,000 ninety-day acceptance credit to be refunded out of the proceeds of a sale of long-term bonds for a corresponding amount. This acceptance credit, it was said yesterday, will be announced within a day or two, and will make available immediately for the Brazilian Government sufficient funds to take care of all current requirements. The operation, it is understood, is being handled by a leading banking house and one of the large trust companies.

Plan to Aid Copper Interests.

Details of the Brazilian financing, in their entirety, are not as yet available, but it is said that the money raised will be used to provide funds for the Brazilian coffee interests, which have suffered because of the recent fall in the price of that commodity. One banker said yesterday that the plan would be a virtual valorization of the Brazilian coffee crop. By arranging an acceptance credit now, the bankers and Brazilian Government will have a period of three months in which to complete details for the long term financing.

European financing now being considered includes both national and municipal. The Swiss city of Berne is still negotiating with American bankers for $6,000,000 on long term. Stockholm and the Swedish Government both have made tentative advances to banking groups here and banking groups have made advances to the foreign potential borrowers. Stockholm is the last of the Scandinavian capitals to float a loan here, both Copenhagen and Christiania having already been provided with dollar loans. The amount Stockholm wants, it is said, is between $5,000,000 and $7,500,000, and it is expected that this will be arranged on twenty to twenty-five-year bonds, which will bear 8 per cent. coupon rate.

The Government of Sweden received a loan of $25,000,000 for twenty years at 6 per cent. in June, 1919. Both Denmark and Norway have borrowed here this year, the former $25,000,000 and the latter $20,000,000. Yesterday it was learned that Sweden will shortly make application for another long-term loan of $25,000,000 and possibly for a greater amount.

The Swiss Government will not be in this market again this year. But in addition to Zurich, which already has received $6,000,000, and Berne, which is negotiating for $6,000,000, the City of Geneva is expected to apply for aid. That city just now is floating a loan at home, which may provide all the funds it will require for the time being, but if this does not prove the case a loan here is likely.

Expect Dutch Offerings Here.

Holland also is floating an internal loan and some of the Dutch cities are, too, but bankers here say that tentative proposals have been made for the flotation of American issues of Amsterdam and Rotterdam bonds, and it is believed that these will be offered before the end of the year.

Domestic financing includes the completion of bank credits for slightly more than $10,000,000 for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company. This was arranged yesterday by a syndicate composed of the Chase National Bank, the Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings Bank, Goldman, Sachs & Co. and Lehman Brothers. The money was provided on two to four months bank credits, and it was said that if conditions warranted, this might be refunded into securities for public absorption by the termination of the bank credits.

The General Electric Company, it is said, is preparing to dispose of an issue of $20,000,000 of 6 per cent. debentures now held in the company's treasury, and the Diamond Match Company also was mentioned as a probable early applicant to the investment market.

A new issue of $9,050,000 of Miami Conservation District of Ohio 5½ per cent. bonds, was announced yesterday, by a syndicate composed of the National City Company, Harris, Forbes & Co., and the Guaranty Company. These bonds mature serially in 1925 to 1949 and are being offered at prices to yield from 5.60 per cent. on the shorter to 5.40 per cent. on the longer maturities. The bonds are exempt from all Federal income taxes.

The volume of public utility financing now under consideration is said to be in the neighborhood of $50,000,000 and new municipal financing would account probably for as much more, and would be considerably more if the City of New York should announce the offering of $50,000,000 to $60,000,000 which many bankers look for within the next month or so.

ASK RIO GRANDE JURY TRIAL.

One of the points upon which the Stockholders' Protective Committee of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad expects to postpone or stop the sale of the company's property at foreclosure to satisfy a $35,000,000 judgment obtained some years ago by Western Pacific bondholders, is the fact that the case was tried on the equity side. It is the contention of the committee that it should have been tried before a jury.

A request that it now be tried before a jury is outlined in a brief forwarded by the committee to the Attorney General's office in Washington. The date set for the sale of the Denver properties is Nov. 20.

Will the Public Utilities Follow the Rails?

FOR several weeks railroad bonds have advanced in price, bringing profits to a host of far-sighted investors.

In our opinion, we are on the eve of a similar movement in the public utility field.

Let us send you a list of public utility bonds, where safety and high yield are joined with the opportunity for speculative profits. Ask for Circular T-50.

CUBANS SEEK LOAN OF $50,000,000 HERE

FAVOR FINANCIAL ADVISER

Conditions on the Island Improve—Sugar Laborers Agree to Take Less in Crisis.

Consideration of plans to relieve the financial difficulties of Cuba has not progressed far enough to include details, but it was learned yesterday that Cuban interests are seeking a loan of about $50,000,000 in the United States. It was proposed originally that the Cuban Government borrow on its own credit, but American bankers would prefer to lend direct to corporations on the island, such loans to be guaranteed by the Cuban Government. If the loan goes through there probably will be an offering of securities in the local market in the near future.

News from Washington yesterday that the Government of Cuba had applied to the State Department for the assistance of a financial adviser in the present tense situation, was gratifying to local bankers interested in Cuban affairs. Lenders of funds and sponsors of a public offering of Cuban securities would prefer to have a representative handle the apportioning of proceeds of a loan, and, in addition, Cuban bankers desire to have an American expert assist in putting a clearing house in operation at Havana. The purpose would be not only to systematize banking operations under difficult conditions brought about by the moratorium, but also to make use of clearing house certificates as a substitute for currency as was done at New York in 1914 and 1907.

When the moratorium was declared two weeks ago, shortage of currency immediately became acute. To relieve this embarrassment, between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 Federal Reserve notes have been shipped to Cuba from this country, chiefly through the Reserve Bank of Atlanta. This transfer has helped, and banks and business men have acted to relieve the pressure by using certified checks in place of cash. Checks, certified by the larger banks, have been availed of to meet bills falling due on internal transactions, the final liquidation of this paper to occur after the moratorium is lifted.

Information coming to bankers here from correspondents in Cuba indicate that financial conditions are considerably better than a week ago. Also, business interests, especially those engaged in the marketing of sugar, are finding encouragement because of a changed attitude of labor. J. T. Monahan, Vice President of the Bank of Cuba in New York, said yesterday that customers had written that some workers who received as high as $7 a day for cutting sugar cane had notified employers that they would be ready to help out in the crisis by working for $2 to $2.50 a day. The planters believe that this attitude will have an important bearing upon the cost of producing the next crop of sugar, which begins to go through the mills in January.

RING TRADERS RULE MARKET FOR COTTON

List Recovers After Being Hammered Down 50 Points, and Closes 10 to 25 Higher.

LULL BEFORE NEW SWING

The cotton market yesterday gave every evidence of having degenerated into a purely professional affair. This usually is the case following a major movement and pending the development of a new swing of real scope dictated by economic factors. In such times, the ring traders and the commission houses can carry prices up and down within relatively narrow ranges, but without getting anywhere in particular. Yesterday's was a market of that kind.

At the start it was heavy, opening down 10 points or so and then falling 30 or 40 points more. It looked as if the professional shorts were pretty well covered and the technical position seemed to favor the down side and the ring sold as a consequence. But after hammering the list down 50 points net, some of the traders started a bullish demonstration. They were aided in this by fresh reports of an early settlement of the British coal strike and by some reports of unfavorable weather. While the market was advancing sight was lost of the fact that many private reports of an early settlement of the coal strike had failed of realisation, but this was a factor later on when another downward turn was started. On this second swing back toward low ground not all of the midday gains were lost and the market finished 10 to 25 points net higher. Spots were up 20 points to 23.70 for middling.

Viewed from almost any angle the market was uninteresting and without significance. As stated, it was highly professional and susceptible to ring and office traders' activities. Just now, after the 400 points recovery after the long decline from around 40 cents, the market seems to be trying to find its feet and until that is accomplished it is likely to fluctuate in a way which will be meaningless.

The Capitalization of the Railroads Compared with Their Property Investment Account

The "Class I Railroads," which comprise all steam railroads in the United States whose railway operating revenues or gross earnings are in excess of $1,000,000 per annum, and which in the aggregate comprise about 93% of the railway revenues and mileage in the United States, submitted the figures given below in "Column A" of their "Property Investment Account" to the Interstate Commerce Commission at the time of the recent rate decision.

These "Property Investment Account" figures were reduced by the Interstate Commerce Commission as a basis for the rate increases granted July 31st, 1920, to the amount shown below in "Column B." These rate increases were designed to return "as nearly as may be" 6% on these figures of "Property Investment Account." When the property valuations, now being made by the Interstate Commerce Commission, are completed, these figures will replace the figures of "Column B" and are generally expected to exceed them.

The figures in "Column A" are taken from exhibits filed by the carriers with the Interstate Commerce Commission and are furnished us by the Bureau of Railway Economics. The figures in "Column B" are reduced by the same percentages in each respective zone as were the figures for all of the carriers in such zones by the ruling of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

CLASS I RAILROADS

	"A" Carriers' "Property Investment Account" Oct. 31, 1919	"B" Carriers' "Property Investment Account" figures adjusted by the I. C. C. in Rate Decision, July 31, 1920	"C" Decrease	"D" % Decrease
Eastern	$ 9,115,781,215	$ 8,876,016,696	$ 239,744,519	2.63
Southern	2,157,260,774	1,976,050,869	181,209,905	8.40
Western	8,666,138,954	7,960,715,244	705,423,710	8.14
Totals	$19,939,160,943	$18,812,782,809	$1,126,378,134

The total funded debt, as of Dec. 31, 1919, of the Class I carriers was ... $ 9,818,873,640
The total capital stock, as of Dec. 31, 1919, of the Class I carriers was ... 7,217,912,368
Total Capitalization ... $16,536,786,008

In our opinion, these figures show plainly that Railroad Securities, as a class, are sound investments. Railroad bonds are secured by property valued by the Interstate Commerce Commission's present ruling at over double the par value of all bonds outstanding against them, and the preferred and common stocks have property valuation behind them which exceeds their par value by over two and one-quarter billion dollars after taking account of funded debt. We, therefore, regard underlying railroad bonds as a very conservative form of investment and consider the junior liens of a large majority of the railroad systems as well secured.

We have prepared a selected list of railroad bonds, which we consider particularly attractive at current prices, and will be glad to forward it upon request.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26. — Big upward swings in the price of wheat took place today, accompanied by signs of concerted stoppage of rural selling and by increased export demand. The market closed strong, 9½c to 10¼c net higher, with December $2.09¼ to $2.00⅝ and March $2.02⅞ to $2.02⅝. Corn gained 1⅝c to 2⅛c and oats 1⅝@1⅞c to 1⅝c. In provisions the outcome varied from 25c decline to a rise of $1.10.

Wheat began to ascend in price as soon as the market opened, but it was not until near the end of the day that evidence of unusual momentum appeared. Then houses that have been conspicuous of late on the selling side reversed their position and covered on a broad scale. Gossip spread meanwhile that country offerings were being confined largely to elevator sources and that farmers were letting go of but comparatively little of their holdings. Ready credence was given in some quarters to opinions that the farmers' strike announced some time ago as intended to become effective last night had been responsible. At the same time estimates of export business done today mounted rapidly, totals ranging from 1,250,000 bushels to 2,000,000 bushels, the British and French Governments having been purchasing in India also, it was said.

Independent strength was given to corn and oats by announcement of heavy export buying of corn—700,000 bushels for Belgium, 250,000 bushels for Germany and five loads for Holland.

Higher quotations on hogs gave a decided lift to active deliveries of provisions.

HURT BY FEDERAL CONTROL.

Western Maryland Report Explains Its Decrease in Earnings.

The report of the Western Maryland Railway for 1919 shows a net corporate income, after the deduction of taxes and charges, amounting to $413,906. This was the equivalent of $2.33 a share earned on the $17,742,100 first preferred stock, as compared with $3.10 a share in the preceding year. In his report to the stockholders, Lawrence Greer, Chairman of the Board of Directors, called attention to the disruption of the property as the result of Federal control. He said, in part:

"Upon the initiation of Federal control the operation of the railroads of the company was undertaken by a Federal manager, whose jurisdiction also included a number of other railroads, among which was the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, the company's most active competitor. Further operating sub-divisions were subsequently created, with the result that the Baltimore terminals of the company, together with its grain elevator at Port Covington, as well as its low-grade line over the Alleghany Mountains between Connellsville and Cumberland, constituting its Western connection, and its coal branches in Pennsylvania and West Virginia, but recently completed and designed to reach and serve large and valuable coal developments not tributary to any railroad facilities, were operated as parts of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

"Similarly the line of the Cumberland Valley Railroad was utilized as the connection between the Western Maryland and Philadelphia & Reading Railroads. These disarrangements of operation and transportation resulted in a complete dismemberment and disintegration of the Western Maryland transportation system. For this reason the operating results obtained by the Railroad Administration are of little importance or significance except to the extent that they may disclose the contribution made by the railroads of the country as a part of the war resources of the nation and indicate the conditions under which the railroad is returned to the possession and control of the company."

No Federal operating account for the year was contained in the report.

Adopt New Margin Proposal.

The Association of Stock Exchange firms has adopted the proposal to margin "when as and if issued" stocks to the market. This was suggested some time ago to eliminate the spread which sometimes exists when the actual securities are issued. The new plan will go into effect on Nov. 1.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Blyth, Witter & Co. are offering at par and accrued interest a new issue of $2,625,000 San Joaquin Light and Power Corporation Series D 8 per cent. convertible collateral trust bonds, due Nov. 1, 1935. The bonds will be convertible at any time prior to maturity on the basis of par and accrued interest for Series D 8 per cent. bonds and at 85 for Series C thirty-year first and refunding 6 per cent. bonds of the company.

Elston & Co., Chicago, and R. M. Grant & Co. are offering at 102¼ and interest, to yield about 5.35 per cent., a new issue of $1,000,000 City of Knoxville, Tenn., 5½ per cent. funding bonds, due Sept. 1, 1930.

The Directors of the Royal Bank of Canada have declared a special bonus of 2 per cent. payable on Dec. 15 to shareholders of record of Nov. 30. This will make a total distribution of 14 per cent. for the current year.

Sutro Brothers & Co. have received a cable stating that the Mexican Eagle Oil Company reports the bringing in of a well of 75,000 barrels daily capacity in the Zacamixtle field of Mexico.

PROPOSE CAPITAL INCREASE.

Swan & Finch Stockholders Asked to Vote Addition of $3,000,000.

The Swan & Finch Company has called a special meeting of stockholders for Nov. 10 to vote on an increase in the authorized capital from $2,000,000 to $5,000,000. The increased capital is to be divided into 40,000 shares of $25 par value, 8 per cent. preferred stock, and 20,000 shares of common stock of $100 par value. The preferred is to be redeemable after three years from January, 1921, at $28.75 a share. $500,000 of the preferred stock is to be offered to stockholders at par. The money which will be derived from this sale, it is said, will be needed to carry out plans on which the directors are now working.

With relation to a resumption of dividends, Henry Fletcher, Chairman of the Board, says: "Although the operations of the company for the past year would justify an immediate return to the usual dividend basis, your board believes, in view of the general business conditions, and particularly in view of the proposal to create the preferred stock for the purpose of increasing our cash resources, it would be lacking in conservatism if the company paid a dividend at the present time."

3D AV. DEFICIT GROWS.

The report of the Third Avenue Railway system for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1920, shows a deficit after taxes and charges amounting to $845,396. This compares with a deficit in the preceding year of $720,056. Operating revenues for the year were $11,752,069 as compared with $10,363,447 in 1919, while operating expenses increased to $9,284,722 from $7,741,083. This left net operating revenue of $2,467,347 as compared with $2,622,364 in the year before.

In the report of the system for September, however, the operating deficit for that month decreased to $42,380 as compared with a deficit of $47,531 in September of last year. In the three months ended with September there was an increase in the deficit to $160,426 from $92,843 in the preceding year.

American Railroad Bonds

The changed attitude of the Government towards the railroads of the country ushered in by the enaction of the Transportation Act has been reflected in the recent advance in railroad bonds of all descriptions. While first grade railroad bonds which are eligible for investment by Savings Banks have been selling not far from a 5.50% basis, the lower grade bonds, such as refunding and collateral trust issues, are still selling at prices which seem to assure possibilities for appreciation in the near future.

We have prepared a circular in which is discussed the investment position of such bonds. Copies will be mailed upon request.

"Liar!" "Pup!" Cries Craig at LaGuardia—"No Gentleman," Aldermanic Head Retorts.

MAYOR BUSY WITH GAVEL

J. P. Doyle Suggests Many Cuts—More Than $1,000,000 Clipped from Estimates.

The trouble over budget matters, which has been simmering for weeks between Controller Craig and F. H. LaGuardia, President of the Board of Aldermen, boiled up yesterday, and a physical conflict between the two men was narrowly averted. The Mayor acted the rôle of peacemaker. The row opened yesterday's final public hearing on net year's budget, and was the direct result of the Controller's effort on Monday to have eliminated from the budget an appropriation of $1,900 for a chauffeur for President LaGuardia's city-owned car.

Mr. LaGuardia suggested that the Controller eliminate from his departmental budget an item of $15,000 for auto hire, inasmuch as the city now has a municipal taxi service. The Controller maintained that the surety companies would not bond paymasters riding in municipal taxis.

"Controller Craig made a false statement yesterday," began LaGuardia as soon as yesterday's meeting opened, "and when he made it he knew that it was entirely false. I have caught him with the goods. Look at him now. He objects to my reading letters from three surety companies stating that they are willing to bond city paymasters riding in municipally owned cars."

"You are no gentleman," retorted President LaGuardia, making a move in the Controller's direction. "No gentleman would use such language. You are frightened lest I read these letters. We have caught you with the goods again, and you know it."

"If you cannot stop this unruly pup," shouted the Controller, turning to the Mayor, "I shall have to leave this meeting."

Mayor's Gavel Has Busy Day.

The Mayor pounded with his gavel until he subdued the uproar and then said he did not have the power of a court over the proceedings of the board, but he was doing his best to preserve order. At length quiet was restored and the board resumed consideration of the budget.

Edward P. Doyle of the New York Real Estate Board wanted the Board of Examiners, who license plumbers abolished. Commissioner William J. Flynn of the Public Works of the Bronx said the board was named under a Statewide law, over which the Board of Estimate had no control, and that it was a necessary bureau anyway.

Frank H. Tyler of the Budget Committee of the Brooklyn Real Estate Board presented a statement showing how $9,100,000 a year could be saved if useless jobs were abolished. He said a small appropriation for the Market Department would suffice, and that 1,200 high salaried teachers assigned to special work in the Department of Education could be eliminated. Controller Craig reminded him that the Board of Estimate had nothing to do with any administrative work of the Department of Education.

Mr. Tyler also wanted a number of court attendants dropped and retired policemen brought back to work. Examiners and investigators, other than those employed by the Board of Estimate also were useless, he said.

Controller Craig objected, saying that the law put many duties on his department which could not be properly conducted without examiners and investigators. Mr. Tyler also suggested that $1,000,000 be cut out of the appropriation for the Child Welfare Board and that its administration be put in the hands of the Commissioner of Public Welfare. He said he saw no need for six Tax Commissioners and six assistants. He thought $50,000 could be saved on this account. He said the city should stop paying Judges for drawing juries, something, he said, they never do and save another $50,000.

Wants Policewomen Ousted.

He wanted the Board to dispose of the policewomen and probation officers for the Parole Board, thus saving $300,000 and the dropping of all engineering staffs excepting those of the Board of Estimate, who finally pass upon all engineering matters, at a saving of $2,000,000. He also wanted to dispense with all private secretaries, confidential inspectors and special messengers, which he said would reduce the budget another million.

At the afternoon session the Board wielded its pruning knife on the budget in earnest. The examiners' reports were adopted without discussion after it had been determined that further consideration might be given to all of the departments. The cuts recommended and adopted were:

HITS NEWSPRINT IMPORTS.

French Decree Protests Industry from Foreign Competition.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—A French decree forbidding the importation of paper on rolls appeared in the Journal Officiel on Oct. 24 and goes into effect from Nov. 1.

The preamble to the decree states frankly its purpose, namely, to protect the French paper industry against foreign competition. Articles 5 and 6 of the decree state, however, that licenses for such importation will be given to a body called "French Press Paper Furnishing Society," which is a grouping of representatives of the leading newspapers and paper factories, which "shall establish equalization between the price of foreign paper and that manufactured in France." All newspapers which require foreign paper must, therefore, apply to this body and pay the French price.

It is thus evident that in reality the importation of paper on rolls will not necessarily be stopped, but simply that the French manufacturer will be protected by the raising of its price to home rates.

Article 4 of the decree states that certain clauses of another decree of June 16, relative to importation of paper pulp, will be maintained in vigor. To understand the present decree exactly it is necessary to get the point of this June decree, which is the key to the whole affair. The June decree was really meant as a measure of protection, disguised as something nearly the opposite. It ordained that importations of newspaper paper and pulp should be submitted to the control of a body called the "Newspaper Paper Commission." This commission would—and did—allow a considerable rebate on the duty to be paid by importers.

Thus ostensibly it gave all importers of foreign paper an advantage, but its real purpose was protectionist—that is, it was thought possible by thus passing all importation through one channel to limit it at will. This purpose was not achieved. The preamble of the present decree states that importers of paper and pulp from countries where exchange is favorable to France simply ignored the June decree and its proffered rebate and imported direct. The new decree puts an end to all that. But it does not necessarily put an end to the importation of newspaper paper and pulp.

CABLE PARLEYS SECRET.

State Department Insists That No Reports Have Been Authorized.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The regret of officials and diplomats over the publication of erroneous reports relative to the sessions of the international conference on communications was still further emphasized tonight when the State Department issued a statement dealing with the subject, in which it was explained that up to the present no communication of any kind relative to the work of the conference has been issued or authorized.

"Statements," said the announcement, "have recently appeared in the press purporting to give the substance of discussions which have taken place in the International Conference on Electrical Communications. At the first meetings of the conference it was agreed by all the delegations that nothing should be issued for publication except with the previous approval of all delegations. Up to the present no communication of any kind has been issued or authorized; consequently any statements which may have been published are not based on the authority of any responsible member of any of the delegations.

"The conference thus far has been dealing in detail with the manifold technical problems presented, but no results have been formulated. For example, this morning one of the sub-committees continued during the entire morning a discussion of details regarding certain provisions of the radio-telegraph convention and the international convention. The discussion was a free exchange of views and was intended merely to let each delegation know the views of the other delegations. The very freedom of discussion precludes any publication of the views presented. Likewise this afternoon the technical section, considering scientific aspects of radio, continued its discussion of such problems.

"In neither of these meetings were there any matters which would be of general public interest, although the matters were of importance to those considering the general questions in detail."

WANT HIGHER WHEAT PRICES

Farmers to Hold All Wheat Until $3 a Bushel Is Paid.

WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 26.—The United States Wheat Growers' Association, with a membership of 70,000 in Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Nebraska and South Dakota issued a proclamation from its office here on Oct. 9 urging all its members to refrain from selling wheat after 7 P. M., Oct. 25, until such time as the price of good wheat is increased to $3 a bushel at growers' terminal markets.

The proclamation set forth that the wheat growers' expenses for labor and equipment were the highest average in ten years and that with a reduced price for wheat the farmer stood to lose half his investment.

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 26.—Farmers' organizations throughout Kansas generally have adopted resolutions favoring holding back their wheat until they can get a "fair price" for it. This week's official crop report by the State Board of Agriculture mentioned that wheat shipments were slow. Farmers' organizations have set from $2.70 to $3 as a "fair price." Grain dealers say the volume of wheat now moving to market is less than a fourth the amount normally shipped at this time of year. However, car shortage, it is officially reported, also has been instrumental in preventing shipments.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 26.—J. C. Mohler, Secretary of the Kansas Board of Agriculture, tonight declared there was no farmers' "strike" in that State and said that probably only a minority of the grain growers in Kansas would back the movement.

On the other hand, W. H. McGreevy of Wichita, Kan., Secretary of the Wheat Growers' Association, declared the "strike" was in effect and that the farmers are in the fight to stay.

PLAN BIG STOCK DIVIDEND.

Arkwright Mills to Declare 122 2-9 Per Cent. in Stock.

Special to The New York Times.

FALL RIVER, Oct. 26.—A stock dividend of 122 2-9 per cent. has been recommended by the Directors of the Arkwright Mills, increasing the capital from $450,000 to $1,000,000. This recommendation will be acted on at a meeting of the stockholders to be held at a date not yet announced. It will be accepted.

This dividend from accumulated profits is in line with similar action already taken by other mills here and which is contemplated by others.

At their annual meeting today, shareholders of the Davis Mills accepted a similar proposition when they adopted a recommendation of the Directors for a 33 1-3 per cent. stock dividend, increasing the capital from $1,875,000 to $2,500,000.

Neither the Arkwright nor the Davis Mills have made any cut in their working forces, nor has there been any reduction of wages. The two corporations, like a considerable number of other mills, have been running part time for several weeks.

Indicted for Stock Deal.

DEFENDS PHONE OUTLAY.

McCulloh Says $450,000 for Advertising Was Justified.

The expenditure of approximately $450,000 during 1920 by the New York Telephone Company for advertising and publicity is held to be justified in a statement issued yesterday by J. S. McCulloh, Vice President in charge of operation, in reply to an attack made by M. N. Fertig, Assistant Corporation Counsel, at the telephone rate hearing on Monday before the Public Service Commission.

"We have always believed in frankness in our dealings with the public," said Mr. McCulloh, "as we know that its confidence and good-will are most necessary factors in the successful operations of a public utility, and full publicity concerning the company and its operations is of the greatest assistance in gaining the intelligent support and co-operation of our subscribers.

"The amount the telephone company spends for advertising is relatively small compared with our other expenses or with the advertising appropriations generally made on a percentage basis by other business organizations. Our expenditure last year for the entire territory in which we operate for all publicity purposes was only about $366,000, this amount including salaries, heat, light, rent and other overhead charges, and the entire sum represented only a little more than one-half of 1 per cent. of our total operating expenses for that year."

The telephone company's appropriation for general publicity and advertising throughout the State of New York, Northern New Jersey and part of Connecticut, according to Vice President McCulloh, amounted to approximately $450,000.

TRINITY PLOT SOLD IN OLD GREENWICH

NEAR NEW TUNNEL CENTRE

Commission Announces Method of Acquiring Property for Exit and Entrance.

What evidently indicates an enhanced demand for property near the entrance to the vehicular tunnel from Canal Street to Jersey City was shown in the purchase yesterday from the Trinity Corporation of a plot 50 by 100 feet at the northwest corner of Hudson and Vandam Streets. It was bought by the Carmona Realty Corporation, of which William J. Amend is President. The site is occupied by four tenement structures, being 223 to 231 Hudson Street.

Henry Brady was the broker in the sale. The same buyers purchased last year through Mr. Brady the adjoining nine buildings, at 32 to 48 Vandam Street, opposite the Henry Heide Candy Manufacturing Building, and extending through to 100 to 106 Charlton Street, between Greenwich and Hudson Streets. They now control a frontage of 250 feet on Vandam Street, 100 feet on Hudson Street, and 100 feet on Charlton Street, which will be improved with a large factory building.

Property for Tunnel Needs.

Considerable property in the Canal, Broome, Dominick and Varick Street area, south of Spring Street, will be taken by the New York State Bridge & Tunnel Commission for the proper exits and approaches to the bridge. Many inquiries have been made by realty owners and residents in the district regarding such proposed action. The Commission has just issued a statement to the effect that no real estate has as yet been acquired nor has a decision been made as to what parcels will be taken.

"When the time comes to take property," says the Commission, "that object will be accomplished as required by Chapter 178 of the Laws of 1919, by filing a survey and map in the office showing exactly what properties are needed. After such map is filed all persons having any estate or interest in any parcel to be acquired by the Commission will receive formal notice of such acquisition. The law requires the Commission to appoint appraisers to estimate the values of all parcels taken by it for the purpose of the tunnel. If the owners are satisfied to accept the values so affixed by the appraisers, the amount will be paid them by the State Treasurer, by the direction of the Commission, and it will not be necessary to be represented by attorneys, agents, or brokers for the purpose of securing such sum, unless the owner so prefers or desires.

"If any owner is not satisfied with the value as affixed by the Commission's appraisers, he will have the opportunity to present to the Court of Claims his estimate of value of the property and litigate before that Court the amount which should be awarded to him."

None More Tenderly Cared For, She Asserts, and "More Unintelligently Neglected."

Undernourishment among American children is a very serious problem confronting the United States, according to Mrs. Ira Couch Wood of the McCormick Foundation in Chicago, who spoke yesterday at the convention of the American Dietetic Association in the Hotel McAlpin.

"There is no group more tenderly cared for and more unintelligently neglected than the school children," said Mrs. Wood. "The Government spends millions annually upon domestic animals and the preventing of disease among them, and spends thousands only upon the children.

"Forty per cent. of school children are undernourished. The children of the rich are 12 to 20 per cent. underweight. In Chicago it was found that a group of foreign children near the stockyards were only 17 per cent. underweight, while in an all-American group near the University of Chicago they were 57 per cent. below normal.

"The dangers in the death rate among children can be seen when we realize that our children are in greater danger than soldiers who fought in the war. It was twelve times as dangerous to be a baby in Illinois as it was to be on the front firing line in the French trenches. Each year in this country half a million babies under the age of six years die from neglect and ignorance.

"However, some progress is being made to establish classes in connection with the school system. Youngsters learn to compute their balanced meal in calories and in classes are arranged according to their progress in gaining weight, after the fashion of the old spelling match."

LEAPS TO DEATH ON DRIVE.

Harry Frankel, 37 years old, a salesman who lives with his parents at 725 Riverside Drive, jumped from their apartment on the ninth floor from a window facing the Drive, about 6:30 o'clock last night. He was instantly killed.

According to his father, Max Frankel, a composer and orchestra leader, his son suffered a nervous breakdown about a year ago and spent some time in a sanitarium after which he went to California for a time. About four months ago he came home and has been under the care of a physician.

I. M. M. BUYS GERMAN LINER.

Steamship Berlin to be Refitted and Operated Under White Star.

The International Mercantile Marine Company announced yesterday that the former North German Lloyd liner Berlin had been purchased from the British Ministry of Shipping and would be operated by the company under the White Star flag. After being refitted for passengers, the vessel will be renamed the "Arabic," in memory of the liner torpedoed off the Irish coast in 1916, and will be placed on the New York and Mediterranean service with the liners Canopic and Cretic.

During the war the German navy used the Berlin as an auxiliary cruiser and mine layer in the North Sea until she was chased into the Hardanger Fjord, Norway, by British cruisers. After the armistice the vessel was turned over to the Allies. She is a twin screw steamship of 17,324 gross tonnage, 591 feet long, 69 feet 8 inches beam and 38 feet 5 inches depth of hold. She was built at Bremen in 1908.

DOSTAL CLUB FOR SMITH.

Regular Republican Organization Comes Out for Governor.

The Frank Dostal Republican Club of the Eighth Assembly District, the regular Republican organization club, came out last night for Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic Gubernatorial candidate. At a meeting held at 432 East Ninth Street, the club adopted resolutions unanimously, declaring for Governor Smith's re-election. Virtually all of the 200 members were present. Two years ago the club indorsed the Governor, and at the following election every election district in the Assembly District gave a plurality for him.

"All the sentiment over our way is for Governor Smith," said Frank Dostal, President of the club. "His vote this year will be a record breaker. We carried all of the twenty-nine election districts for Smith in 1918 and will do it again. Two years ago, Governor Smith got 46,010 votes in the district, while Mr. Whitman received only 17,063. We will beat that this year."
